FRENCH TROOPS FIGHT RIOTERS; PARIS PANICKY

Machine Guns Set Up to Halt Disorder.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Fighting their way through police lines to the sacrosanct gates of the Elysées palace—the residence of President Albert Lebrun—5,000 war veterans tonight gave the French capital a sinister foretaste of the more serious disorders expected tomorrow.

The veterans, enraged over the dismissal of the powerful and popular Jean Chiappe as prefect of police, staged a noisy demonstration against the government of Premier Edouard Daladier. The disturbance developed into a series of riots which were put down by mounted republican guards after violent clashes.

Rule at Stake Today.

The rioting was a distinct challenge to Daladier, who tonight was preparing to fight for his cabinet's life in the chamber of deputies tomorrow. At that time he will ask for a vote of confidence in connection with the "clean-up" measures outlined for airing the 60 million dollar Stavisky bond swindle. Chiappe was removed as an outgrowth of the Stavisky scandal.

When the former soldiers ran wild tonight, mounted guards clattered through the streets. The veterans refused to give ground.

In the fighting one republican guard drew his saber and accidentally knocked a flag out of a veteran's hand. He was hauled from his saddle amid howls of rage and forced to kiss the flag. The veterans then hoisted the guard back into his saddle.

Veterans Attack Police.

Several policemen were injured, two seriously, and a number of veterans were bruised. Deputy Scapini, who lost his eyes in the war, was knocked down and bruised. One horse was stabbed and ten veterans were arrested.

Shouting "Long Live Chiappe!" the veterans charged the police time and again. On each occasion the mounted forces came on the gallop. Gradually they pushed the screaming rioters to the Champs Elysees and down to the Arc de Triomphe, where they massed in front of the tomb of the unknown soldier. Then the veterans marched in formation down the Champs Elysées singing the Marseillaise.

Later several thousand veterans gathered at the Place de la Madeleine and started for the ministry of the interior but were again driven back by the charging mounted guards.

Adrian Bonnefoy-Sibour, Chiappe's successor, personally directed the police forces in the day's encounters.

It is generally agreed that anything may happen tomorrow.

Troops Massed in Paris.

That the government is jittery and in a state of fear was indicated by the mobilization of troops in Paris today. A parade of machine guns through the city and the arrival of a company of north African cavalry, known as Spahis and mostly Negroes, provided the last trimmings of a revolution.

Altogether it is a unique situation in European history and the comic opera elements would be worth stressing if real danger did not exist.

Thousands of Frenchmen are convinced a formidable revolutionary movement is on foot to overthrow the republic. But nobody knows exactly what the movement is, where it came from, or who is back of it.

Socialists, who fear that neither police nor machine gunners are sufficient to hold the fort, have perfected plans to hurl proletarian cohorts into the streets to battle with enemies of the republic. The "shock troops" are ready.

Plan Monster Demonstrations.

Republicans of the right who wish to save the republic from a Socialist dictatorship, which they accuse Daladier of trying to set up, plan to overawe parliament. They have conspired to pave the way for Daladier's downfall by staging simultaneously in different parts of the capital tomorrow a series of monster demonstrations.

The angry war veterans, too, are ready. Twenty thousand have been summoned to repeat their demonstrations against the government.

The French communist party entered the arena tonight. It ordered members to demonstrate at factories, railroad stations and in the streets in opposition to the Royalists and their Fascist allies as well as the government.

SUPREME COURT DISMISSES ALL DRY LAW CASES

13,000 Defendants Will Go Free.

A declaration of freedom for some 13,000 American citizens charged with violation of the late national prohibition law was handed down yesterday by the United States Supreme court.

In an opinion prepared by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and concurred in by the eight associate justices, the court decreed that all persons whose prohibition violation cases had not been finally adjudicated by last Dec. 5, when the 18th amendment was repealed, should be set free. The opinion held that repeal canceled the power of prosecution.

Liberty for Appellants, Too.

Included among the defendants who will be dismissed under the court's decision are all those who have appeals pending, regardless of whether they were convicted and sentenced for dry law violations before or after Dec. 5.

According to the department of justice, there are 9,576 prohibition cases, with about 13,000 defendants, now pending in federal courts throughout the country. Persons convicted of violating state prohibition laws, of course, are not affected by the Supreme court's decision.

392 Cases to End Here.

In Chicago and the rest of the federal district of northern Illinois 392 dry law cases will be dismissed as a result of the Supreme court's ruling, District Attorney Dwight H. Green said. Also to be dismissed are 127 injunctions against premises where prohibition law violations were shown. This latter action will be taken with the understanding that owners of the properties are to pay court costs.

Aside from removing the doubtful stigma from the numerous defendants, the dismissals here will clear the way for more important work in the federal courts and the prosecutor's office, and will release a large sum of cash and much real estate scheduled on bonds for defendants.

Stops Capone Conspiracy Case.

The outstanding Chicago case surviving from the prohibition era is the conspiracy indictment against Al Capone and 67 other defendants. Ten thousand separate violations were charged in the Capone conspiracy. Federal agents worked for four years to get their evidence. The case never went to trial, however, and Capone's present imprisonment in Atlanta penitentiary is for income tax evasion.

Another case suddenly ended by the ruling is the $9,500,000 alcohol conspiracy indictment naming Scott S. Durand, head of the Chicago sugar brokerage concern bearing his name and husband of a leader in the Woman's Christian Temperance union. Mr Durand was charged with being one of the leaders of a liquor syndicate. Two years of work by government agents went into the investigation.

No Action on Completed Cases.

The Supreme court emphasized that its decision did not apply to cases in which final judgment, including the settlement of appeal, was rendered before the ratification on Dec. 5 of the 21st amendment, which repealed the 18th amendment. The court declined to indicate what it would do if such a case should be taken before it.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings said last night in Washington, however, that he would give sympathetic attention to any appeals for pardons or paroles by prisoners serving sentences under the defunct prohibition law, if those prisoners had good records.

But the attorney general indicated that he would recommend neither paroles nor pardons for habitual criminals who are serving liquor sentences. The department of justice estimated that about 18,000 persons are now prohibition prisoners in the United States, of whom between 7,000 and 8,000 are serving federal sentences.

In discussing the Supreme court decision lawyers pointed out that the repeal of a criminal statute does not ordinarily prevent the prosecution of violations after the repeal, provided the violations occurred before repeal. This is due to statutory provisions, known as saving clauses, providing for such prosecutions.

The Supreme court decision, however, put the death of Volsteadism on an entirely different basis from ordinary statutory repeal. The court held that, because repeal deprived congress of the power to enact such a measure as the national prohibition law [Volstead act], congress therefore lacked the power to carry on prosecution of

AN UNRELIABLE PILOT IN A SHAKY PLANE WITH BAD WEATHER AHEAD

Mrs. Roosevelt Criticized for Wine Decision

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Yes, Mrs. Roosevelt has received many letters of comment on her recently announced decision to serve recently legalized wine at White House dinners. And all but one of the letters criticized her decision.

But this doesn't particularly disturb her, she told newspaper women this morning, for her experience in public life has convinced her, she pointed out, that "people always will take time to write a note of disagreement," whereas they frequently won't bother to send along a word of praise.

At this point Malvina Thompson, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, spoke up:

"In fairness to the people who write in," she protested, "we ought to mention that we receive many, many kind letters. It just happened that we didn't on this liquor question."

Many Are Anonymous.

Another reason that makes Mrs. Roosevelt unperturbed by the letters of criticism is that so many of them are anonymous, and "Well, you know what you think of an anonymous letter."

Some were signed, however. For instance, the broadside from Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which deplored the serving of wine at the White House, and asserted that Alexander the Great had died at the age of 33 because he had looked overmuch at the wine when it was red.

The theme song of many a letter was, "It's a menace to the youth of the nation to have the White House set the exemple of serving wine."

To which Mrs. Roosevelt commented:

"That brings up the old, old question, Is the White House your own private home or is it entirely the nation's symbol? It can be answered both ways. I guess it always has been answered both ways, and will never be completely answered."

Wants Whisky Served.

And the one letter that didn't object to wine? Well, it really did object, but for a brand new reason. The writer wanted Mrs. Roosevelt to serve whisky [which she won't do] instead of wine. The letter explained that "doctors claim whisky, diluted with water, is much healthier than wine."

No, Mrs. Roosevelt is not going to pay much attention to this letter. Two lovely ladies from the local Junior league, which is staging a big charity ball Friday, came to the conference hopeful of getting publicity for the party. They got more than they wanted.

Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, head of the consumers' advisory board of the NRA, founded the Junior league in 1901. Her close friends, Mrs. Roosevelt and Representative Isabella Greenway, joined in 1904. So the three are going to the party in costumes of these years. Asked about her dres, Mrs. Rumsey said it was "pink with pink rosebuds." Then she burst into an impassioned criticism of the modern Junior league.

Now It's Help Yourself.

"When I helped found the organization," she recalled, "our purpose was to help our neighbor. Now, especially in the big cities, the purpose seems to be for the girls to help themselves. They have magnificent quarters and swim and get their nails manicured. Too often it is a service club, but for the members' own benefit."

The two lovely ladies from the local league tried to interrupt; didn't get very far.

"Do you want us to tell you about the party Friday?" queried one eagerly.

"No," shouted the newspaper women, and turned to listen to Mrs. Rumsey.

DOLLAR SPECULATORS URGED TO SHARE THEIR WINNINGS WITH POOR

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Those who have profited in dollar and franc dealings on the exchange market, Stanley Baldwin thinks, might do well to give some of their winnings to charity and thereby express their thanks to the American brain trust.

In a speech asking funds for a foundling hospital the lord president of the council declared today that "there are people to whom mild fluctuations in dollars and francs and such things mean prosperity; why can't these people make a donation?—they might dedicate it to the brain trust of America."

CWA TO FURNISH MAIDS TO WIVES OF JOB HUNTERS

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Families of idle men who are away from home hunting work and whose wives are ill are going to have maids. The civil works office here announced today it would place 200 Negro housemaids in these homes at $12 a week. Service will be limited, it was explained, to families in which the wife is too ill to care for her children.

If the project proves satisfactory, the number of maids may be increased to 1,000.

Lend, or U. S. Will, Head of RFC to Banks

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—A warning expressly "intended for all banks and bankers," was uttered here tonight by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He said that if the banks did not assume their full share in the recovery program by providing proper credit for private enterprise "there can be but one alternative—government lending."

In an address before the sixth midwinter meeting of the New York State Bankers' association he made this declaration repeatedly. "I would be less than frank," he said, "if I did not say the President would be greatly disappointed if the banks do not perform all their functions." The government had no thought of dictating management of banks, said Jones.

Some "Too Superior."

Some of the bankers in large cities are "too superior," he said, and the cooperation of the great New York City banks in the preferred stock program designed to place the banks in a strong capital position to assist in the recovery movement he termed "a little tardy, a little hesitant."

"I wonder," said Jones, "if the trouble is not in part that we are still suffering from shell shock—still afraid? Of what I am unable to divine. Our property has value and our money has value. It will always be so in America. Furthermore, the depression is over and we are assuredly on the upgrade. With deposit insurance in effect there is no longer any occasion for extreme bank liquidity.

"Up until a few days ago we justified our course with one excuse or another. But now that the President and congress have acted on our money there is no longer any valid reason for hesitation and the government should not be forced to become the banker for every deserving borrower in the United States."

Defends the Banks.

Dr. W. Randolph Burgess, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, agreed that recovery had definitly set in, but denied that commercial banks had been "niggardly" in extending credit to eligible borrowers. He said that among 1,238 loan applications received during the last eighteen months from individuals wishing to avail themselves of the emergency privilege of borrowing directly from the reserve bank, only 250 had sufficient merit to call for detailed investigation.

"After a thorough investigation of these 250," he said, "we decided we could properly run the risk of making loans to 14 borrowers."

Lord Ashley Asks Divorce; Film Star Hit

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Page 3.)

LONDON, Feb. 6 [Tuesday.]—Lord Ashley, eldest son and heir of the earl of Shaftesbury, filed suit for divorce yesterday against his wife. He names Douglas Fairbanks Sr., film star and estranged husband of Mary Pickford, as co-respondent. The legal petition will be served on Lady Ashley and Fairbanks today.

These announcements were made in the London Daily Express this morning. Efforts to reach the principals in the suit failed.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. was cached at a party at the Chelsea residence of Sir Arthur Colfax. He said the action is "a complete surprise to me."

Principals Avoid Comment.

Fairbanks Sr. had not returned to his furnished house on Alfont street early this morning. Alexander Korda, with whom the actor is collaborating in the production of costume films, refused to discuss the case.

Telephone calls to Lady Ashley's home in London and to Lord Ashley at the ancestral county seat, St. Giles's house at Salisbury, went unanswered.

Plays Golf with Wales.

Fairbanks Sr. has been much in the public notice here because of frequent excursions to golf courses with the prince of Wales. He has also often figured prominently in parties where the prince of one or more of his younger brothers were present.

The actor's 15 year old romance with Mary Pickford, during which period the couple were regarded as the ideal married pair, was ended last Dec. 9 when Miss Pickford filed suit for divorce in Los Angeles. She asserted that her husband had been indifferent to her since June, 1930.

Lady Ashley a Former Actress.

Lord Ashley and Lady Ashley were married Feb. 3, 1927. Lady Ashley is the former Sylvia Hawkes, who was a musical comedy chorus girl before she was starred on the London stage. The marriage took place despite vigorous opposition from the bridegroom's father. The earl of Shaftesbury, who is lord steward of his majesty's household, dashed to London on the very morning of the wedding in a desperate but vain attempt to stop the wedding.

The earl indicated publicly his opposition to the linking of the earldom, famous for generations for its piety and philanthropy, with an actress. Lady Ashley is known as one of the most beautiful women in London society.

Lord Ashley is justice of the peace of County Dorset and a lieutenant in the royal Wiltshire yeomanry. He served as an aid to the governor of Bombay in 1929 and 1930 and in a similar capacity to the commander in chief in India in 1930 and 1931.

After the serving of the petition both parties—Fairbanks and Lady Ashley—are understood to have eight days in which to enter appearances. They will then have an additional two weeks in which to file answers. The suit may come to trial by April 12 if it is not defended.

FORD TELLS HIS FORMULA FOR INDUSTRIAL GAIN

Desire to Buy Found Chief Factor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Business recovery, in the opinion of Henry Ford, depends upon the resourcefulness of industry in putting forth new and improved products at high wages and low cost, to stimulate the desire to buy, which creates employment.

The old world, he holds, has passed during the depression, and America is emerging upon a new world with new goods, new methods, new spirit, and a new attitude toward work, which suffered during the whoopee era. Twenty years ago, Mr. Ford was first of the great industrialists to establish the policy of high wages, low costs, and high quality, and his announcement of a minimum wage of $5 a day at that time was both applauded and assailed as "revolutionary."

Markets Can Be Made.

At Dearborn today the automobile leader, who has turned out some 20,000,000 cars, reiterated his doctrine that markets can be made if the product is improved, and prices kept down while wages are kept high, and that enterprise today needs to be directed toward the creation of new desires in the buying public, which makes markets and means production and work. It is the traditional policy of THE TRIBUNE and embraces the theories now being emphasized in THE TRIBUNE'S campaign to expand markets for American industries as the great agency for recovery.

Philosophizing upon some of the economic trends of the day, Mr. Ford maintained one reason America has not expanded its market, domestic and foreign, before this, is because business has been trying to travel out of the depression, offering the same line of goods it took into it. If producers get up-to-date with their products, he holds, then customers appear, and this means production and jobs.

Recalls School Problem.

"This question of recovery," said Mr. Ford, "reminds me of the little boy in our Dearborn school who took for a topic, 'Why Are We Alive?' If he had been able to answer that he would have been answering a problem men have been pondering ever since the human brain began to operate reflectively. For one thing, we're here to improve things, to get the most of life, and make the world a better and more comfortable place for people to live in.

"And isn't that the one key to recovery, for progress means improved products at higher wages and decreased costs, that will cause a demand. The market thus created means production and employment.

"Producers have got to get up-to-date and people who a few years ago were thinking they could live without working by buying stocks have got to get to work.

Cutting Wages Not the Way.

"Some have had an idea that the only way to get along is to decrease costs by slashing wages. That isn't the way.

"The right way is to raise wages and improve the product through acqurate workmanship, which in turn makes the market. Lowering the quality doesn't lower the cost. Neither does lowering wages. To try it that way is nonsense. In reducing costs the main thing is quantity of production and the quality of the men in the plant—we don't keep changing personnel—and there's this—you can always talk to a man, tell him what to do, encourage him to use his head. Quality determines the value, and quantity the price. The people are always looking for quality and that in turn determines the quantity.

"Why, fifteen years ago, a car that ran 50,000 miles was doing good, but we've got cars now that have done 150,000 miles and even 200,000. They've got to be built of the best materials, and that's what sells them.

Wearing Out a Fallacy.

"We don't believe in building cars to wear out. Some of the old model T's are in operation yet, many of them. An automobile represents an investment, somewhat as a home does, and the purchaser, when he's through with it and wants a new car, wants the old car to have a value.

"It's cheaper to work with the best material, it makes closer fits and entails less shop waste. Precision work made the modern engine possible and it can only be done with the best materials. The internal combustion engine is the most highly developed machine in the world today. It is finer than the most delicate watch. And progress has a big field here. This engine will determine the future of aircraft. There must be a different motor, one that will get more horse power for its weight, before airplanes will become common. With all our progress we haven't started yet on real air development. All this, of course, means opportunity for industry and it means employment.

"People are in the world to get the best out of it, and the industry which strives to give them the best and most up-to-date thing without increased costs finds a market. New and improved products stimulate people to buy, which means markets and the road to recovery. The reason this country hasn't found a market before this is that we have been trying to come out of the depression with the same old style of goods we took into it."

What Are New Fields?

"What do you regard as the great fields in which new demands and markets may develop to push along prosperity?" Mr. Ford was asked.

"Two of the greatest fields are home building and transportation," answered Mr. Ford. "Look at the great number of people who want to live in the country, where they can enjoy its delights, fresh air, green trees and garden truck. Nowadays the country is accessible and has comforts, water, pumping, hard roads, electricity. Some years ago we urged a five acre lot, a home and car for $2,500, as being something that would be for mankind's progress and improvement.

"Some are now trying to build up new villages, but the old villages will stand some study in this connection. They were generally located in good places, usually on a stream. They might be improved perhaps easier than new villages might be built. Homes themselves will constantly be improved. You saw those new types at the Chicago fair; lightness of structure, and sunlight.

"Air conditioning will be made good and cheap within the ordinary man's range. Old style buildings, the muskrat style, will be out of date. The first muskrat pulled boughs and twigs together and built a home, and all muskrats since have followed that type of architecture. Man is going to have something new in styles of homes. There will be ventilation, not through windows which let in the dirt and dust but through air conditioning devices, which will make the temperature comfortable summer and winter. They will have warmth in the cold days. The walls will be heated by electricity. Improvements of this sort are coming fast. Think what mechanical refrigeration means away out on the farm.

Houses Now Out of Date.

"Some houses are being built now that are already out of date, that's how fast progress is coming.

"Financing comes into the matter. It is not so much the cost of the home as the cost of the money to build it. But I've always believed that financing is the wrong end to start out anything—start in a small way. Start right and the money will come."

"How do you regard the idea of some of the braintrusters that profits should be removed from business?" the interviewer asked.

"Well," replied Mr. Ford, "I don't know what they mean, and I don't think they do. You can't build anything up except on profit. Life seems to contain the principle of profit. The surplus of today is to start you tomorrow. The prospect of reward has been the great stimulus in enterprise and in progress, which means employment and better living. Of course, the kind of profit they are talking about always kills a business anyway. A business doesn't exist for the sake of profit, the profit exists for the sake of the business.

Russians Study Plant.

"A few years ago forty or fifty Russians came over here and studied our plant. We showed them everything, gave them blue prints to help them get started building automobiles and tractors. But here's the point—they got all this from a concern which had been built up through plowing its profits into the business. Where would the automobile industry ever have been if it had not been for the incentive of profit? It is the profit the public provides that guarantees there will be motor cars next year. And the same with other great developments in material civilization.

"Enough things are developed now to keep industry going for a long time. And it appears to me that what it needs to start it going again, is for people to get into their heads that they must work. People have got a lot of experience out of the last four years. We used our time to develop the V-8. Some seem to have spent the time looking around the corner watching for the 'good old times' to come back. The only thing that will start them back is to get to work. The government can't invent a substitute for work.

"We believe that when a person has something new it is a mistake to hold it back until next year, or until a market shows up. Shove it out immediately and make a market. Our principle is to put every new idea out as soon as we have proved and perfected it. Somebody has said a razor blade with a chromium edge would last a life time if some one would put it on the market. Why not do it? It's just one instance. Technocracy did one thing, after all, for it got people talking about the age of machinery. The machine age has not even started.

Too Many Think, Not Work.

"Where we still lag is that too many people insist on thinking of some way to prosper without working. They have the idea that speculation might help them. That has a quick end, always. Some are still waiting for Santa Claus, but I think they are getting over it. The most essential thing I can see is a complete change of mind as to what constitutes prosperity."

"Do you note any changes in the principles of business?" Mr. Ford was asked.

"The only new thing I see," he answered, "is that people are now getting to consider the other fellow a little. People used to do that automatically in the old American community, which was more equally organized than the present one. Character was the distinguishing mark then, and it will be so again.

"We'll come back a little closer to the golden rule. That would be the best impetus in starting things. In fact, all these things we have been talking about—higher wages, better materials, improved products at low prices—all are a part of this golden rule matter. That takes the whole thing in.

Let Trade Look Ahead.

"Let industry look ahead and sense what the people want. Our principle has been 'sense what the people want then give it to them at the lowest price and of the best quality.' That is the whole secret of business.

"I think life fundamentally is as simple as ever instead of being more complex. The Ford Motor company is as simple to run as was the first machine shop, easier, in fact, for there are more people each doing a part of the work and carrying some responsibility. Life, it seems to me, instead of being more complex, is as simple as ever, but we are perhaps more muddled. That is, we have allowed ourselves to become muddled; there is nothing in modern life to make muddling necessary. We created this modern tempo and we can control it—it need not control us.

"If we are congenial, as we are talking here, there is not half the trouble there is if we are in dispute. So many look for happiness like looking for heaven—if they ever get to it they'll take it with them. And the chance today to do something for another is greater than before, when many people had an idea all that speculation in stocks would let them live happy forever after. One supreme asset is the fairmindedness and good will of the American people. Talk about wealth!—How much would you value that at?

All Matter of Recovery.

"To me all these things seem involved in the matter of recovery, all part of it. Some are still operating on the old order. They are turning out the same old stuff to replace used goods, instead of improving their product and stimulating demand and the desire to possess, which are the foundation of markets, production, and employment. That can't be made to work. This is a new time. The old world is gone, and it is not coming back. We should be mighty glad of that, and get ready for the new world that already is emerging. A new mind, new goods, new attitude, new methods, new spirit—that is the new economic capital we shall have to use."

ARMORED TRUCK OVERTURNS.

An armored money truck belonging to the Commerce Armored Car Protective Service, 1906 Milwaukee avenue, skidded in the freshly fallen snow and overturned yesterday on the outer drive at 52d street. Ralph Schaefer, the driver, and a guard escaped injury.

SENATE ORDERS THREE AIR LINE OFFICIALS CITED

Must Answer to Charges with MacCracken.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—To expectant galleryites today the haling of William P. MacCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, before the bar of the senate was a disappointment. Mr. MacCracken was not haled, except in name, and the proceedings resolved themselves into a jury room debate among the senate lawyers.

But to four others involved in the senate investigation of postal subsidies to air mail lines and steamship companies the day's events cast an ominous shadow before them.

Walter F. Brown, former postmaster general under President Hoover, had no part in abstracting from the files in Mr. MacCracken's office certain correspondence subpœnaed for examination by the special senate committee of investigation headed by Senator Hug. L. Black [Dem., Ala.]

But Mr. Brown, said Senator Black to his colleagues, give out air mail contracts to favored companies; he sponsored collusion among bidders for contracts; he had an interest in companies which directly or indirectly profited by the subsidies which he handed out.

Senate Arrests 3 Others.

Harris M. Hanshue, president of the Western Air Express; Gilbert M. Givvin, his assistant, and L. H. Brittin, vice president of Northwest Airways, Inc., were the other three to whom the legalistic arguments were of vital interest. For at the end of two hours' debate the senate ordered that the three be joined with Mr. MacCracken in a citation to show cause why they should not be held for contempt, and that they be brought before the senate next Friday.

It was Givvin and Brittin who visited MacCracken's office last week and got the documents. It was Hanshue who told Givvin to get the "personal" letters and other papers referring to Western Air Express. Returned to the committee later, the papers turned out to be not personal but very businesslike documents dealing with air mail and subsidies.

Vacate MacCracken Arrest.

The senate agreed to vacate its previous order under which Mr. MacCracken was arrested and later released on bail. He and the three air company officials who must come before the bar with him are merely cited to appear and are not in custody or under bond.

Senator Black told the senate in detail about the circumstances leading up to the committee resolution, which, in turn, led to Mr. MacCracken's arrest last Friday. He recalled the testimony before the committee telling of a meeting of air company executives called by Mr. Brown and held in a room adjacent to the postmaster general's office in May, 1930. Mr. MacCracken was chairman of the meeting.

Says Contracts were Divided.

"The discussion," said Senator Black, "hinged around a proposal to divide up the United States into various air mail routes and decide which particular air mail operator should have which particular air mail contract."

The law, he pointed out, forbids such confidences among prospective bidders, and provides not only that contracts so arranged for beforehand shall be void, but also that the recipient of such a contract shall be disqualified to make further bids for five years. Then the senator went on:

"The postmaster general was a stockholder in the Pennsylvania railroad, the Pennsylvania Road corporation, and the International Mercantile Marine, all directly or indirectly beneficiaries through postal subsidies.

"This likewise was a violation of the law, for it is violative of the law for a person to allot any government contract who is directly or indirectly interested in the organization to which the contract goes.

Reads Federal Statute.

The senator picked up the bulky volume of United States statutes which had been reposing on his desk and read therefrom that such a person might be fined $3,000 or jailed for three years. From one of the galleries came a soft whistle—"Whew."

"Millions were distributed every year," Senator Black went on, "by virtue of contracts stifling competitive bidding and paralyzing the arm of the government. These contracts were awarded collusively and fraudulently. The whole system rested on a rotten foundation."

He disposed of Mr. MacCracken's first contention, that he would not produce the desired correspondence because it was privileged as between lawyer and client, by declaring that Mr. MacCracken was not acting in a capacity that entitled him to a lawyer's protection. MacCracken was acting in two capacities, he said, first, as a lobbyist, and secondly, as an obtainer of contracts.

"Moreover," he declared, "no privilege can spring from an illegal contract or one contrary to public policy."

10 MILLION CONTRACT ON U. S. NAVY PLANES NETS 50 PCT. PROFIT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Learning that one contractor had made a 50 per cent profit in 1930 on a 10 million dollar navy airplane engine order, a house naval affairs subcommittee today set out to determine why, and Chairman Delaney [Dem., N. Y.], expressed the opinion that the "real profit might have been even more."

He will summon officials of the firm, the Pratt-Whitney company, to testify. The 50 per cent profit figure was based on a navy audit presented to the committee today by Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the navy's aeronautics bureau.

The audit showed Pratt-Whitney from 1927 to 1933 did $21,299,867 worth of engine business for the navy at a 36 per cent profit, while the Wright Aeronautical company was making 5 per cent on contracts for $11,338,130.

SUPREME COURT DISMISSES ALL DRY LAW CASES

violators through any statutory saving clause enactment.

It was pointed out in the decision that such a saving clause would have been effective if it had been written into the repeal amendment to the constitution before the amendment was submitted to the states, but that this was not done.

Cause of the Decision.

The Supreme court's ruling was given in the case of Claude Chambers and Byrum Gibson, who were indicted last June in a North Carolina federal court on charges of possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor. Chambers pleaded guilty, but judgment was deferred until the December term of court.

Gibson's case was called for trial last Dec. 6, the day after repeal of prohibition. Chambers thereupon demanded that his guilty plea be set aside, and Gibson filed a demurrer to the indictment on the ground that repeal of the 18th amendment had deprived the court of jurisdiction.

The district judge upheld Gibson's contention. The district attorney then appealed directly to the Supreme court and asked a speedy decision so that the status of other pending cases might be settled.

Supreme Court's Ruling.

The Supreme court in its opinion declared that when the 21st amendment was ratified on Dec. 5 "the 18th amendment at once became inoperative."

"Neither the congress nor the courts could give it continued vitality," the decision added, explaining that the "national prohibition act, to the extent that its provisions rested upon the grant of authority to the congress by the eighteenth amendment, immediately fell with the withdrawal by the people of the essential constitutional support." The opinion went on:

"The continuance of the prosecution of the defendants after the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, for a violation of the national prohibition act alleged to have been committed in North Carolina, would involve an attempt to continue the application of the statutory provisions after they had been deprived of force.

"Prosecution of crimes is but an application or enforcement of the law and if the prosecution continues the law must continue to vivify it. The law here sought to be applied was deprived of force by the people themselves as the inescapable effect of their repeal of the 18th amendment."

ROOSEVELT SIZES UP AFFAIRS AND NURSES A COLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sized up national affairs from the quiet of his study today, as he denied himself to callers, nursed a slight cold and caught up on an accumulation of correspondence.

The cold did not keep Mr. Roosevelt in bed. He dressed and went to his study to dictate mail.

The President is carefully watching the progress of his new monetary program and welcomed a week-end of relaxation as an opportunity to study its results and plan new moves which will come with the operation of the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund.

THOUSANDS VIEW THRILLING BLAZE IN PROVISO YARDS

Flames Visible Ten Miles; $50,000 Damage.

A spectacular fire swept the west end of the Proviso yards of the Chicago and North Western railroad last night when a tank car filled with gasoline exploded from spontaneous combustion and ignited four other gasoline cars. The damage was estimated at $50,000.

The flames from 40,000 gallons of gasoline in the five tanks shot hundreds of feet into the air and burned with such ferocity the roar was heard a mile away. The suburban district was lighted for miles around, and residents as far as 10 miles away watched the flames stabbing skyward.

Thousands Watch Spectacle.

Thousands of persons lined the Wolf road viaduct, which extends over the yards from Lake street to St. Charles road, to watch the work of firemen from six nearby villages and Chicago in their efforts to control the conflagration. But many were finally forced from their vantage point when the fire attacked the viaduct and burned away much of its wooden planking, causing about $10,000 damage. Traffic on the road necessarily will be halted until repairs are made.

The fire started almost directly under the viaduct where the five gasoline cars were standing. When the explosion occurred both ends of the ignited car were blasted out, the burning fuel being spattered over the other tank cars and three freight cars. Two of the freight cars contained merchandise ready for shipment out of the yards, and the other was empty. All eight cars were destroyed.

300 Freight Cars in Danger.

A dozen other freight cars caught fire and nearly 300 more were endangered, but these were sidetracked to safety by half a dozen switch engines, and the flames soon were extinguished. The Continental Ice company's plant, a $50,000 structure, which was within 500 feet of the seat of the fire, was set ablaze, but it was saved.

Chief Michael Corrigan, head of the Chicago fire department, accompanied three companies of firemen and equipment to the scene. Fire apparatus was also summoned from the surrounding villages of Berkeley, Hillside, Bellwood, Melrose Park, Elmhurst, and Maywood.

MELVIN TRAYLOR GAINING WITHOUT AN OXYGEN TENT

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, was getting along so well last night in his recovery from pneumonia that it was believed he would not have to resort to the use of an oxygen tent any longer. The tent, which was installed in his home at 426 Barry avenue during one of the numerous setbacks during his three weeks' fight against pneumonia, was removed at 8:40 a. m. yesterday.

The banker was reported to have experienced two low spells during the day while accustoming himself to breathing without the use of the tent, but in spite of these his family physician, Dr. William R. Cubbins, said he had spent a very good day.

FAVORITISM AND GRAFT CHARGED IN CLOSING BARS

Charges of political favoritism and graft in the closing of forty-nine Hyde Park and Englewood saloons were made yesterday in a noisy hearing before Master in Chancery Julius H. Miner as he took over the call of Circuit Judge William V. Brothers. A dozen lawyers were in court seeking a temporary injunction to restrain the city from interfering with the operation of 19 taverns in Hyde Park and Englewood until the city council passes a regulatory ordinance. The hearing was postponed until Monday on information from Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman that such an ordinance will be submitted to the council Wednesday.

Attorney Charles C. Roe said that 22 Hyde Park saloons have been closed while 80 were allowed to operate, while in Englewood 17 were closed and 165 left open by police actions in the last few days.

"We are informed that the only reason we were closed is that we are in originally dry territory," said Roe. "But tavern owners whom we represent are closed while administration pets are allowed to remain open across the street."

Unemployed in Britain 2,389,068; a Big Increase

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—A heavy increase in unemployment in Great Britain is revealed in ministry of labor returns for January, issued tonight. The total of workless persons registered Jan. 22 was 2,389,068. This is 164,989 more than the month previously, but 513,997 fewer than a year ago.

NRA A FAILURE, SAYS DICKINSON; CITES JOB CUTS

Employment Shows Drop in Three Months.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Is NRA falling down on its job?

Employment in industry, instead of increasing, fell off about 7 per cent between Sept. 30 and Dec. 31, according to the latest department of labor statistics.

Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] says this showing demonstrates conclusively that the National Recovery administration is failing to revive industry, if, indeed, it is not actually retarding recovery.

Gen. Hiugh S. Johnson, chief of NRA, says the figures prove nothing beyond a seasonal decline in employment and a reaction to the unnatural industrial boom of last summer and asserts that since Jan. 1 employment in industry and commerce has been bounding upward again. Another business boom has set in, says the general, and his only fear is that it will zoom too high under speculative influences.

Total Employed Drop.

By the end of September 18,330 manufacturing establishments reported to the labor department 3,362,727 employés. On Dec. 31 there were 18,015 reporting establishments with 3,125,093 employés, a decrease of 237,634. With 1926 representing 100 the index numbers of employment in the reporting industries for September and December are:

	—Percent— Sept.	Dec.
Food and kindred products	100.1	98.5
Textiles and their products	88.5	79.7
Fabrics	94.3	86.7
Wearing apparel	74.6	63
Iron, steel and their products, not including machinery	74.8	69.8
Machinery, not including transportation equipment	61.7	63.1
Nonferrous metals and their products	71.8	67.7
Transportation equipment	61.8	58.7
Railroad repair shops	51.1	49.7
Lumber and allied products	51.1	46.9
Stone, clay and glass products	52.9	49.1
Leather and its manufactures	85.7	74.6
Paper and printing	88.7	90.5
Chemicals and allied products	95.9	97.3
Rubber products	89.4	84.6
Tobacco manufactures	69.1	69.5

Despite the reduction of the hours of labor which was designed to put men back to work in enormous numbers, employment in 89 reporting industries declined from an index number of 73.9 in September to 70.1 in December. And despite the fixing of minimum wages total pay rolls fell from an index number of 53.3 in September to 49.8 in December.

Dickinson Cites Figures.

"These figures speak for themselves," said Senator Dickinson. "They give a hollow ring to the much vaunted claims of the new dealers that NRA is bringing about a revival of business. Decreasing employment during the last quarter of 1933 and decreasing pay rolls, I am sure not even the most optimistic New Dealer will cite as evidence of expanding business and recovery of prosperity.

"These statistics illuminate with a lurid light the establishment of the civil works administration. By the first of November the administration was well aware that NRA had flopped, that it could not be relied upon to reduce the volume of unemployment.

"With employment actually falling off, instead of increasing as had been promised, the administration faced a popular outburst of condemnation of NRA that would have been disastrous to the New Deal program. In order to avert such a catastrophe, the President invented the CWA to give work to the unemployed, including those who were losing their jobs in the industries regimented under the NRA."

Calls Figures Inadequate.

Gen. Johnson waved aside the labor department statistics as fragmentary and out of date.

"These figures don't show the whole picture," said the general. "They are confined to a relatively small number of industries which see fit to report. They do not cover commerce in which the results of the operation of NRA were most conspicuous.

"Of course, there was a falling off of employment in some industries. There had been an unnatural speculative industrial boom in the summer in anticipation of the effect of shortening hours and increasing wages under NRA.

"That boom boosted employment to a higher level than otherwise would have been the case. After the boom was over and industry settled down to more normal conditions, the employment level of the boom period declined. There was also the usual seasonal decline.

Says 3 Million Put to Work.

"But the fact remains and cannot be argued away that NRA has put about 3 million men back to work since the middle of last July. And now employment is increasing more rapidly than at any time since the establishment of NRA. The figures for January will be out in a few days and will show that industry and commerce are booming with the increase of employment more than wiping out the decrease in the latter part of last year. Our only danger is that the boom will run into speculative excesses."

Gen. Johnson holds to the view that a further reduction of the hours of labor is going to be necessary if industry is to absorb four million men released from the CWA in May. The reduction, however, would not be by fiat but by voluntary agreement.

Whereas the hours of labor under the codes now average 40 a week, Gen. Johnson thinks that a 36 hour week might be voluntarily established in some plants.

More than 600,000 wage earners previously unemployed were given work in the manufacturing industries of the United States in the period from July to October, 1933, according to estimates announced today by the national industrial conference board. This increase was brought about by reduction in average hours per week from 42.3 in July to 35.8 in October.

The total number of wage earners normally employed in the manufacturing industries is estimated by the conference board at 9 millions, and the number at work in October, at 6,686,000. According to these estimates there remained unemployed in October a slack of 2,314,000 industrial wage earners.

Examining the possibility of taking up the slack in employment by shortening the work week to 30 hours, the conference board finds that with no greater production than in October, this would absorb only a little more than one-half of the estimated slack.

Computations of the conference board indicate that a 30 hour week with October production would provide work for 1,979,000 wage earners, or 1,293,000 more than the number estimated to have been at work in October, but would leave 1,021,000 still unemployed; and that to provide employment for all the 9 million potential workers without increasing production would require reduction of work time to 26.6 hours per week.

TALE OF THE GIGGLING CIGARET AND THREE FELLOWS NAMED GUS

Three fellows named Gus and a mysterious laughing cigaret occupied the attention of the detective bureau last night. One of them was Gus Anton, 37 years old, 838 Madison street, and he was under arrest. The others were Gus Calamatos, a fruit store owner at 835 Polk street, and Gus Demos, a grocer at 14 South Paulina street.

"One night last October," said Gus Calamatos, "Gus Anton comes to my store. He gives me a funny tasting cigaret, which I smoke. It makes me laugh, and I feel so happy I give Gus Anton $200. He gives me another cigaret. I laugh some more, and give him $200 more. The next day I'm still laughing, and I give him $490 more. Altogether I give Gus Anton $890, and I don't see anything to laugh about that."

The story of Gus Demos was not so laughingly complicated, although he smoked one of Gus Anton's laughing cigarets. It was about 10 days ago, he said, that Gus Anton gave him a cigaret which he smoked. Then he jumped on him and took $250, Gus Demos charged.

To all of which Gus Anton will reply in the Felony court today.

HUSBAND SPEEDS HIS DEPORTATION TO CHASTEN WIFE

It was back in 1924 that Holger and Dagmar met. He was a seaman on the steamer King Oscar II., and she an immigrant passenger, bound for America. They fell in love, got married in New York after Holger deserted ship and eventually moved to Chicago. There was, however, one ever threatening cloud in their lives. Holger had entered the country illegally.

This illegal entry, while a threat to his domestic happiness, was at the same time a weapon to enforce domestic peace. Whenever he and Dagmar quarreled, Holger would say: "I'll surrender to the government, and I'll be deported." The threat always worked, because Dagmar loved Holger, and besides he always mentioned a girl in Copenhagen.

But yesterday Holger and Dagmar had a real quarrel. Holger threatened to surrender as an illegally resident alien. "Go ahead," challenged Dagmar, unexpectedly. Forced to make good his threat, Holger surrendered to police, and now he's being held as a government prisoner and a possible prospect for deportation.

Dorothy Darling, Former Film Player, Asks Divorce

Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell, 20 years old, 1741 Warren avenue, who has appeared in motion pictures as Dorothy Darling, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against H. Paul Mitchell. The bill, filed by Attorney Irving Eisenman, charged that Mitchell deserted her on Nov. 15, 1932. They were married March 10, 1931, at Tia Juana, Mexico, and were married again at Bonifall City, Utah, four days later to make the marriage valid in this country.

ROCKEFELLER JR.'S SON LEAVES YALE TO ENTER FIELD OF INDUSTRY

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Reports that Winthrop Rockefeller, son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., had left Yale university, were tonight confirmed at Yale. Requests for the reason for his retirement met with the statement that no more information would be given.

Mr. Rockefeller has been in Yale university about two years and has been a popular, although rather retiring young man. He entered the class of 1935 and about a year ago dropped into the class of 1936. He was an excellent golfer.

While no reason for his withdrawal was available, it was reported on the campus that he had decided to enter business. He is believed to be at his home in New York City.

ONLY 1 OPPOSES 950 MILLION FOR RELIEF AND CWA

Texan Lone Dissenter in House Vote.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Only one lonely "no" was heard today as the house of representatives voted overwhelmingly to appropriate 950 million dollars for continuing the government's direct relief and CWA activities.

It was the voice of Representative George B. Terrell, Democratic representative at large, from Texas, which rang out in futile and solitary opposition to the administration measure. Those representatives who had threatened as recently as last Saturday to revolt against the bill changed their minds and joined in the avalanche of 382 ballots cast in its support.

For Dole and CWA.

The 950 millions is to be used by the federal emergency relief administration for keeping up the federal dole to the idle for another year and for continuing the civil works administration until the early part of May. About 500 millions is to be used for the former purpose, it was said, and about 450 for the CWA, although this division of the fund is by no means arbitrary.

The parliamentary strategy employed by the Democratic leadership of the house was regarded as responsible for the collapse of the threatened revolt. Bringing the measure up under a suspension of the rules, the leaders maneuvered the membership into the position of having either to vote for the measure or of being placed in the thankless political light of opposing new federal funds for relief purposes.

It was a question of voting for or against a new 950 million dollars for relief and CWA operations, and the members, barred from any chance to explain their ballots, refused to oppose the bill, even though many of them wanted the total raised to a billion and a half or two billions.

Representative Kent E. Keller [Dem., Ill.], leader of the incipient revolt in favor of a more generous appropriation, contends himself with a brief plea for additional funds and a final vote in favor of the 950 millions carried in the bill. His fellow "insurgents," likewise refused to buck the measure and voted solidly for the administration plan.

Representative Terrell, who was one of the two lone Democrats to vote recently against the Roosevelt gold revaluation bill, based his opposition today on the ground that the expenditure of federal funds for state, municipal and private projects is unconstitutional. He feared no political consequences from his failure to support Mr. Roosevelt, he said.

"I don't need any office," he declared. "I'm going to exercise my constitutional rights every time and vote as I please. I wouldn't sell my independence for any office I ever saw. The rest of the house can act like a herd of dumb driven cattle if it wants to, but nobody is going to crack the whip over me."

Calls It Unsound Policy.

Not only is the administration's outlay of government funds for municipal and state projects without constitutional sanction, said Mr. Terrell, but it is "unsound business policy."

"The sooner the government terminates this proposition, the better it will be for the country," he asserted. "It's going to start civil war and revolution when we do cut off the CWA and I don't want to see our people begin to rely too strongly on federal pay checks.

"Another objection," he continued, "is that these emergency outlays are going to create a perpetual bond issue that will be a never ending drain on the resources of the people."

EVANSTON POLICE SQUADS TO CRUISE IN RENTED AUTOS

The Evanston city council last night contracted with an automobile concern to rent cars to the suburb's police department for use as squad cars. The bid of Bernard and Lee, Evanston dealers, was accepted out of four estimates received. Under the contract eight cars will be turned over to the police at a rental of $7.50 per week per car plus 2 cents a mile. The dealers will supply the gasoline and keep the cars in repair.

'MYSTERY' ABOUT GARBO STOPOVER HERE EXPLODED

Greta Garbo, mystery woman of the Hollywood movie colony, was the center of a bogus mystery last night that kept many amateur sleuths busy between here and Pittsburgh.

It was reported during the afternoon that the Swedish actress had passed through Chicago, en route to New York, and was speeding east on the Manhattan Limited. It was also rumored that her friend and director, Rouben Mamoulian, was with her. The two have been mentioned recently as figuring in a desert romance.

Mamoulian, it was established, was in the city during the day for a brief stopover before continuing to New York, but he was traveling on the Century. He denied Miss Garbo was in the city or with him. Moreover, word came from Hollywood that she was in Hollywood.

The amateur sleuths then returned their attention to the Manhattan Limited, where Miss Garbo was believed to be aboard. Trainmen at every stop denied the actress was on the train, and significantly suggested the reports emanated from a private drawing room at the rear of the train. At Pittsburgh the sleuths got into the drawing room. Inside they found a group of Chicago brewers, who grinningly admitted spreading the Garbo mystery yarn.

FORMER WIFE OF GEORGE J. GOULD GIVEN DIVORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Laura Marguerite Crowden of Eaton square, London, was granted a divorce from her husband, Roy Charles Crowden, actor, here today. The divorce was issued on grounds of adultery. Crowden is known on the American stage as Roy Royston.

At the time of their marriage in London in December, 1927, Mrs. Crowden was the divorced wife of the late George J. Gould, American millionaire.

Mrs. Crowden's case was based on the charge that when her husband returned from America he neglected her. While she was stopping at the Mayfair hotel her husband arrived in the same hotel with another woman, she asserted.

REVEALS SPLIT OF PROFESSORS OVER NEW DEAL

Most of Them Skeptical, Dr. Willis Says.

The economic policies of the new deal do not have the general academic support and professional blessing which they are generally believed to have, Dr. H. Parker Willis, professor of banking at Columbia university, declared yesterday. In a talk before Chicago alumni of Columbia at the University club he said that the great majority of economics, political science and social science professors are skeptical of the new deal or openly opposed to its policies.

Dr. Willis said it is his own belief that the new deal will fail because it is not "self consistent."

The money and banking policies of the administration are viewed with particular dubiousness by the professors, he said. The feeling is so strong, he declared, that a majority of the faculties of Columbia, Yale, and Cornell universities have joined in open letters to President Roosevelt, repudiating academic acceptance of the measures that have been put forward by members of the "brain trust," to which the three universities have contributed.

Criticizes Eastern Press.

Asked why this was not generally known, Dr. Willis blamed the eastern press.

"The large newspapers of the eastern states," he explained, "are inclined either to refrain from criticism or indulge in praise for the administration. This is particularly true in New York City.

"Chicago and the middle west are fortunate," Dr. Willis continued, "in having a sigularly outspoken, courageous, public spirited newspaper in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It has taken a stand for ventilating the issues by giving measured, reasoned criticism in discussing the most important economic questions to be raised since the civil war. By contrast, the newspapers generally are not providing an accuraee, full picture of the new deal."

Hits Monetary Policies.

Returning to the attitude of the professors, Dr. Willis said there is little or no academic support of administration monetary policies. These canot be expected to help accomplish the administration's object of raising prices, he asserted. They are based on a false premise and illustrate one of the inconsistencies of the new deal, he said.

"Because 60 or 70 Columbia professors are collaborating with the government in one way or another," Dr. Willis went on, "a false impression has been created that the university is unreservedly in favor of what is called the new deal."

He pointed out that 37 of 50 members of the Columbia business, economics, political science, and social science departments signed a letter opposing "brain trust" economic policies.

SEEKS TO INDICT POLICE KILLER ON MURDER CHARGE

Soon after a coroner's jury recommended that James Lawler, suspended New City station policeman, be held to the grand jury for manslaughter, Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan announced he would seek to have Lawler indicted for murder. Policeman Frank Minsa was shot and fatally wounded Jan. 29 by Lawler, who pleaded he shot in self-defense. Witnesses told the coroner's jury that Lawler fired because Minsa refused to drive him home in his automobile when the two met in an oil station at 6701 South Western avenue. The suspended policeman is being held in the county jail.

JAPAN PREVENTS PUBLICATION OF NAVAL WAR STORY

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Japanese government began making good today on its recent promise to soft pedal Japanese-American war talk. As its first move, the government prevented circulation of a pamphlet describing an allegedly impending naval conflict on the Pacific.

The author is Kyosuke Fukumaga, retired naval lieutenant commander, who wrote the "Forecast of Japanese-American War" in the magazine Hinode, seized by United States customs officials at Honolulu Dec. 13.

Although his work was not actually suppressed, Fukumaga heeded the naval office's "advice" not to publish it.

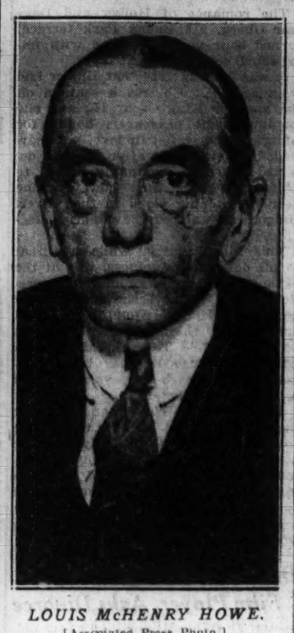
IN BAD HEALTH



LOUIS McHENRY HOWE.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt may be forced to shake up his White House secretariat, because of the protracted illness of Col. Louis McHenry Howe, his political secretary and long time confidante, it was learned today.

Only continued bad health and a need for restful recuperation on Col. Howe's part will, however, make the President drop from his secretariat the man who has been his constant adviser and friend since the days when the President was a member of the New York senate, it was said.

Col. Howe, who lives at the White House, has been ill for some weeks. He is 64 years old.

Withdrawal of Col. Howe from the White House secretariat would mean the promotion of either Marvin H. McIntyre or Stephen Early, the other two secretaries, to his position or the bringing in of a new man. Mr. McIntyre is considered a likely candidate.

EFFORTS TO END TAXICAB STRIKE IN NEW YORK FAIL

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Hope for immediate settlement of the taxicab strike vanished tonight as the drivers, after an earlier rejection of the peace program put forward on behalf of Mayor F. H. La Guardia, formulated new demands upon their employers. The latter demanded time for consideration.

Meanwhile Mr. La Guardia made known that he was seeking an NRA code for the taxi industry. The mayor, in effect, warned the strikers not to prolong settlement negotiations unduly, reminding them of his power to put additional chauffeurs on the streets through his control over the issuance of hackmen's licenses.

The mayor's stand was made known in dispatches from Washington. During the day he conferred there with Gen. Johnson, NRA head, on the need to stabilize the taxi industry and with Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board.

Besides the mayor's statements, other elements added complications to the taxicab situation. A representative of the employés of Fifth Avenue Coach company appeared at a meeting of striking hackmen to announce that an effort would be made to call a bus strike in sympathy with the taxi walkout.

BEGIN OPERATION OF NEW CODE FOR MILK TRADE HERE

Administrator Explains U. S. Marketing Plan.

The machinery by which the federal agricultural adjustment administration hopes to bring about smoother operation of the milk and cream industry of the Chicago region was set in motion here yesterday.

The mechanism consists chiefly of a license, issued by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and made effective yesterday, which requires every distributor of milk to pay at least 3.8 cents a quart [$1.75 a hundred pounds] for all milk sold in Chicago and suburban markets as such, and at least 2.7 cents a quart for all milk from which cream is extracted. No attempt to fix retail prices of milk or its products is being made.

Four U. S. Officials Here.

The government has assigned four men to administer the various provisions of the milk license for Chicago, and to see that the intricate financial and legal network created by the AAA obtains the prices for 20,000 farmers that the license provides.

Frank C. Baker, former Kansas City grain dealer and dairy farmer, was named administrator. While subject to orders from the AAA his salary is to be paid from deductions from farmer and dealer milk checks as part of the administration cost. His office was set up yesterday in room 718, 506 South Wabash avenue.

The other AAA proconsuls include W. C. McQueen, former president of the Pure Milk association; W. B. Connor and W. C. Hunter. The two former are not directly responsible to Baker, he said, but will report on complaints and investigate violations of the license direct to Washington. Hunter is being assigned here temporarily by the AAA legal division to prosecute alleged violations. He is expected to arrive today.

Confers with Milk Officials.

Baker conferred with spokesmen for Chicago milk companies and the Pure Milk association, representing 18,000 farmers, at the Great Northern hotel yesterday.

Among the features of the new marketing plan outlined by Mr. Baker was one which provides that every farmer whose milk or cream is sold in this region must be assigned a quota as to how much of his milk can be sold at the prices fixed in the license. Mr. Baker will fix these quotas, based upon the farmers' past production records.

Another provision is that the Pure Milk association is to permit every farmer in the area, whether a member or not, to obtain the privilege of having his milk tested, inspected, and his pay check guaranteed against failure of dealers to pay. Every milk distributor in the area is being required to post some security or a bond to insure payment of farmers for milk, not later than Feb. 20.

Fixes Stiff Penalties.

Several penalties are set up against violations of the license by milk companies. One of these is that violators may have their license to operate revoked, with a fine of $1,000 per day for operating without such a license.

Another provision of the license makes possible the forfeiture of the bond or securities posted by milk distributors who violate the license by failure to pay farmers at least by the 15th of the month following receipt of milk or cream.

OPEN HEARING ON INSULL RECEIVER ACTIONS TODAY

Hearings before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, to determine whether the Insull receiverships were brought collusively and constituted a fraud upon the court, will begin at 10 o'clock this morning.

The inquiry was ordered by Judge Lindley, who held original jurisdiction in the Insull cases, on his own motion after Federal Judge Evan A. Evans had found that the Insull Utility Investments receivership suit, and by implication Corporation Securities and Middle West Utilities actions, were brought collusively. This was on a petition of former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson to block further allowances of fees to Calvin Fentress, receiver of Insull Utility Investments, and his counsel.

Attorney Henry I. Green, appointed special counsel by Judge Lindley to conduct this inquiry, announced that he would call all the witnesses who appeared before Judge Evans, and several others.

DELAY REPORT ON INSULL'S ABILITY TO LEAVE GREECE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Feb. 5.—Two specialists appointed by the government, Vladimir Bensis and Spyro Livieratos, delayed again today reporting their conclusions on the ability of Samuel Insull to travel. The two men were named to examine him in connection with his appeal against the order to him to leave Greece.

Ratifies Pact with Turkey.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The senate late today ratified an extradition treaty with Turkey as the government moved further to close every international avenue of escape for Samuel Insull.

MIDWEST RETAIL DEALERS REPORT BETTER BUSINESS

Wholesalers' Trade Gains as Merchants Meet.

Reports of decided increases in volume of business caused optimism among buyers and wholesalers from thirty states and Canada who registered at Hotel Sherman yesterday for the 25th semi-annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council. Chicago and middle west retailers told of mounting sales at rising prices.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, sponsor of the retail group and the four scheduled style shows, reported an expected attendance of 12,000 out of town merchants. Last year the attendance at the spring market opening was 8,000.

The wares of 102 Chicago manufacturers, 50 more than last year, are among those displayed by 59 girl models and eight male mannequins. According to Paul Kunning, trade promotion director of the Association of Commerce, manufacturers are stressing quality rather than price of materials.

Increase in Business.

An increase of 90 per cent in business for the last two weeks of January over that of a year ago and of 57 per cent for the month was reported by C. D. Southard, vice president and general manager of Butler Brothers. "We are optimistic over the outlook for spring business," Mr. Southard said. "It appears we are entering a period of advancing prices which will be a powerful stimulant to business activity."

Heads of other leading Chicago wholesale firms expressed hopeful views of the business situation. "Every indication points to an increased consumption of merchandise all over the country," said Frederick N. Scott of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. "We have made preparations quite out of the ordinary to take care of the demand we anticipate this spring. Our January sales exceeded all expectations, and in addition a very nice business has been placed with us for later delivery."

The newest of "desert" colors, ranging from burnt orange to cool palm greens distinguished the wearing apparel displayed last night in the first of the series of shows to be held in connection with the Interstate Merchants' convention. Plaids and plaits will apparently be features of spring jacket frocks, sportswear, and garden party gowns. More than 2,000 buyers and merchants jammed the ballroom of the Sherman for the event.

The new shorts frock, suitable for tennis, golf, bicycling, and general outdoor wear, will be among the 400 styles of wash goods to be shown at the fashion review today and Thursday in connection with the wash dress and children's apparel show in the Merchandise Mart. The leading warm weather materials will be seersucker, linen, and piqué.

MUNICIPAL COURT STARTS FIGHT ON BAIL BOND ABUSE

Surety for Forger Is Cited for Contempt.

Municipal Judge Leon Edelman yesterday cited Mrs. Anna Skolnik, 3654 West 19th street, one of the sureties of Lester Weiss, notorious forger who jumped his bond, for contempt of court on the ground that she swore falsely as to the value of property scheduled.

The action was taken on motion of Assistant State's Attorneys Ota P. Lightfoot and Emmett Harrington, who announced that their purpose was to correct bail bond abuses in the Municipal court and require all felony bonds to be approved by the bond department of the state's attorney's office, as they are done in the Criminal court.

$15,000 Bond Approved.

Judge Edelman approved bonds totaling $15,000 for Weiss in his home at 1:30 a. m. Jan. 26, the property scheduled having an assessed value of $3,484 and subject to incumbrances of $4,800. This would indicate a real value of about $10,452, leaving an unincumbered equity of $5,652, whereas the law requires real estate with a value twice the amount of the bond.

Weiss is wanted on three charges of forgery involving $19,200, and police declare he has obtained more than $70,000 in forgeries not reported by banks and insurance companies.

The state's attorney's office started a grand jury investigation of the freeing of Weiss on Saturday, but Judge Edelman was out of the city and neither of the sureties could be found. There was no grand jury yesterday, so the contempt action was decided upon. The second surety, Morris Lakowitz, 1334 South Jefferson street, had still eluded police who are seeking him.

Judge Commends Prosecutor.

Prosecutor Harrington, who has charge of the bond department, informed Judge Edelman that Mrs. Skolnik had scheduled the same property in question—two vacant lots—three times within one month, whereas the limit under the law is two times, and even in this case the total amount of the bonds must not be more than half the value of the property. Moreover, she violated the law in scheduling her property because she has no license, Mr. Harrington said.

"When we had this woman in before for scheduling her property three times in one month," Mr. Harrington told the court, "I warned her to stop it, and she promised with tears in her eyes that she would. I told her if she ever scheduled her property again, without a license, we'd proceed against her. This bond running practice must be stopped."

"I'm in accord with that," said the judge. "I want to commend the state's attorney's office for its conduct of this matter." He then issued a rule on Mrs. Skolnik to appear at 2 p. m. on Feb. 13 to show cause why she should not be punished for contempt, and fixed her bond at $5,000.

The records of the recorder's office taken before Judge Edelman when he approved the Weiss bond showed the assessed valuation of Mrs. Skolnik's property was only $884, but she swore its fair cash value was $15,000.

KILLED BY POISON ERROR.

Grayville, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Harry Nottingham, 58, farmer, died today of poisoning. He mistook poison for medicine.

ASK HIGH COURT TO SEND 'DOCTOR' BACK TO PRISON

Courtney to Seek Voiding of Brown's Release.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday ordered that a petition for a writ of mandamus be taken to the Illinois Supreme court to compel Circuit Judge Clyde H. Thompson of Pontiac to expunge from his record the habeas corpus writ by which he freed "Dr." Spencer Brown last Monday.

If the high court grants the petition, as was done in the case of the notorious James [Fur] Sammons, Brown would be returned automatically to Joliet prison, where he was serving a sentence of one to ten years for participation in the million dollar robbery of Werner Brothers Safety Deposit company in 1923.

Urges Reform in Law.

The state's attorney's action followed a study of Brown's entire record. Assistant State's Attorney Edward Wilson is to handle the case. Because of technical difficulties, it was considered doubtful that the petition could be presented in less than a week.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday urged reform of the Illinois habeas corpus act to give the state the right of appeal from writs, with a stay of execution pending outcome of the appeal. Under the present law, the state's only recourse is to institute mandamus proceedings to have the habeas corpus action stricken out. In the meantime, Judge Fisher pointed out, the released prisoner may leave the country before the Supreme court hands down its decision.

Hopes for Court Opinion.

Judge Fisher also criticized the practice of judges assuming jurisdiction in cases of counties other than the one in which they sit. A new code of practice should be adopted on this subject, he said, but he expressed opposition to forcing this change by law.

"The California Supreme court several years ago ruled on this very point," continued Judge Fisher, "that no court should take jurisdiction in the case of another county except for some compelling reason. If the Illinois Supreme court should hand down such an opinion it might do much to stop the abuse of discretion in taking jurisdiction.

REGAINED APPETITE AND WEIGHT WITH KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Cereal Relieved His Constipation

If you are a sufferer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. McIntyre:

"For a long time my system was not in very good working order. But since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN I have regained my appetite and my lost weight. And my system is in good working order. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sure does the trick"—Mr. J. A. McIntyre, 160 Ruscomb St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the "bulk" needed to relieve ordinary constipation. It also contains vitamin B and iron for the blood.

You'll enjoy this delicious and healthful ready-to-eat cereal. Serve it with milk or cream—or use often in cooking.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is all bran with only necessary flavoring added. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DILLINGER FACES COURT IN IRONS; FIFTY GUARD HIM

Habeas Corpus Writ Asked by Gang Leader.

With fifty heavily armed regular and special deputy sheriffs all around him, John Dillinger, Indiana desperado, appeared yesterday in the Criminal court at Crown Point to answer a charge of murdering Policeman William P. O'Malley of East Chicago.

To the obvious disappointment, however, of nearly 300 curious spectators—and the apparent satisfaction of Dillinger—nothing unusual happened. There was no attempt at rescue on the part of Dillinger's friends, as had been feared, and the hearing, a technical matter of arraignment, was postponed to Friday morning. At that time also, in another Crown Point court, there will be a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in the gunman's behalf.

Asks Habeas Corpus Writ.

Yesterday's proceedings, both a move by the state of Indiana to send Dillinger to the electric chair and a fight on his part to get, at the worst, a prison sentence, began early in the day. First Dillinger's attorney, Joseph Ryan, appeared before Judge T. Joseph Sullivan in the Lake county Circuit court and filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

In seeking the writ Attorney Ryan attacked the validity of the indictment on which Dillinger is to be tried. He described his client as a "law abiding resident of Arizona who had committed no crimes in that state." It was in Arizona that Dillinger and three of his gang were captured.

Ryan pointed out that two indictments were voted against Dillinger by the Lake county grand jury. The first, returned on Jan. 26, the day after his capture, charged him with the murder of Policeman O'Malley during the holdup of an East Chicago bank, and provided for a prison sentence or death penalty on conviction.

The second indictment, filed Feb. 2, provided for no prison term, Ryan said, but made the death penalty mandatory on conviction. This second indictment, he declared, is illegal.

Judge Sullivan listened without comment and then continued the writ hearing to 9:30 Friday morning. Shortly afterward the second hearing, that on arraignment, began in the Criminal court of Judge William J. Murray.

Courtroom Crowd Searched.

Judge Murray's courtroom was packed with spectators, many from out of town. All were cleared out of court before the hearing began and searched for weapons before being permitted to reënter. Everywhere were deputies showing guns. In the corridor leading from the jail to Judge Murray's court sat another deputy with a machine gun.

Dillinger walked through the corridor, manacled to Chief Deputy Sheriff Carroll Holley, a nephew of Sheriff Lillian Holley. Chief Deputy Holley, it was noticed, wore a bulletproof vest.

Still handcuffed to Holley, Dillinger stood before Judge Murray a picture of dejection. But he became suddenly alert when several newspaper photographers began "shooting" pictures of him. He scowled, tightened his lips, and looked tough. The photographing over, Dillinger returned to his previous attitude of dejection.

Meanwhile Attorney Ryan, Prosecutor Robert G. Estill and Deputy Prosecutors John Underwood and Floyd Vance were engaged in arguments. Ryan lost a motion to quash the second indictment, but he won a motion to continue the arraignment to Friday. It was all over in a few moments. Then Dillinger, frowning as another picture was taken, was led back to the well guarded jail.

STEPHENSON CLAIMS HE KNEW OF INDIANA PRISON BREAK PLANS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—D. C. Stephenson, one time midwestern grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, serving a life sentence for murder at Indiana state prison as a result of the death of an Indianapolis young woman, has made a report that he had full knowledge of the plan for escape of ten felons from the institution Sept. 26. He says he sought unsuccessfully to warn the prison officials. This was disclosed at the office of Gov. Paul V. McNutt today.

"The statement in itself is so ridiculous," said Wayne Coy, a secretary to Gov. McNutt, "that we did not think it worthy of consideration. It is the outgrowth of a hatred formed by Stephenson for prison officials."

Stephenson is said to have asserted that prison officers arranged things so the escaping men could "get to the gates without molestation."

The former klan leader's statement is being kept in the office of Gov. McNutt, who said that "Stephenson is a publicity hound" and that "nothing he ever said could be believed."

SLATE MANIERRE AS NEXT MAYOR OF LAKE FOREST

Francis E. Manierre, 425 Woodlawn avenue, Lake Forest, real estate dealer, and member of an old Chicago family, was nominated as the next mayor of Lake Forest at a regular caucus last night. Nomination is tantamount to election. The election will be held in April.

Mr. Manierre will succeed Mayor Albert D. Farwell, who has served several terms, and is voluntarily retiring. Like Mayor Farwell, Mr. Manierre is a former member of the Lake Forest city council, having served a period of six years. He retired as alderman last year.

Other nominations voted by the caucus were: Ald. Kent Chandler of the First ward, for reëlection; Ald. Frank N. Hoffman of the Second ward, for reëlection; Randolph Owsley of the Third ward, to succeed Ald. James A. Griffis, who is voluntarily retiring; Ald. Richard H. Mabbatt of the Fourth ward, for reëlection, and City Supervisor Roy F. Wells and City Treasurer Henry Rhode, both for reelection.

SEIZE 11 ARMED MEN IN HUNT FOR KIDNAPING GANG

Five Freed of Bremer Blame After Quiz.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Eleven armed men were seized today at Owatonna, Minn., with $4,000 cash in their possession. After their capture this afternoon deputy sheriffs brought them here for questioning about the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker. After severely grilling five of them, Chief of Police Thomas Dahill tonight said he was convinced they had no connection with the $200,000 kidnaping plot.

The five in custody are Archie Bell, 39, Blooming Prairie, George J. Overton, Blooming Prairie, Louis Meyers, 38, Pinestone, Jack Dahlin, 22, Galt, and Jose Vallee, 35, address not disclosed.

Six in St. Paul.

The remaining six, not identified, were to be brought here tonight by St. Paul police who, Chief Dahill said, planned to question them about recent bank robberies and liquor law violations, particularly the $38,584 theft of 5,512 gallons of denatured alcohol here yesterday from the LaSalle Products company.

Suspicion was aroused at the comings and goings of the 11 at their apartment house. The men, Owatonna authorities said, had been there since Jan. 20.

After the first five were seized deputy sheriffs secreted themselves in the apartment to await the rest of the gang, and were rewarded when six more men walked into the place.

No Ransom Paid Yet.

Walter Magee, wealthy contractor friend of Edward Bremer, who received the first ransom note shortly before the victim's blood stained automobile was found abandoned Jan. 17, said tonight none of the $200,000 ransom money had been paid.

There were conjectures in some quarters whether the money had passed when it became known $4,000 was found on the men taken at Owatonna.

Only last Saturday Adolph Bremer, father of the kidnaped banker, had pleaded for return of his son, promising secrecy and coöperation with the gang for three days and nights if negotiations would be opened.

Today, however, passed without word from the abductors, as the family continued its watchful waiting for news from the gang.

Woman Who Tried to Talk to Dillinger Freed on Bond

Mrs. Josephine Hunt, who has society connections in New York, was permitted to sign her own bond yesterday when a charge of failing to pay a $23 cab bill was continued to Feb. 14. She rode to Crown Point in the cab last Friday and tried to interview John Dillinger in jail there. She said she had wired to New York for money, but it failed to arrive in time for her week-end expenses. Mrs. Hunt told reporters she hoped to win success as a writer.

U. S. IS EXPECTED TO GRANT FACTOR TIME TO TESTIFY

Touhy Trial Presence at Stake Today.

Federal authorities were reported yesterday to be in accord with the request of State's Attorney Courtney that John Factor be allowed to remain in this country at liberty on bail long enough to testify again against the Touhy gangsters he has accused of kidnaping him for $70,000 ransom.

When a motion is made this morning before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan by Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, representing the British crown, asking that Factor be taken into custody immediately for extradition to England for trial in an alleged 7 million dollar stock selling swindle, the government is expected to grant Factor his further liberty, after the establishment of a new bond.

Extradition Hearing Today.

State's Attorney Courtney's interest in keeping Factor here is based on his desire to have the abducted speculator testify at the second trial of Roger Touhy, Albert Kator, and Gus Schaefer, whose recent trial resulted in a deadlocked jury and mistrial ruling.

The proceeding before Judge Sullivan today is the hearing on a motion that Factor be taken into custody on the original extradition warrant, the legality of which has been approved by the United States Supreme court. Word from the state department yesterday was that the government will not oppose a request for Factor's liberation on bail.

Plan Further U. S. Fight.

Attorney G. Gale Gilbert, representing Factor, explained yesterday that the final decision on when Factor is to be returned to England rests with the executive branch of the federal government, not the judicial. New representations are to be made to the state department in Washington that under the treaty, if conditions were reversed, England would not extradite either an alien or a national to this country on a charge which is not a crime in the locality of apprehension. On that basis the state department will be asked to refuse to return Factor to England.

Attorney Salmon O. Levinson is handling that phase of the case in Washington now and Attorney Gilbert said a favorable decision is expected.

Former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, a sworn enemy of kidnapers, passed through Chicago Sunday to join Mr. Levinson in Washington in Factor's behalf.

SEEK 15 MILLION U. S. GRANTS FOR LOCAL PROJECTS

BY AL CHASE.

Grants of more than $15,000,000 of federal easy money will be requested by several Chicago corporations next Thursday when the United States Advisory Board of Public Works will meet to consider local applications for financial aid.

The largest fund request will be submitted by the Chicago Tunnel company, which will seek allocation of $10,750,000 for construction of a steam plant and transmission steam lines through its tunnel system, for the production and distribution of heat to downtown buildings.

Plan 2,000 Foot Fair Tower.

The most spectacular project seeking federal financial aid is a 2,000 foot tower contemplated by the Chicago Tower Market Building corporation. According to Frank A. Randall, structural engineer, this is a more elaborate design of the project planned for operation during the 1933 exhibition. If erected, it will be the tallest structure in the world.

Mr. Randall stated that a site had been arranged for by agreement with the Illinois Central railroad over the line's tracks at 14th street, facing the World's Fair court of honor, and between the Field museum and Soldiers' field. He said that the railroad company was financially interested in the project.

Plans of the tower call for a steel skeleton frame set on concrete foundations extending to bed rock, Mr. Randall said. The base of the tower eventually would be used as a display space for various transportation exhibits.

Seek $2,500,000 Grant.

Two million five hundred thousand dollars is sought by the corporation as a federal loan. Mr. Randall said that even if the federal easy money is secured, it would be impossible to complete the tower in time for the Fair opening. He said it might become a public World's Fair attraction instead of being operated as an outside concession. If financed, it will take five months to erect it, he said. Rapp & Rapp are the architects.

Another application to be considered next Thursday by the board is the projected request by the Chicago Industrial Barge lines for $1,814,500 to finance the construction of a number of barges for operation on inland waterways.

CWA TO EMPLOY 300 TEACHERS IN SPECIAL COURSES

Night Classes Providing Other Jobs.

Three hundred more unemployed school teachers will be put to work this week in classes financed by civil works administration funds, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools. This will increase to 1,100 the total number of teachers employed in the special government classes in Chicago.

More than 200 of this group being paid out of federal easy money represent teachers who were left temporarily out of work last summer through operation of the economy program inaugurated by the board of education.

Appropriation Increased.

The new addition to the force of teachers assigned to civil works educational service in the city was made possible by an increase of $25,000 per month in the appropriations authorized by relief officials in Washington.

The special courses, which range from day nursery schools for young children to classes for adults, will continue until June 1. The classes are held in vacant school rooms, settlement houses, neighborhood centers and churches. It is expected that 22,000 students will have enrolled in the classes by the end of the week.

Besides the teachers employed by the CWES, more than 300 other teachers from the rolls of the unemployed have gone to work in the public night schools in the city. This group supplanted teachers who had enjoyed positions on two pay rolls at the same time—in the regular day schools and the night schools. The change was made by educational officials on orders from James B. McCahey, president of the school board.

37,000 in Night School.

Registration for the second semester in the night classes began last night. The night schools are located as follows:

Austin High school, 231 North Pine avenue; Crane High school, 2245 West Jackson boulevard; Englewood High school, 6201 Stewart avenue; Fenger High school, 11220 South Wallace street; Lake View High school, 4015 North Ashland avenue, and Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee avenue.

Approximately 37,000 students were enrolled in the night schools last semester. Of this group, 158 were graduated and received high school certificates. It is estimated that it takes a student six years to obtain a high school diploma in a night school.

Southern Kane County CWA Workers Get Raise

The pay of CWA workers in Aurora, St. Charles and other southern Kane county towns, was increased from 60 to 75 cents an hour yesterday on orders sent out from the civil works administration's state headquarters in Chicago. The increase does not apply to road jobs. It was the second raise granted the workers in recent weeks. The first increase, which was applicable to the entire county, raised the men's pay from 50 to 60 cents an hour. It was placed in effect on the same day an order came from Washington reducing the work week from 30 to 24 hours and laying off 11 per cent of the men.

HORNER SCALES SPECIAL CALL TO 18 URGENT BILLS

150 Items Originally on Session's Calendar.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—In his call for the third special session of the Illinois general assembly, issued today, Gov. Horner trimmed the field of legislative operations to the bone.

Out of eighteen items listed, there apparently were not more than a dozen of major and immediate importance. And they were all that were left after consideration of requests that he include approximately 150 subjects in the call. He attached greatest importance to the state-wide problem of school financing, to permit local governments to obtain federal aid from which the statutes now block them, to the question of a mortgage moratorium and to housing legislation.

"Many of the requests that came to my desk could safely wait until the next regular session," said the governor in a statement discussing the call, which he prepared before leaving for Arizona on Sunday.

Calls Session Feb. 13.

He summoned the lawmakers to meet in Springfield on Feb. 13, one week from today, to consider as their most important work the enactment, amendment or repeal of laws to accomplish the following purposes:

To provide revenue to maintain the public schools.

To provide for the 1934 World's Fair in Chicago.

To authorize the state and its subdivisions to contract with and receive federal aid from the United States government.

To provide for consolidation of local governments or to alter their structures, powers, duties, and financing.

To permit taking advantage of low cost housing projects under the national industrial recovery act.

Seeks Mortgage Cost Slash.

To reduce the cost of recording chattel mortgages.

To restore penalty date on corporation franchise and stock tax omitted by error from recent legislation.

To modify the law concerning trucks and buses.

Under the third of these subjects is included authority for the legislature to pass three bills required by the recent contract between the Chicago sanitary district and the federal government.

Irritated by Tax Omission.

Advocates of immediate consideration of an amendment to the constitution, particularly those urging a per cent tax limitation, were irritated that this subject was omitted from the call.

Since the second or liquor special session did not adjourn sine die when it passed the state control act last week, it may sit concurrently with the third session if there is a demand for amendments to that law. Restaurant owners are beginning to protest emphatically against the provision prohibiting them from selling drinks except with meals. They contend this gives hotel dining rooms an unfair advantage over them.

162 MILLIONS TAX, 61% OF THE 1931 LEVY COLLECTED

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $257,643, making a total of $104,845,963 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 5	$ 24,241	$ 47,680
Uncollected	15,372,615	41,143,327
	1930	1931.
Feb. 5	$ 32,194	$ 136,525
Uncollected	65,028,968	63,122,550

County Treasurer McDonough announced yesterday that 61.6 per cent of the 1931 total tax levy had been collected up to last Saturday night. The collections aggregate $162,623,841 of the extension of $263,756,804.

They are made up as follows: Real estate taxes, $116,656,329; personal property taxes, $34,134,236, and railroad taxes, $11,833,276. The totals of uncollected taxes are: Real estate, $63,259,075; personalty, $36,657,455; and railroad, $1,216,232. The real estate taxes were paid in two equal installments. Of the first installment $68,117,010 has been paid and on the second installment $48,539,319 has been paid.

Collections and percentages of the total levies for the three preceding years are: 1928—$191,806,766, 87.3 per cent; 1929—$204,213,192, 78.3 per cent; and 1930—$198,309,673, 68.3 per cent.

EXCESSIVE FEE COLLECTION LAID TO M'DONOUGH

Receivership Suit Attacks Kerner-Skarda Law.

Charges that County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough and his appointees exacted excessive fees in the administration of a receivership in collection of taxes under the Kerner-Skarda act were made yesterday in a petition for mandamus which the First of Englewood Bond and Mortgage company sought leave to file in the Supreme court. The action attacks the constitutionality of the act.

The company, which is operated in connection with the First National bank of Englewood, of which J. M. [100 Per Cent] Nichols is president, seeks a writ from the Supreme court ordering County Judge Jarecki to expunge all his orders in a tax receivership case in which fees of $130 were charged on the collection of $400 in income from the building in question.

Letter States Stand in Case.

The mortgage company's stand in the case is stated in a letter written to Treasurer McDonough by Milo B. French, secretary of the company, which is included as an exhibit with the petition. The property involved in the receivership action was a flat building at 6153-9 Eberhart avenue, on which the taxes for 1928 and subsequent years were delinquent when the bank acquired control of it through foreclosure proceedings last summer.

Judge Jarecki, acting under the Skarda law, appointed Treasurer McDonough receiver of the building on Sept. 1, and the treasurer named J. C. Chutkow, 100 North La Salle street, his agent, to take charge of the property. The mortgage company charges that Chutkow's only act as receiver's agent was to call at its office, receive a check for $400, comprising the net income of the building, and give a receipt for the check.

Company Refinances and Pays.

Before any further collections of income were made, the mortgage company reorganized the property, sold a new first mortgage on it, and with the money so received paid, on Oct. 9, 1933, a total of $7,571 in delinquent 1928, 1929 and 1930 taxes and penalties. The 1931 taxes, to which the receivership did not apply, were also paid, and reserves were set up for 1932 taxes.

Then the company wrote to L. D. McCoy in the receivership division of the treasurer's office, asking for return of the $400 payment, since, it was not needed to pay taxes. They received a reply by telephone that the payment would be returned when the receiver's final report had been approved by Judge Jarecki. That report, which the judge approved, made the following deductions from the $400:

John Broderick & Sons, Inc., agent's bond	$ 10.00
County treasurer receivership fund	10.00
J. C. Chutkow, agent's commission	95.00
McCoy, Holland, Arndt & Sweeney, audit fee	15.00
Federal check tax	.10
Total	$130.10

"We understand," stated Mr. French's letter, "that House Bill 547 was passed and is a law, and provides that 'in receiverships under the Skarda law no fees shall be paid to the county collector in addition to his regular salary or regular fees, also that no filing or other fees shall be collected by any clerk or court in such receivership suits, nor shall fees be charged.'

"In connection with the auditing fee we understand—and I was under the impression—that Mr. McCoy, as evidenced by the letterhead which we have, was an employé of the county treasurer's office."

McCoy is head of the auditing company which was given a fee in the receivership. In connection with Chutkow's fee, Mr. French charged that "all that Mr. Chutkow did was call at this office, get a check, sign a receipt and leave."

DRAFT A BUDGET JUST TO PROVE IT WON'T WORK

Council Hopes to Stay Within Revenue.

The city council finance committee decided yesterday to draw up a $39,500,000 corporate fund budget for 1934, just to show economy advocates how bad it would look. At the same time they will draw up a budget on the basis of $43,764,000 in revenue, the figure used by City Controler Upham in his preliminary estimates for appropriations.

After Mr. Upham drew up his estimates, the board of tax appeals cut $113,000,000 from personal property assessments in Chicago for 1932. This saddled a cumulative deficit of more than $4,000,000 for 1932, 1933, and 1934 on the 1934 budget.

Warns on Curtailment.

Victor S. Petterson, deputy controler, told the aldermen that the city could not make a budget below $45,500,000 a year without dangerous curtailment of essential services. Eighty per cent of the budget revenue, he pointed out, goes to police, fire, and health protection, and to the Municipal court and board of election commissioners, in which the council has virtually no authority to enforce economies.

In drafting the $39,500,000 budget, the aldermen said, they intend to demonstrate just how many police, firemen, and health inspectors would have to be laid off, and how many street lights would have to be shut off throughout the city.

They will not follow the controler's estimates strictly in making up the budget. They disagree with his action in cutting $1,500,000 out of the appropriations for the department of streets and electricity.

Look to Special Session Aid.

Several aldermen asserted that this would reduce garbage collections to a degree dangerous to health.

Following the committee meeting, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, said that he believed Gov. Horner's call yesterday for the third special session of the legislature was sufficiently broad to permit enactment of a financial relief program for the city. The committee will attempt to formulate such a program, he said.

One step, Clark said, will be a bill authorizing the city to use for corporate purposes in 1933 and 1934 about $2,000,000 of its annual $2,500,000 levy for the working cash fund. This would increase operating revenue without raising tax rates.

Seek Fourth Special Call.

The Chicago Recovery Administration's executive committee, meeting yesterday, adopted a resolution deploring the fact that Gov. Horner failed to include a proposed amendment to the revenue section of the state constitution in his legislative call, and urging that a fourth special session be called to pass such an amendment in order that it might be submitted to the voters at the November election.

"In the city council it was stated that 60 per cent of the personal property taxes could be collected," said Assessor Jacobs at the CRA meeting. "I think they were overconfident, because ward committeemen and precinct captains are doing all they can to prevent collection of those taxes. I understand that in one court, if the name of a committeeman or precinct captain appears on the back of a bill, no effort is made to collect it."

Propose a Solution.

"Well, we should either do away with the personal property tax——" began William F. Stelzer, leader of the taxpayers' organization.

"Or do away with the ward committeemen," finished George O. Fairweather of the University of Chicago.

"I understand," said John O. Rees, director of the committee on public expenditures, to Assessor Jacobs, "that the board of tax appeals, in the last two days of hearings, struck $40,000,000 from the personal property assessments of large corporations. Have you a record of the law firms representing these corporations?"

"I haven't," replied the assessor. "The board of appeals has. I have, however, given Mr. Fred W. Brummel of that board a list of the large changes I would like to have explained, but he has not yet given me any explanation."

PROF. LEONARD D. WHITE.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Leonard Dupee White, professor of political science and progressive Republican of Chicago, has been selected, it was learned today, as the Republican member of the civil service commission to succeed Thomas E. Campbell, resigned. He was recommended to the President by Secretary Ickes, with whom he has been long associated in political and social activities in Chicago.

Prof. White was born in Acton, Mass., Jan. 17, 1891, and is expected to become one of the administration's advisers on governmental matters in addition to his duties as a member of the civil service commission. He has been associate professor of political science in the University of Chicago since 1920 and has been active in reform politics for the last decade. He acted as chairman of the citizens' police commission, 1920-'30, and is now a member of the Chicago civil service commission.

HOTEL STRIKERS IN NEW YORK RIOT AT THE WALDORF

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—A police sergeant was bitten on the left thumb by the wife of a striking waiter and a casual passerby was knocked down, suffering a fracture of the left knee, when the police engaged in a short battle with 1,000 hotel strike pickets, their wives and children today before the Waldorf-Astoria.

At the Casino de Paree all the doors and plate glass windows were smashed when 150 strikers picketing the night club became infuriated at what union leaders termed a barrage of whisky bottles from the upper windows. The doors of the Wivel restaurant, adjacent to the night club, were also smashed.

A lone policeman on the scene, unable to stop the wrecking operations, did manage to prevent the strikers from entering the club. The strikers dispersed before a detail of police.

ROE AND DOYLE WILL BE NAMED U. S. ATTORNEYS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Senator Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] announced tonight that Arthur Roe of Danville and Howard Doyle of Decatur would be appointed soon as United States district attorneys for the eastern and southern districts of Illinois, respectively.

The appointments would be made, Senator Dieterich said, on the recommendations of himself and Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.].

"The appointments will be made, but I don't know how soon," Senator Dieterich said.

It was understood that Senator Lewis would make a recommendation for the appointment of a district attorney for the northern district of Illinois, but the name of the person of his choosing could not be ascertained tonight.

Men's Hat Store Chain to Have Girl Hostesses

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Timid men who have trouble in selecting new hats may or may not be reassured by the news that one of the largest chains of hat stores plans to install young lady hostesses in all its shops, according to information received at the department of commerce.

BOARD APPROVES COUNTY BUDGET FOR $19,157,000

Election Costs to Raise Expenses Over 1933.

After a stormy meeting of its finance committee the county board last night quietly passed the 1934 budget. The 1934 budget authorizes expenditures of $19,157,420 for the present year. In 1933 the budget called for spending $17,509,778.

During the day as the finance committee faced the problem of balancing the budget, fears were expressed that it would not receive sufficient votes to insure its passage. By law ten votes are necessary. There are at present 14 county commissioners instead of 15 because Walter J. La Buy, a former member, was elected a Circuit judge last June.

Women Stay in Line.

Three of the Democratic members, all women, were turned down by the Democratic county central committee, which made the slate of the party for the November election. It was considered possible that these women might join with the Republican minority of two members to vote against the budget, leaving only nine votes for the budget, one short of the requirement.

Evidence of opposition to the Democratic majority was given early in the session of the finance committee by Commissioner Grace Fleming, one of the three women. She made a motion to appropriate in full for the salaries of elected county officials, who have previously accepted the 15 per cent pay cut in force throughout the county.

Her plea was answered by Commissioner Daniel Ryan with the declaration that he would not vote for the increase for himself while appointive employés were being forced to take the cut. On a vote, which was considered a test of the attitude of the other women, the motion was carried against the lone vote of Commissioner Fleming.

Two Republicans Object.

The other women commissioners turned down by the slate makers are Amelia Sears and Marie Plumb. At the board meeting, which followed the session of the finance committee, the two women voted with the Democratic majority, assuring the passage of the budget. Commissioner Fleming was not present at the final vote. The only objecting votes were those of the Republican commissioners, William Busse, and George Miller.

The budget, as passed, differs but slightly from the tentative budget drafted a week ago. One of the prinipal departures was an appropriation of $40,000 to the Circuit and Superior courts to permit the employment of downstate judges to handle the work of the courts while regular judges might be assigned to duty in the Criminal court.

It was explained that the chief reason the 1934 budget exceeds that of 1933 is that $1,200,000 must be spent during the present year for primary and regular elections. There were no elections in 1933. The balance of the increase is due to small increases in various departments and to the fact that the highway police are included for a full 12 months where in the 1933 budget they were provided for only six months.

RYANS JR. MAY HAVE TO EXIST UPON $1,000 PER MONTH

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—John Barry Ryan, son of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, may have to support his wife and himself on $1,000 a month if a petition filed in Supreme court today is successful.

The petitioner, George H. Drew, petitioned the court to limit Ryan to that sum out of the income he receives from two trusts, aggregating about 29 million dollars, until a $3,917 judgment which Drew obtained against Ryan is paid off.

Drew said that in 1931 John Barry Ryan's share was $1,189,103 from one trust and $284,370 from another. Last year Drew said the trusts netted Ryan $580,000 and $125,000, respectively.

DYERS' INSTITUTE FINANCES BARED AT RACKET TRIAL

Jury Told of $30,000 Gorman "Salary."

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

The jury trying the racket conspiracy case before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan in Criminal court was enlightened yesterday on the finances of the Cleaners and Dyers institute, founded by Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, one of eighteen defendants on trial.

Of the $147,644 collected through a 2 per cent assessment on the gross business of institute members during its eighteen months' existence, Dr. Squires paid out $47,000 for salaries and office expenses, and $30,000 to one of seventeen of his co-defendants, James P. Gorman, dubbed "labor commissioner of the institute," the testimony showed.

Squires Receives $17,000.

Squires' own compensation as general salesmanager for the eighteen months was $17,000, the testimony showed, although his contract with the institute specified an annual salary of $25,000. The only explanation for his $30,000 payment to Gorman was "for organization," according to the institute's books.

The jurors drowsed as Lester B. Stark, accountant on the state's attorney's staff, related for their benefit the results of an audit he had made of the institute's ledger, which Dr. Squires had handed over at Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber's demand prior to Squires' indictment. Dr. Squires, apparently as bored as the jurors, leafed through a magazine.

In addition to the $47,000 for general expenses and $30,000 to Gorman the institute spent $16,108 for advertising and $8,500 for legal expenses, of which last amount all but $400 went to another defendant, Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, who was the institute's lawyer, the testimony showed.

Bring in Capone's Name.

With reference to Gorman's $30,000, Prosecutor Raber said the state expects later to show that some of it went to still another defendant, Al Capone, whom the government refused to remove from Atlanta penitentiary for trial. It was Gorman's almost invariable custom, according to Auditor Stark, to deposit checks from Dr. Squires in the Madison-Kedzie bank the day after payment, and on the day following deposit to withdraw the amount in four equal sums of cash.

"We expect to produce the minutes of a federal grand jury to show that during an investigation on his income tax Gorman was unable or unwilling to show who got the money he withdrew," Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd Healy said. "We will further show that he paid subsequently a tax on the full $30,000."

The mysterious control which another absent gangster-defendant, Murray Humphries, exercised over the supply of naphtha to the Institute dye plants was related by an earlier witness, Rockwell A. Johnson, owner of the Johnson Solvents company. Johnson admitted he had once testified before a federal grand jury regarding income of Humphries and Capone.

Tells of Humphries' Dealings.

Johnson was sales manager for George C. Peterson & Co., oil jobbers, who supplied 80 per cent of the cleaners with naphtha when the Squires institute was formed. He testified during this period, he said, the Peterson company regularly gave the institute or its predecessor, the Master Cleaners and Dyers association, an $800 monthly rebate for a monopoly on the memberships' patronage, he said. In June, 1932, the witness added, he went into business for himself.

"I went down to Murray Humphries' office in the Mallers building," he said, "to see about getting the institute's naphtha business. Humphries seemed to think I was there about fuel oil. He told me to stay out of business on that line in all territory north of Evanston. When I said I was interested in naphtha he said a $500 payment would get it for me."

Johnson averred he did not pay the $500. Later, he added, there was a meeting between him and another missing defendant, Sam [Doc] Ginsberg, erstwhile dentist, Master Cleaner and alleged Capone agent. He said they met in the Hotel Sherman.

Mentions Ginsberg Offer.

"'Doc' said he wanted to put me in good standing with the cleaners," the witness averred. "He said they had taken $500 from my former boss, Peterson, to handle naphtha distribution, but claimed the cleaners didn't like Peterson. If I would put up $500, he said, they would kick back Peterson's $500 to him and give the business to me. He said 'You'll find it smart to do business with hoodlums; once they're with you they're with you always.' I turned down the proposition."

Admitting his appearances before the federal grand jury on cross-examination, Johnson cited the oath of secrecy given him there as cause for refusing to testify about the federal proceedings now. Although Judge Finnegan told him he was within his rights, he admitted, in response to one question, that he had told the federal grand jury of occasions when his former employer, Peterson, was Capone's guest.

AUSTRIA URGES LEAGUE TO SAVE HER FROM NAZIS

Cabinet Empowers Dollfuss to Seek Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—Austria decided today to lay its case against Germany before the league of nations in a new attempt to preserve its independence. The republic asked for protection against what Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss called Nazi aggression.

The decision was reached at a cabinet meeting following which Dollfuss announced he is leaving Wednesday for Budapest to visit Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary. It was recalled that Premier Mussolini's undersecretary of state, Fulvio Sulvich, is also scheduled to confer with the Hungarian statesman.

During Dollfuss' absence Vice Chancellor Emil Fey, one of the more powerful leaders of the Fascist Heimwehr, principal support of the Dollfuss government, will be in charge of the government.

Action Follows Protest.

The appeal to the league against alleged German interference in Austrian internal affairs is the outcome of a protest addressed to the Hitler government recently. In that note Austria threatened to submit the matter to the league. The German reply, received last week, rather haughtily insisted that no interference is intended in Austria. The Dollfuss government regarded the answer as unsatisfactory.

The announcement of the cabinet's decision today said:

"The chancellor held a special session of the cabinet and laid before it material relating to the conflict between the German reich and Austria. The cabinet carefully examined all the evidence. Impressed by the comprehensive and weighty collection of facts, the cabinet, after extensive discussion, unanimously decided to empower the chancellor to take whatever steps he may deem necessary with a view of bringing the matter before the league of nations in conformity with a notification already submitted to Germany."

Based on League Covenant.

It was not revealed just when the appeal will be lodged with the league. It will be based, however, on article 11, in the covenant. This article says that "it is also declared to be the friendly right of each member of the league to bring to the attention of the assembly or of the council any circumstances whatever affecting international relations which threaten to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends."

Dispute Fascist Rule.

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Feb. 5.—(AP)—An additional 1,000 armed heimwehrmen and Catholic storm troopers moved into Innsbruck tonight as a dispute developed over whether a fascist commission shall rule the Tyrol or merely advise its elected government.

The Fascist heimwehr last night announced the appointment of a commission as the reorganization of the provincial government in a Fascist sense.

Today, however, Gov. Franz Stumpf, after conversations by telephone with Christian Social leaders in other parts of Austria, announced that the Fascist commission would be expected to function in an advisory capacity only since "the constitution must be respected."

The Fascist answer to this was the bringing in of more troops.

League Up in Air.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 5.—League of nations' officials today pondered somewhat anxiously what steps to take when they receive the Austrian complaint against German aggression. In view of the fact that Germany has announced its intention of withdrawing from the league, any effective course of action is regarded as doubtful.

UNIONS ORDER STRIKE VOTE ON NORTH WESTERN

Executives of 13 railway labor unions, through their coöperating committee, voted yesterday to have members of those unions employed by the Chicago and North Western railroad take a strike vote.

The unions involved include all the rail labor organizations except those of the conductors, engineers and telegraphers, and comprise about 90 per cent of the railroad's employés, between 26,000 and 28,000, it was said by William Bishop, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and chairman of the coöperating committee. The committee met at the Great Northern hotel.

The strike vote was ordered after the railroad officials had made no reply to a demand for adjustment of 312 grievances by employés, some of them running back to 1928. Most of the grievances are in connection with alleged failure to observe seniority rights in laying off employés, according to the union officials, and, according to Fred W. Sargent, president of the railroad, to the company's strict enforcement of safety regulations.

Ballots which will be sent to members of the 13 unions must be returned by the time the coöperating committee holds its next meeting on Feb. 21. The provisions of the federal railroad act calling for arbitration and mediation of any disputes make any strike unlikely for several months, at least, it was said.

RIOT IN MOROCCO

RABAT, Morocco, Feb. 5.—(AP)—One person was injured in disorders today accompanying a demonstration of 2,500 colonists from throughout Morocco. The colonists demanded relief from their debts and organization of production. In a column of fours the demonstrators marched to the resident general's house, where a delegation talked to officials and the crowds dispersed.

NAZIS OPEN DOOR IN CATHEDRAL; 1ST TIME IN 410 YEARS

MAGDEBURG, Germany, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Its rusty hinges squeaking mightily, the bishop's door of the famous Cathedral of St. Maurice and St. Catherine was opened for the first time in 410 years today.

It swung wide to admit the new Nazi bishop of the province of Saxony, the Right Rev. Friedrich Peter, for his consecration by Reichbishop Ludwig Mueller. The massive door was sealed when the powerful bishopric went Protestant. In his sermon Bishop Peter said:

"Millions of Germans have regained their faith through the miracle of national regeneration wrought by Chancellor Hitler. Hundreds of thousands have returned to the church."

GERMAN SAVANTS AGREE CHRIST IS NOT FOR NAZIS

Research Society Veers to "Teutonic Faith."

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Noted German professors went home from the congress of the "Germanic Research society" today agreed for the most part that Christianity is not meant for Germans.

Many of the delegates represented the pagan "Teutonic faith movement" of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, new philosophic dictator for the third reich. This movement was the sole topic of discussion.

Theories of racialism, symbolism, and mysticism were propounded with utmost fervor and there were exhaustive dissertations on theology, mythology and anthropology, but they left the Frankfurter Zeitung's religious correspondent certain of one thing only:

Leader Defines Christianity.

"The movement, at heart, is anti-Christian. Christ and Christianity as a whole are denied."

Dr. Johann von Leers, Nazi culture leader and a personal friend of Dr. Rosenberg, was among the most outspoken in the congress.

"Christianity," he said, "is a composition of inferiority and Jewish philosophy."

Dr. Von Leers demanded abolition of Christianity outright and a return to a prehistoric lightbearer worship. He said the trend is toward a national, not a universal, religion.

Dr. Neckel of Berlin presented a long dissertation to prove his contention that Christianity triumphed by the most brutal methods.

German Philosophy Paraded.

Prof. Ernst Bergmann, Leipzig university philosopher, paraded the whole legion of German philosophers and mystics, but admitted, said the Cologne Gazette, that "all these took a hearty draught of the holy scriptures before they discovered themselves."

Another speaker expressed the opinion that Christianity could not be shaken even if Christ were a Jew, "because genius inevitably transcends racial restrictions."

To which the Cologne Gazette commented, "because Teutonism has no personalities equal to Jesus, he will remain irreplaceable to the personality-adoring German soul."

HELD AFTER TWO ARE ROBBED.

Frank Landers, 20 years old, 1246 North Shore avenue, was held yesterday as the bandit who robbed John Cullerton, 6245 Glenwood avenue, of $11, and Ralph Crawford, 6417 Greenview avenue, of $1 in front of 1341 Devon avenue.

35 ARE KILLED BY AVALANCHES OF SNOW IN ITALY

ROME, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The number of deaths in avalanches in the Apennines mounted to 35 today as Fascist militia troopers, firemen, and armed policemen struggled to bring relief to the stricken area.

Thirteen mountain towns were affected by the snowslides. The village of Bolognola reported 19 casualties, the highest total for one community. Ski enthusiasts from nearby cities were said to be among the victims. In Rubbiano, eight persons were killed, including two women and three children. At least 20 houses were destroyed.

The series of slides was attributed to heavy rainfalls which loosened snowbanks 5 to 25 feet deep on the steep inclines.

30 Killed in Corsica.

BASTIA, Corsica, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A huge avalanche of rocks and snow killed 30 persons in the mountain village of Ortiporio and destroyed ten houses early yesterday. A rescue party set out tonight on skis to bring aid to the stricken hamlet. Nine persons were trapped in a house at Vizzabona, which was buried under a slide. The entire village of Bisinchi was abandoned by its inhabitants, who feared further avalanches.

What about WANZER?

● During this past week more people have come to visit the famous Wanzer Sunlight Milk Plant than at any time since its opening. It is evident that a great many Chicago families want to know the facts about Wanzer Milk. We are glad to supply these facts.

● Sidney Wanzer & Sons is Chicago's oldest milk company. It was founded in 1857 by Sidney Wanzer, and it is significant that its growth, with that of Chicago, has been steady and sure.

● The company, which has continuously maintained its complete independence, is still owned and operated by the Wanzer family.

● During all of these past 77 years, the primary objective of the Wanzer Company has been to deliver to Chicago families the finest, purest milk that can be produced. In the furtherance of that objective, there has been a continual pioneering to improve the quality of milk and the quality of service that carry the name Wanzer.

● The company was the first to receive fresh country milk shipped into the city by train, when that event was really pioneering.

● It was the first to adopt pasteurization, long before that was required by law.

● One of its recent contributions to the improvement of Chicago's milk supply is the Wanzer Sunlight Milk Plant.

● Wanzer's milk is available everywhere in Chicago and surrounding suburbs—delivered at your door. If your family has not yet discovered the rich flavor of Wanzer's milk, give them a treat. Call Boulevard 7900—a courteous Wanzer salesman will do the rest.

To Protect You From Unsafe Drugs

We Spend Thousands of Dollars a Year on a Special Testing Method In Our Own Analytical Laboratories

The State Vitamin Institute of Norway certifies that every gram of Olafsen's Cod Liver Oil contains at least 333 units of Vitamin D. Even so, Walgreen's conduct continuous feeding tests on white rats with the object of making sure that every bottle measures up to the Institute's guarantee.

Ask any physician what would happen if stale or impure digitalis, for example, got into a prescription!

That's why there's one place at Walgreen's where expense is no object—the Walgreen laboratories. To protect our own good name and the life and well-being of our customers, we have our chemists test our drugs to see that they are pure, fresh, and stable before they go to the Walgreen stores.

6 Tests of 1 Drug

For example, they run continuous feeding tests on 40 white rats to make sure that Olafsen's Cod Liver Oil contains at least 333 units of Vitamin D to the gram.*

They frequently make 6 elaborate and expensive tests—as in the case of elixir of iron, quinine, and strychnine—before they will O. K. a drug.

You may be sure that the ingredients in the prescription you get at Walgreen's have been specially tested for potency and stability. And the same thing goes for the products sold under the Walgreen label.

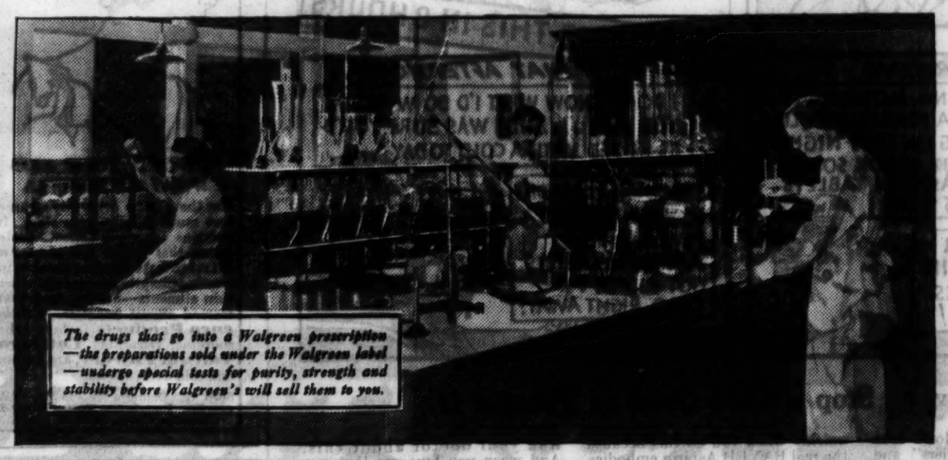
Daily Delivery, Regular Inspection

This unique system of analysis and control runs right through the Walgreen organization. Daily delivery to the stores makes it easy to keep stocks fresh. And Walgreen supervisors make regular inspections to see that no product remains on the shelf of any store long enough to lose its purity and strength. Stale drugs are deliberately thrown away.

A visit to our laboratories will convince you that "saving at Walgreen's" is only one of many good reasons for trading at our stores.

You are cordially invited to make such a visit. For an appointment, just write to Miss Jonathan, 744 Bowen Avenue, Chicago.

*This instance of Walgreen methods and all others reported in our advertising announcements are matters of record. Substantiating facts will be sent to anyone interested.



The drugs that go into a Walgreen prescription—the preparations sold under the Walgreen label—undergo special tests for purity, strength and stability before Walgreen's will sell them to you.

MEXICO FAVORS CLOSER BUSINESS TIES WITH U. S.

Marked Trade Advance in Last Two Years.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5.—Mexico celebrated the 18th anniversary of the Queretaro constitution today, the 23d year since Francisco I. Madero rose against Gen. Porfirio Diaz's dictatorship and the 124th year since the patriot priest, Hidalgo, led unarmed Indians against the bayonets of Spain.

Constitution Plaza (or Plaza Mayor) in front of the national palace and the ancient cathedral was the scene of a popular demonstration. There was music, a military display, fireworks, and speeches.

President Abelardo Rodriguez and his staff reviewed 5,000 soldiers at the air field. Mexican West Pointers, cavalry, machine gun, and infantry brigades participated on the broad plain. Bayonets flashed and bands played.

The army is evidently in first class shape. Uniforms are like those worn by the United States army. A crowd of 10,000 viewed the spectacle.

All of this indicates a new kind of revolution exists in Mexico.

Period of Peace.

The revolution on the stage today, while held in a firm military hand, is a matter of politics and economic development. It has brought a period of peace and relative prosperity. The outlook is good for another presidential term of the National Revolutionary party for six years without armed conflict. And financial and economic planning is being considered along sound and constructive lines.

The days of revolution, which swept Constitution square at intervals since the time of Hernando Cortez (1485-1547) and his "noche triste," may be definitly overdue to Mexico's modern military machine, but there is a call for an increase of education and economic enlightenment.

The revolutionary sentiment is massed in one party which is working along more less radical lines for increased wages and farm homes for peons, while the opposition is divided and ineffective.

There is still a long way to go before the emerging Indian civilization, which in traditions is the antithesis of northern life in many ways, reaches permanent stability and finds its flowering. But in the meantime the United States is in a most favorable position to increase a neglected market.

Favors Closer Relations.

The government in power favors closer commercial relations with the United States. Economic improvement here has been marked the last two years and the best opinion expects it to continue. It is worth study on the ground by American business men with authority to set new policies.

There is a growing middle class due to the increase of protected manufacturers, and the newly rich, politics, and the army constitute a peculiar commentary on the revolution. Expensive automobiles, princely homes on Chapultepec hill for a few, and shoes for many are among the results of long years of warfare. Whether a new oligarchy of wealth and position is rising on the ruins of the old is one question presented to the observer.

Within the ruling party the movement is to the left, led by the university group and young men nurtured in the Madero ideology. Nevertheless, it is considered hopeful the situation will work out in an orderly political manner, particularly in view of the increased pressure for a popular educational program.

Room far Business Initiative.

Capitalism is not abolished in Mexico as in Russia, although it is restricted and tied with the necessity of lifting the workers. Foreign business is more and more circumscribed, and economic nationalism is more aggressive. The old aristocracy is broken and its estates divided, but the society still is stratified.

Business is in private hands, with much room for initiative. The press is comparatively free, although it does not criticize the government to any extent. There is no censorship. The nearest approach to Mexico today is not Russia or Italy, but the United States under the new deal, or Australia under the Labor government.

The revolutionary ideal, according to President Rodriguez, is bringing happiness to all Mexicans. He is seeking to aid the state governors establish a minimum wage. The first stage is $3 [Mexican] a day, or 84 cents in the northern part of Lower California and $1 in the majority of other states. Under succeeding stages this is to rise to $4 a day, which is equivalent to about $1 in American money.

[The Mexican dollar or peso is currently worth 28 cents.]

Aristocrats of Labor.

In Vera Cruz, which has been one of the most violent revolutionary states, and where labor is organized and strong, the minimum wage for agriculture is 42 cents a day. [American], for brewery workers 84 cents to $1.20 a day; workers in cotton mills, $10 a week of 48 hours; sugar workers, $1.12 to $2 a day, and for stevedores—the aristocrats of labor—$2 to $3 a day. It is against the law for a tourist to carry his own bags.

This ancient city of Vera Cruz, the scene of the American occupation, the Cortez landing and port of commerce since the days of the Spanish Main, has not recovered from the revolution. The buildings are poor and unrepaired from past bombardments. There are new gardens by the sea and the streets are kept clean. There is more pride and self-respect among the people here than in Havana. The cathedral is boarded up and dark. Not a church is open in the state of Vera Cruz although nine are permitted in Mexico City.

A great change in the plaza scene in the evening is wrought by the American radio which transmits weird Spanish programs, punctuated with an occasional American song. Handicraft flourishes and life moves with the old leisure unrestrained. There are only two American families in Vera Cruz now. One is that of the consul.

Mexico unfolds with springlike beauty through the tropics from the coastal plain, where few clothes are necessary, up to the temperate Orizaba, which, a young man who speaks English says, means "land of honorable outdoors." White crowned Orizaba mountain is the third highest peak [18,564 feet] on the North American continent. It dominates villages hidden in coffee jungles and towns which are oriental in character. The one story houses are built of brick and plaster. The streets are narrow and Indians carry burdens on their heads. Burro pack trains still are the chief means of transportation.

Though the churches are closed in Vera Cruz the religion of Spain persists. It is bootlegged in the homes. Women in black still are seen in the streets, as in Quebec, but American styles, silk and decorations are coming in and the standard of living is slowly changing.

In the country little change is observed. Life is the same as it has been for 1,000 years, and like in the backward parts of India and the orient the depression is not felt here in the same way. There still are thatched homes, dirt floors and corn cakes. Only there are more shoes and blue overalls. That is the dominant note of the revolution in country life. Only in the valley of Mexico is the full effect seen. Even here the final goal is only dimly perceived.

TRIBUNE TO HELP EXPORTERS GET FACTS ON TRADE

Since the inauguration of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S drive for wider markets for American agricultural and industrial products many letters have been received by the home office and by its foreign correspondents. These letters reveal there are many American manufacturers who want to develop an export trade, but do not know how to tackle the problem. The letters request information as to opportunities for the sale of their products in foreign markets, or ask to be put in touch with prospective buyers.

There are two organizations which are formed for the express purpose of developing Amerian export trade and whose facilities are available to American business men. They are: first, the department of commerce of the United States, which has agents in all the principal trade centers of the world, and, secondly, and probably more important, the extensive web of American chambers of commerce in all the leading commercial centers.

These chambers are composed of American business men, including managers of foreign branches of American firms, agents of American exporters, and independent business men importing from America or acting as sales agents for American producers. Their secretaries and staffs are instructed to watch for trade opportunities for their members, keep them informed as to trade conditions in their area, and keep track of changes in customs and import regulations and so on.

Their machinery is at the service of any American business man acting through his local chamber of commerce, since all the chambers, whether domestic or foreign, are linked with the central organization, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Its headquarters are in Washington.

Many American exporters also hold memberships in commerce bodies in European centers in which they do, or hope to do, business. Generally, American chambers abroad are pleased to receive inquiries from business houses in the United States. If detailed service is required a small charge is made to nonmember firms, but the complete service of the chamber is freely at the service of members.

Those desiring information on foreign markets should send letters to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. These will be forwarded to the proper destination.

TURKISH 5 YEAR PLAN OPENS NEW TRADE CHANNEL

Mission Bound for U. S. in Quest of Credit.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Particulars of the Turkish five-year plan of development were received in London today. They indicate at least partially what immense trade opportunity there is in that country, if satisfactory credit terms can be arranged.

Chief among the details of the plan is the establishment of a great iron and steel industry at two main centers, Kastamonu and Songuldak, in the heart of the Turkish coal country. Special survey commissions have been organized. They will proceed immediately to these centers with instructions to report as soon as possible on the requirements so that the commission which sails for the United States next month may be fully informed.

3 Soldiers Back of Plan.

Three soldiers are said to be responsible for the iron and steel investigations. They are, President Mustafa Kemal Pasha himself; Gen. Ismet Pasha, the premier; and Ferzi Pasha, commander-in-chief of the army. Their military object is to free Turkey from dependence upon European industry for iron and steel, particularly, in the event of war, in which Turkey is determined not to be involved.

Other particulars of the five-year plan are as follows:

1. Anatolia is to be irrigated at a cost of $70,000,000.

2. Chemical factories are to be built at Izmir [Smyrna] and Erzerum to develop the vast medicinal deposits.

3. Streams in the Taurus and Caucasus mountains are to be dammed to furnish a supply of electricity for the entire state. Surveys are already underway.

Canning Industry Planned.

4. A canning industry is to be established at Gelibolu [Gallipoli] to exploit Europe's richest fishery—which is Turkish.

5. The intensive cultivation of sponges is to be undertaken at once.

6. Factories are to be established at Izmir, Konya, and Istanbul for hemp and artificial silk.

7. The silk factory at Bursa [Brusa] is to be modernized.

8. Gold, copper, zinc, lead mines surveyed under the old régime are to be worked immediately along the most modern scientific lines.

9. China, paper, boot, glass, and hardware factories are to be built at Kutaia, Izmir, Kastamonu, Bursa, and Istanbul.

10. The government is waiting upon technical reports from its commissions examining the production of wine, attar of roses, soap, and fruit for canning.

Man Power Increased.

In order to increase mechanical manpower, the government is introducing a bill permitting Greeks, who have been residents in Turkey for more than five years, to enjoy the same privileges as Turks where employment is concerned. Thirty-five thousand mechanical workers will thus be obtained.

Italian, German, French, Rumanian, and Czech newspapermen in Turkey, who have criticized the five-year plan, have been reprimanded by the press bureau and warned to stop.

JUDGE AWARDS 2 CHILDREN TO THEIR MOTHER

Mrs. Helen Cloonan, 1850 North Luna avenue, was awarded the custody of her two older children, Jeanne, 8 years old, and Robert Jr., 6, yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court. She has a bill for divorce pending against Robert Cloonan, a building manager. She told Judge Desort that she returned home six months ago and found the door locked against her. While she was sitting on the stoop, she said, her husband appeared with her youngest child, Matthew, who was crying, handed the boy to her and fled. Cloonan was ordered by Judge Desort to turn the other two children over to his wife. Mrs. Cloonan was represented by Attorney Norman Becker.

Ten Women Terrorized in Beauty Shop Holdup

Ten women, eight of them employés, were herded into the rear room of the Estelle Beauty shop, at 1505 North Crawford avenue, yesterday by three bandits, who took $65 from the cash register.

RUSSIA BUILDS UP WAR MORALE IN EAST SIBERIA

Boosts Soldiers' Pay; Aids Pioneers.

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Exemptions from regulations for the delivery of grain and other agricultural produce were decreed tonight for peasants in the eastern Siberian region.

Workers, engineers, teachers, professional men and Red army soldiers and officers in the same area were given substantial pay increases.

The action, ordered by Joseph Stalin, leader of the Communist party, and Vyacheslaff M. Molotov, president of the council of peoples' commissars, followed the recently inaugurated policy of strengthening thinly populated centers in the far east and of building up army morale in view of the increasingly tense Russo-Japanese relations.

Guard Lake Baikal Region.

Eastern Siberia embraces the strategic Lake Baikal district which, officials here have said, will be one of the first objectives of an enemy in case of an attack against soviet Russia from the east.

Similar privileges and emoluments were extended two months ago to the far eastern region embracing Vladivostok, Khabarovsk and the area east of Lake Baikal.

Taking cognizance of a recent heavy immigration to eastern Siberia and in order "to relieve the hardships of pioneering in that region so far removed from centers of population," the decree granted a six year exemption for all collective farmers and three years for individual peasants from delivering grain to the government in 23 districts of the area.

Reduce Meat Deliveries.

Other provisions were made for the nondelivery of potatoes, meat and dairy products. In several districts of the region allotments for potatoes, dairy products, and wool were reduced 33 to 50 per cent.

This order will be effective Feb. 15, as will a general increase in all salaries ranging from 10 per cent for office employés to 30 per cent for workers and engineers in coal mines.

Pay increases for the army, however, were made retroactive from Jan. 1 and will amount to 50 per cent for soldiers and junior officers and 20 per cent for higher officers.

RELIEF CHEATERS PAY BACK $902; CHARGE DROPPED

Steve Scilapis, 1737 Arcade place, and his wife, Angeline, made peace yesterday with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. It cost them $902.94.

At intervals, since 1917, and more steadily in recent months, the couple have been subsisting on public charity. Last week a relief commission investigator discovered that Mr. and Mrs. Scilapis needed no charity. They had $4,000 in a bank.

Yesterday the couple appeared before Judge John Gutknecht on charges of obtaining valuable goods by false pretenses. Scilapis evened up his debt by turning over a check for $902.94 to relief officials, the check representing the public aid he had received from the commission. As a result the fraud charges were dropped. It was the first case where relief cheaters have made a reimbursement.

STATE TO SPEED PROSECUTION OF PASTOR KILLERS

Holds 2 Women, 2 Men in Wabash Case.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Immediate indictment was promised tonight by authorities here as they continued to investigate the $10 slaying of the Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders. The minister retired only a week ago from his Methodist Episcopal charge at Wabash, Ind.

Dr. Lester Rhamy of Wabash declared there today the Rev. Mr. Saunders tried Jan. 19 to drown himself in a bathtub, but was revived. Mrs. Saunders and others agreed to have him committed as insane, Dr. Rhamy asserted, after the woman had mentioned killing him for safety. She weakened, Dr. Rhamy related, and dropped the committment plan to avoid publicity.

Fred Simon, chief of Indianapolis detectives, announced tonight his department intended to search for insurance policies and records. Reports from Wabash indicated that the minister carried $15,000 life insurance.

Held as Aids.

Persons under arrest in connection with the murder of the Rev. Mr. Saunders here Friday are:

Joseph Theodore Mathers, 19 years old, who confessed he fired the shot which killed Saunders, his roommate and fellow student at an embalming school here. He is charged with murder.

Mrs. Neoma Saunders, Wabash, 35 years old, widow of the murdered man, who admitted she paid Mathers $10 to have her husband killed because she thought he was going insane and feared for her own life and the lives of her two sons; charged with murder.

Masil Roe, 19 year old business college student and friend of Mathers, who confessed he was with Mathers and Saunders in an automobile in a suburban road early Friday where Saunders was killed; charged with murder.

Mrs. Mabel Balke, Mrs. Saunders' nurse, who is alleged to have aided in carrying out the murder plot; held for vagrancy.

Ross Curts, 19 years old, former Wabash High school athlete, who confessed attempting to destroy the revolver and possessions taken from Saunders after the commission of the crime. Charged with vagrancy and released on his own recognizance.

May Study Brain.

Curts came to police headquarters here this afternoon. Interviewed briefly by police, he was permitted to return to his home in Wabash.

Hearing for the defendants preliminary to their being bound over to the county grand jury was set for Thursday.

The Marion county coroner examined the Rev. Mr. Saunders' body today, but said he had not yet made any inspection of the brain. The body was to have been cremated today but the authorities would not release it after Mrs. Saunders declared her husband to have been of unsound mind. They consider post-mortem examination of the brain likely.

DR. WYNEKOOP IS READY TO GO TO COURT TODAY

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop is expected to appear before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan in Criminal court this morning for reassignment of her trial for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Wynekoop.

Dr. Francis W. McNamara, physician of the county jail, informed the chief justice and Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty that the invalid defendant has recovered sufficiently from the collapse that impelled Judge Joseph B. David to declare a mistrial two weeks ago to appear in court once more.

"She is still weak," Dr. McNamara said, "but is insistent that her new trial begin soon. With the concurrence of her family, I recommend that she be brought into court."

"A prompt trial is precisely what the state wants," Prosecutor Dougherty rejoined. "We will be ready to go ahead as soon as the case is reassigned. We are hoping there will be no further delay."

Don't BE A LAXATIVE SLAVE

Flush Clean with Non-Irritating Pluto Water

Ever hear of "cathartic constipation?" Medicine laxatives cause it. Most of them work by irritating the membranes of the digestive tract—an unnatural method!

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle — but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish—get results within an hour—and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces)—large bottles (3 times the quantity). At all druggists.

How to Stop a Cold Quick as You Get It

If you catch a cold—don't take chances with "cold killers" and nostrums. A cold may be dangerous to take chances on.

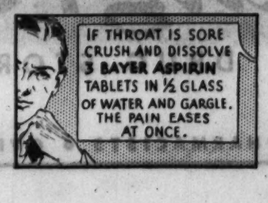
This is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it often checks an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it. Just do this:

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink Full Glass of Water.
Repeat treatment in 2 Hours.
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

Your cold should be relieved quickly when you do this because the real BAYER Aspirin embodies certain medical qualities that strike at the base of a cold almost INSTANTLY.

You can combat nearly any cold you get simply by taking BAYER Aspirin as directed. Sore throat can be eased by gargling this way in two or three minutes.



Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin. It dissolves almost instantly. And thus works almost instantly you take it internally. And for a gargle, it dissolves completely enough for this purpose. Get a box of 12 tablets or bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

EDITED BY WESLEY STOUT

THE Chief Usher, who stayed on in the White House while nine Presidents came and went, left for the American people through The Saturday Evening Post a priceless record—the human side of history in the making.

Leaving policies and politics to others, he saw Presidents and their wives from Harrison to Hoover as men and women, strangely contrasted, but all flesh and blood. His office, open twenty-four hours of the day, was the nerve center of the most famous house in America.

DAY BY DAY HE LIVED THE UNWRITTEN HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES—AND KEPT NOTES!

He did not feel free to tell his story while still on duty at the White House.

This series, easily the most readable manuscript that ever came out of Washington, begins with two introductory articles, the first of which appears in this week's Post. The second will appear next week—to be followed by his inside story and first-hand picture of the White House as a home, its occupants and their intimates from 1891 until 1933. Don't miss the first article—"Who's Who and Why in the White House"!

THE WAR ON CRIME.

In his survey of the year's accomplishments in the field of crime control, the redoubtable head of the crime commission, Mr. Frank Loesch, lays stress upon the special responsibilities which the holding of a world Exposition laid upon the city, its people, and its agencies of government. An exaggerated impression of the lawlessness of Chicago had been widely spread, partly because of the courageous policy of exposure and the energetic efforts to crush organized crime in this community. The reward of this policy and these efforts, as Mr. Loesch points out, was emphasized during the period of the Exposition when the millions of visitors discovered and were quick to acknowledge that Chicago's melodramatic reputation for crime is a myth.

That crime is flagrant in Chicago as in other great centers of population in America and in other countries is as undeniable as it is deplorable. Least of all is the fact shirked in our community, and because it is not shirked, but is being vigorously and unrelentingly combated, it is giving way in this city. And during the Exposition our guests found not what many of them had been led to expect, but a community in which crime had been driven to cover and where the visitor not only found security but the assistance for his guidance and comfort of a well disciplined and intelligent police as well as a hospitality throughout the city which is the real spirit of its people. Nothing was more gratifying in the experience of the Exposition than the cordial acknowledgment by our guests of the city's effort to make their stay rewarding, and this was chargeable in no small degree to the co-operation of the city government and chiefly the police authorities and rank and file.

In his review Mr. Loesch pays tribute to the late Mayor Cermak and the citizens' committee who selected as commissioner of police James P. Allman, to Mayor Kelly for his backing of his chief, to Commissioner Allman, and the policemen who have loyally fulfilled his direction, to State's Attorney Courtney for his vigorous coöperation and administration, and to the leadership of the chief justices of the Criminal court, Judge Prystalski and Judge Philip L. Sullivan, and "with one exception" the judges who sat in that court during the year. The exception, we assume, has reference to the no doubt well intended but ill advised conduct of Judge Gutknecht respecting auto thefts by youths, which has been corrected, it is to be hoped, through the establishment of the Automobile court and the strengthening of the law by the motor vehicle act. For the latter much needed legislation Col. Chamberlin in his pungent survey gives credit to Edward L. Rickards, chairman of the subcommittee of the conference on auto thefts, and to Joseph H. Braun, legal adviser of the Chicago Motor club.

It is believed that the act, which provides for registration of title to all motor vehicles, improves supervision of all dealers and in some other respects corrects weaknesses in previous law, will materially check the really intolerable prevalence of this form of crime. The stealing of automobiles is, in fact, not only a serious economic loss to the community but an important adjunct of organized criminality and constitutes a major factor of our crime problem. This until recently has not been sufficiently realized. Stolen automobiles are the chief instrument of successful crime as well as a field of criminal education for undisciplined youth. The crime commission and the Chicago Motor club deserve thanks for their efforts to emphasize the gravity of this field of criminal activity and to improve the public defense against it.

In summarizing conditions of law enforcement at this stage Col. Chamberlin commends the diligence of Chief Justice Finnegan and associates of the Criminal court, State's Attorney Courtney, Chief Allman, Judge Graber of the Automobile court, Chief Justice Sonsteby's improved administration of the Municipal court, and that of Clerk Seif of the Criminal court, Warden Moneypenny of the county jail and Warden Whipp of the state penitentiary, and the present pardon and parole board.

The general tendency of criminal justice in this county, Col. Chamberlin says, "indicates a trend in the direction of improvement, of greater coöperation, of better understanding," but we are very far from a satisfactory system of crime repression. The advances we have made are easily lost. Specific reforms that are essential and in the foreground are at least more generally recognized. Some of these are within reach, such as the suggestions of Judge Feinberg. Others can only be won after a long and persistent effort to overcome the obstructions of corrupt or self-seeking interests, political and professional. The foundations of our hope are in the gradual awakening of public demand for reform and its organization and better leadership. In this vital service there is no more important agency than the crime commission, which during its fifteen years of existence has proved an invaluable censor of administration and instructor of the public in the problems of organized crime. Conspicuous among the new influences is the awakening of a sense of responsibility for needed reforms in the criminal law and its administration in the legal profession throughout the country. It is to be hoped the bar of Illinois will take a leading place in the effort to improve our defenses against crime. There has been too much of laissez faire and even of deliberate obstruction to reform in the profession.

REVIVE THE RAILROADS.

The Eastman report to the commission and to the President is an indictment of railway management. It may seem unfair to many that the government should first strip the railway presidents of practically all power by regulation and then tell them that the resulting ills are due to their failure to keep abreast of the times, but the fact remains that they are facing absorption by the government as an alternative to railway rejuvenation.

The history is clear. At first railway managements fought regulation, but after the Hepburn act of 1906 they became resigned to what they considered the inevitable and even hailed the act of 1920, which imposed more stringent regulation, as "the most constructive piece of transportation legislation ever devised." Why? Because the commission had been instructed by congress to initiate rates and practices that would produce a fair return on the values of the properties. It was only necessary for the managements to provide economical administration and a paternalistic government would insure an adequate return. The annual report was merely a statement of results. If favorable, the management had been successful. If not, the commission had failed in its duty.

Railway managements even went beyond the terms of the act and instituted regulation within regulation through agreements between themselves so as to produce standardized service as well as tariffs. Innovations were taboo. An attempt was made to stand still, in violation of the great principle that corporations must either go forward or lapse into senility.

That is the plain truth and must be faced. The managements, coming up from the ranks, carried their duties with them. If a superintendent reached the presidency he merely became a glorified superintendent instead of a mainspring for the whole organization. One after another the duties that should have been left behind to subordinates were brought forward to the president's chair until the incumbents were passing on details of rate adjustments, dealing directly with labor representatives, examining blueprints and supervising time tables.

It is now up to each and every one of them to look about him, shed the details that have been hampering direct thinking, abrogate reactionary agreements and breathe life into an industry that, having reached the four corners of the country, can now just begin to perfect its usefulness. Failure should produce an immediate demand for replacements. Let the stockholders recall that the Canadian government acquired the core of its government owned system by declaring the common stock worthless.

In the meantime Coördinator Eastman should bear in mind that a very substantial part of the existing railway legislation is either archaic or has failed in its purpose, and that new legislation should be designed to help rather than hinder the perfection of our railway machine. Paternalism has failed as miserably in the management of a great industry as in the case of the individual.

GOING BACK TO THE TEA PARTY.

Secretary Wallace is bound to run a high news print average. He'll have more scrap books and fatter ones, and more fan mail than the other administrators, and there are several reasons for it. He has a tail hold on the oldest and most stubborn problem which the government has made its own—the farm. The farm problem is the oldest lion on the lot, and it has chased all its tamers up the tree. The other tamers are just getting acquainted with their problems and the problems have not yet learned to be wild.

Mr. Wallace is the most engaging of the tamers. When he is allowed to come down out of the tree he does not hurry into the house, but remains to show the snags and rips in his apparel. He'll admit that something went wrong and will try something else, which will go wrong. There is a great deal of cheerfulness in Mr. Wallace's view of trial and error.

Mr. Wallace also speaks well and on a great variety of subjects, including the major and minor prophets of the Old Testament. The other day he went back to colonial Boston for an illustration and found that the "New England hoodlums" of the tea party were the spiritual forbears of the leaders of the present day farm rebellion. Mr. Wallace has a point here. It is his application that is uncertain.

The tea tax, if not quite a processing tax or a price fixing measure, was intended to raise some money for the good of citizens, as perceived by a ministry in London. The uprising was of consumers who would not drink taxed tea. A little something of that has been discovered of late in the marketing of various commodities, such, for instance, as pork and milk.

Editorial of the Day

WHICH IS RIGHT?

[Tucson (Ariz.) Star.]

"At the present minute our principal problem is one of finance. Until our budget is balanced we cannot really get to work."

This statement is not from Lewis Douglas, John W. Davis, Carter Glass, or Ogden Mills. It is not the statement of a man renowned for his conservatism. It is not the statement of either a Democrat or a Republican or a reactionary. It is the statement of a man who is an openly avowed radical, a militant socialist, a man who, when he was a member of congress, fought against economy, who fought against a balanced budget and openly favored extravagance.

The quotation printed above is a public statement made by Mayor La Guardia, the new mayor of New York City. It shows that now since one of the greatest responsibilities in the nation has been imposed upon him he is opening his eyes to realities, facing facts as they are, and without apologies or excuses attempting with remarkable courage and persistence to establish an orderly government in New York.

Curiously enough, the first important problem this Socialist mayor is attempting to solve is that of the city's credit. By overspending and extravagance the finances of New York City are in a chaotic condition. The new mayor proposes to solve this problem by doing away with thousands of new jobs, slashing salaries, and imposing other rigid economies. And with his indomitable energy and courage he is doing this.

What amazing contradictions there are now between Washington and New York. One of the two must be wrong.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND NOW COMES the startling news that the weather bureau is going to forecast the weather by a new method. And all this time we didn't know they had a method. It was the general idea that if the weather man got cold coffee for breakfast and squirted the juice out of the orange in his eye and the toast was burned and the eggs weren't as fresh as they ought to be, he always sent out this forecast: "Rains and sleet over wide area, changing to snow and ice with probable earthquakes." While if everything was lovely at breakfast and somebody met the weather man while he was on the way to the office and pinned a red carnation on the lapel of his coat and told him he was certainly some gee whizzer of a weather prophet he always immediately sent out a report like this: "Soft, gentle breezes laden with the fragrant scent of the pines will blow today and overhead the sky will be a smiling blue and the little birds will sing happily on the tree and anybody that says this is a heck of a world ought to get a swift kick in the pants." But the weather department has a method. Well, well, now who would have thought it!

A DEDICATION.

There was once a secret spot
With willows all around,
And a buried treasure pot
That no one ever found,
And a little brook to cross
In a pony cart,
Edged with water cress and moss,
And minnows used to dart
Like lightning from the pony's feet
To a safer pool,
And in the lazy summer heat
The water sounded cool,
Gurgling past us through the wood
Where trees leaned down to see . . .
Oh I'd go back there if I could.
Will you go back
For me?

"STOCK MARKET booms," relate yesterday's papers. "Blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares appeared . . . ticker five minutes behind the market . . . scores of stocks and bonds registered new highs . . ." et cet., et cet., et cet. And on another page in the same newspaper we read that Representative Truax of Ohio had just said in congress: "The people of this country last November turned over all the power and authority to the only man in the history of the country who has had the courage to tell Wall street to go to hell and stay there." But it would seem from the stock reports that even if Wall street was sternly bidden to go to hell and stay there it may have gone to that terrible place, but it didn't remain for any very considerable time.

"HER PURSE Stolen in Evanston Church."—Headline. Being what is called in Evanston a carnival of crime.

AND NOW that it's all over I must say there was one thing I very much missed in the auto show. And that was an exhibit of handsome Illinois drivers' licenses in a big glass case with a band playing in front of it. I thought of that yesterday when walking across the Boul Mich and jumped sidewise just in time to avoid being hit by a big battleship auto driven by a sweet child of probably ten or twelve summers. The darling laughed happily and said something as she went by me, but, of course, I couldn't catch what she said. However, it was probably "Oh, fudge; I missed him." Now, if Illinois had a drivers' license law the fond papa of little darling would lose his license. And he should be compelled in such cases to eat his license with only a very little sugar and cream on it. But what's the use? In the great old commonwealth of Illinois we have no drivers' license law.

THE INCREASE OF CRIME, auto accidents and a sort of general breakdown all around compel Rupert Hughes to declare that it is four times as hazardous to live in these United States right now as it was to be a soldier in the world war. It's worse than that; over in France people weren't always making you drink the cocktail they had just invented themselves.

"UNIVERSITIES NEED Course in Humor, Says Dr. William McAndrew."—Headline. Ah, they do indeed! They seem to get sadder and sadder. Who can attend what is advertised as a rip roaring, side splitting, sure fire college comedy play and not be cast down with woe at the gloom of it all? And football cheer leaders—oh, how depressing! Even hardened old football fans after they gaze for ten or fifteen minutes on cheer leaders doing horrible convulsions and contortions in front of the spectators have been known to break down and cry into their peanuts or popcorn or whatever it is they are eating. And fraternity sings—those annual occasions when the fraternities solemnly march to some place on the campus and break forth in song. Hard, stern men whose eyes are strangers to a tear often faint, and people living for blocks around rush to shut the windows to keep out the terrible wails of anguish emitted by the fraternity song birds. It might be a good idea to have a chair of humor in the universities, but what's the use? University humor is so doggoned sad.

THE BARGAINER.

I bartered a song for a penny,
I dreamed a dream for a mite;
The buyers were not very many,
My sales were scanty and light.

But I bought content with my dreaming,
I won three friends with my song.
Oh, I am a master of bargains,
In a market that never goes wrong!

TAKING STOCK.

THE general health is very good but not as much so as we have been led to believe. The common opinion on the subject is based upon several death rates, and these have been low for several years. In some measure these rates as published are misleading because they are based on totals of population. We get a fair idea of what the population is once every ten years. But for the years in between we make the best estimate we can.

At the present time our rates are calculated on the basis of the last count plus an average yearly increase figured on the basis of the increase between preceding census years. This means that in practically all cities we are figuring on a population that is above the number of inhabitants.

For the last several years there has been little immigration from foreign lands. When we count the Mexicans and other foreigners who have returned to their old homes we find that the outgo has exceeded the inflow in many instances. The industry of bootlegging immigrants has gone out of business.

The birth rate has dropped rapidly—far more so than the death rate. The increase of population from excess of births over deaths is also far below that of previous decades. The same is true of the flow into the cities of people from the rural districts. Therefore estimates of present population based on rates of increase in periods of greater population increase are misleading, and death rates based on them are likewise too low.

The very great drop in the birth rate is adding to the figures that tend to mislead. If few babies are born there will be fewer babies die, and since the baby death rate is many times that of adults, the general death rate is lowered.

That a change in population is going on is shown by the school attendance. Under the old order school authorities planned for a rather definite increase in the school registration yearly. In most places the number of children in the kindergarten and two lower grammar grades is falling yearly. The number in the grades from third to sixth, inclusive, is practically stationary. The only considerable increases are in the registration in the high schools.

The fact is that—viewed judiciously—health is not improving in the last several years. Most of the old fashioned, contagious diseases are becoming of minor importance. Diphtheria leads the procession. There is a great improvement in the digestive disorders of babies, even after making allowance for errors due to misleading basis of calculation and also others due more directly to the fall of the birth rate.

But there are offsets. We had two disquieting epidemics this last summer—encephalitis and amebic dysentery. There was an increase in malaria and pellagra. Pneumonia is not coming under control, nor is heart disease and its group of related disorders.

FIND THE CAUSE.

A. C. J. writes: I get welts on my flesh if I hold packages or anything in my arms, and after I take a bath these welts appear. They don't last very long. What causes it and what can I do for it?

You are subject to urticaria or nettlerash. If you can find the causes and avoid them your trouble will stop. What is in the packages? Is the bath hot or cold?

STITCH IN THE SIDE.

J. S. writes: When I attempt to run a distance there comes a stitch in the side. Lately I have heard that this is beneficial in so far as an area of unused, collapsed lung cells are pumped up through this extra effort to breathe.

1. Is this pain a sign of disease?
2. Or should, on account of the theory above, exercise be more strenuous?

REPLY.

1. Your theory is not a good one.
2. Some pains of this type are due to neuralgia of the chest wall muscles. Some are due to pleural adhesions. Some are due to heart strain.
3. In most cases this pain calls for no attention. In some it does.

TWO PHYSICIANS.

A. C. writes: I fell three times and hurt my right knee. The first time was nearly a year ago, the second a few months later, and the third a few months ago. I had an X-ray taken and it showed a torn cartilage. One doctor told me I needed an operation and another said I should have a cast made. I don't know what to do. I think if I have it operated on I will have a stiff knee. If I have a cast made I don't think it will do any good because it is too late.

REPLY.

A history of repeated falling due to something wrong in the knee joint points to a loose body in the joint. Such loose bodies result from breaking off of a joint cartilage. An operation to remove the broken piece should not result in a stiff joint. I cannot tell you which physician is right, but in general operation is satisfactory.

CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if there is any way of joining the reforestation army. I have been told that only those who received relief can join. Our family has had no aid. Does that make any difference? If I cannot join, please let me know. I am 18 years old. P. S.

The next Civilian Conservation corps enrollment will probably begin about April 15. No waiting lists are being kept in this office. Interested applicants should make their desire known to their relief office if their family is receiving relief; if not, watch the newspapers for further announcements, or communicate with this office about April 1.

JOINT TENANCY.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man and wife own a home in joint tenancy, not tenancy in common. This property is mortgaged for 50 per cent of its value. 1. To what extent can the joint equity be seized to satisfy a judgment for debt against one party, either the man or his wife? 2. How would the creditor have to proceed to obtain satisfaction of judgment through the property thus held in joint tenancy? B. T. P.

1. The judgment creditor could have the judgment debtor's one-half sold at execution sale and later could by partition proceedings force a sale of the entire property and a distribution of the proceeds.
2. See 1.

TITLE TO REAL ESTATE.

Delavan, Wis., Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In order to acquire clear title to real estate is it necessary to have an abstract any farther back than a sheriff's deed? The writer got a farm back through foreclosure and was given a sheriff's deed, and also the understanding at the time that the new abstract would start with this deed. 2. Is this correct, or would the abstract have to be traced back to the patent deed from the government? A owns a farm of eighty acres. B has the mortgage on it. C wants to buy a parcel from it. If A sells to C and [3] B disapproves and refuses to sign the necessary papers [4] is the deal that A made with C binding? 5. What can C do about the deal if A has signed the conveyance and B has not? 6. Have had many conflicting answers regarding these two questions and would thank you for your views. R. K.

1. Yes. The sheriff's deed is valueless unless the judgment debtor had title to the property.
2. In order to be in a position to sell to any purchaser you should have a complete abstract.
3. B's approval is not necessary if the purchaser is willing to take subject to the mortgage.
4. Yes, in the sense that damages could be collected for breach of contract.
5. See preceding answers.
6. It seems probable that the discrepancies have been due to vagueness in your questions. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Sir William Morris, who was created a peer in the king's New Year honors list, is one of the most romantic figures in British industry. He is the founder of the firm of Morris Motors, Ltd. He launched his business career at the age of 17 with a capital of $20, which he had saved while working as an apprentice in an Oxford engineer's shop.

Sir William comes from a farming stock, but adopted engineering as his life's work because it was the only thing he was really interested in. He was a great cyclist and possesses a case full of medals and trophies which he won as a racing cyclist.

His ambition was to manufacture the fastest thing on the road. In 1893 bicycles happened to be the fastest vehicle on the road. For a while he contented himself repairing bicycles, but at the end of 12 months he tired of this and decided to manufacture his own bicycles.

He rented a shop in Oxford and hired a man to help him. He produced six bicycles in a month. When some individual began putting motors in bicycles to make them faster he decided to do the same. In 1903 he began to make motorcycles. They were the fastest things on the road.

By 1910 he was making automobiles as speedily as he could turn them out. Today he has a pay roll of 26,000 men and women. They are considered to be among the best paid workers in British industry. Sir William built up the huge business of Morris Motors, Ltd., without any outside aid. When asked if he has ever had any help during his career, his reply was:

"Thank God, I have had no help from any one."

His most difficult problem at the moment is to find a new name for himself. He cannot use the title of Lord Morris, as there is already a Lord Morris. He must therefore forsake the family name and find another. He has an alternative in mind which he intends to submit to the king for his sanction, but refuses to disclose it until that sanction is granted.

He has expressed the wish that in the future all his friends will allude to him by his initials "W. R." in the same way that the late Lord Birkenhead's friends referred to him as "F. E." Lord Birkenhead's name was Frederick Edwin Smith.

A BIT OF A MISUNDERSTANDING

[London Daily Herald (Copyright).]

Ramsay: "Appearances are against me, my dear, but I can explain all."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

FROM MR. PATRICK.

Goldsboro, N. C., Jan. 31.—I have received from a friend a copy of an editorial, "Selling the Birthright," which I believe appeared in THE TRIBUNE on Jan. 22 and some of the phraseology in which I think you should correct in fairness to conform with the facts.

"The publishers whose names are associated with the venture seem to have been lured by a promoter's promise of cheap money," you say, and continue on in the line below with the statement that every one else getting easy money from the government, "they thought they ought to have some, too."

Five persons who might be called newspaper publishers are included among the officers and directors of the Publishers' Finance company, the corporation whose formation and existence you think no thoughtful, self-respecting publisher would have anything to do with.

I am a former Chicagoan, a publisher, and a director in this company, and it is especially because of my friends and relatives in Chicago that I am writing you. I have no intention of obtaining any money for my newspapers through this finance company.

Another director is Miss Beatrice Cobb, secretary of the North Carolina Press association and publisher of the Morganton News-Herald. Miss Cobb also went into this organization with no idea of helping herself, but with the thought that greater credit facility might be provided for newspapers in cities where the usual credit sources are now nonexistent or extremely limited.

About the intentions of W. G. Hazel, finance company director, publisher of a newspaper at Bennettsville, S. C., and John A. Park, president of the finance company and publisher of the Times at Raleigh, N. C., I cannot say more than that they have made no expression of intention to me and that neither one has an application for a loan with the finance company. I am on the loan committee.

The fifth person who might be called a publisher is D. Hiden Ramsey, general manager of the daily papers at Asheville, N. C. These papers, I believe, have no intention of applying for a loan through the finance company.

Other directors and officers consist of two men in the commercial printing business, a banker, and the executive full time secretary of two building and loan associations.

If you have ever known the details of an individual or a small corporation trying to borrow RFC money through one of the various forms of mortgage companies now existing for the purpose you must realize that loans are made only by meeting requirements which even banks would consider reasonably hardboiled. That for the business side of it.

As far as editorial freedom is concerned, any newspaper which borrows from this finance company will have it complete. The mortgage company will have none of the local or national axes to grind of the local or metropolitan bankers. The newspapers whose publishers are executives of the finance company are independent minded to my best observations and judgment, except for a certain amount of party loyalty of which a couple of them might be accused in company with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Certainly, the independent editorial mind is strongly enough represented in the finance company so that even a suggestion or a hint from Washington as to editorial policy would explode as reply a plain "You go to hell."

I am absolutely at one with THE TRIBUNE on the urgency of maintaining free thought, free speech, and free publication in the United States. Perhaps it is because I also feel so sincerely the necessity of such freedom that I cannot allow to pass without correction a misunderstanding of the motives of the organization and the methods of operation of the mortgage company.

I grew up on THE TRIBUNE and I would prefer that any other paper in the country should misunderstand and attack an organization in which I am active. I am sorry to have run on to such length and hope I have not left out any statement which should be in this letter. As the finance company works in the immediate future it will write a record which I trust, will be even more satisfactory to you than this message.

TALBOT PATRICK,
Publisher Goldsboro News-Argus.

A TRIBUTE TO THE PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—At a recent meeting the membership of the Albany Park Civic league passed a resolution unanimously pledging its support to our courageous President in helping him to make the national recovery program a success.

For some time now the doubting Thomases and the representatives of selfish and chiseling interests have been criticizing the recovery policies of the administration. Fortunately, the overwhelming majority of American citizenry are not prone to consider seriously the creditless efforts of these critics. It is the millions of intelligent citizens who have demonstrated their confidence in our chief, who have been rewarded with worthwhile reforms and innovations in the American governmental system.

A. E. BERLAND,
President, Albany Park Civic League.

SUGGESTION FOR THE 1934 FAIR.

Centralia, Ill., Jan. 31.—I suggest for the 1934 Exposition an open air theater staging light opera. Each year down in St. Louis tens of thousands see the world's finest light operas in the greatest open air theater in the world, the Municipal theater in Forrest park. Why not present light opera in the floating theater this coming summer? Surely with all the attendance the Exposition will have this summer it would prove a great success. St. Louis has successfully staged light opera for over 15 years. Surely Chicago can do the same.

CANDIDATES TALK AS DEMOCRATS HOLD PEP RALLY

2,500 Precinct Captains at Civic Opera.

City and county Democratic organization candidates in the April primary were presented to 2,500 precinct captains and workers last night at a "pep" rally in the Civic Opera house.

Clayton F. Smith, county recorder and chairman of the Democratic county managing committee, presided. Mr. Smith, now a candidate for president of the county board, called on the workers to wage a year around fight to "hold the honor that is ours."

Igoe Pledges Support.

The Democratic cause will rest on the achievements of the local and national administrations, Mr. Smith said, repeatedly referring to "our great President."

Michael L. Igoe, who nominated Melvin A. Traylor as a candidate for President and who has not always been on the inside in organization circles in the last few years, pledged his and William L. O'Connell's full support to the ticket.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee, declared his main reason for seeking the office of assessor is to see that personal property is taxed. This would lighten the burden on real estate and not only forestall further reduction of city salaries and personnel, he said, but permit salary increases as the cost of living rises.

Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk for 24 years, labeled himself Exhibit A in proving a fallacy that "you can't teach an old dog new tricks." He is a candidate for county treasurer. He called the November election an opportunity to demonstrate confidence in President Roosevelt.

Judges' Slates Awaited.

Although yesterday was the first day for filing petitions of candidates for associate judgeships of the Municipal court, neither the regular Democratic nor the Republican county committee slate was presented at County Clerk Sweitzer's office. The only petition for this office was that of Lawrence J. West, 7036 Oglesby avenue.

Two additional petitions of candidates for the county board were filed, that of Waldemar J. Roehler, 2244 Morse avenue for city commissioner, and that of Henry C. Wahl, Lyons township, for commissioner from the country towns.

The expected call by Gov. Horner for a special election to fill the Circuit court vacancy caused when Judge Philip L. Sullivan resigned to go on the federal bench was issued at Springfield. The special will be held the same day as the regular judicial election, June 4.

BANDITS HOLD UP 5 CAFES IN HOUR; FLEE WITH $117

Five masked men in an automobile shortly after midnight today held up five restaurants and saloons within less than an hour and escaped with $117 while police squads toured the southwest side searching for them.

The first victim was William McCarthy, cashier in a Thompson's restaurant at 138 South Canal street. He was held up at 12:05 a. m. and surrendered $5. The next place was Solly Goldstein's restaurant, 3831 Ogden avenue, where Goldstein and a Miss Lillian Kaplan were robbed of a total of $24.

The third place robbed was Arthur Froehlig's saloon at 1458 West 18th street, where $18 was taken, and next came Jack Wietach's saloon at 2700 Ogden avenue, where $40 was taken. James Olson, 2706 Ogden avenue, a customer, threw a glass at the robbers and was beaten over the head with a revolver. The last place robbed was Harry Scott's saloon at 200 Hastings street, where $30 was taken at 12:50 a. m.

Police were told the men wore handkerchief masks and that one carried a sawed off shotgun.

APPEAL STARTED BY DR. EASTMAN ON LICENSE BAN

The Appellate court yesterday dissolved an injunction granted a year ago by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher restraining the state department of education and registration from revoking the medical license of Dr. Lewis K. Eastman. Dr. Eastman was the owner of the former Keystone hospital, now the Danish-American hospital.

Dr. Eastman said yesterday that he can still practice medicine, however, because his attorneys have started an appeal to the Illinois Supreme court by the filing of a writ of certiorari which stays the ruling of the Appellate court.

The Appellate court, in reversing Judge Fisher, held that Dr. Eastman had not petitioned for a rehearing before the medical committee of the state department of education and registration, which had recommended the suspension of his license, and that he could not begin proceedings in the Circuit court before exhausting his other remedies. Dr. Eastman was charged with malpractice and unethical conduct before the state department. He contended that the medical examiners had been arbitrary in the admission of evidence against him.

Pigs, Calves, Policemen Mix When Truck Upsets

Thirty-nine pigs, two calves, and ten policemen mixed in a game of catch-as-catch-can yesterday when a truck driven by G. R. Mertil of Oregon, Ill., overturned at California avenue and 28th street.

Walks on Thin Lake Ice; Breaks Through; Rescued

Joseph Nelson 38 years old, 1742 North Austin avenue, an electrician, was rescued early today after he had broken through thin ice on the lake on which he was walking about 20 feet from the Diversey boulevard shore. Police said he had been drinking. A passerby, T. S. Schwartz, 3835 Janssen avenue, heard his cries and summoned Lincoln Park Policemen Charles Keifer and Frank Brilla. Nelson clung to the edge of the ice until boards were brought and he was pulled out.

"Very remarkable women's response from the Herald Tribune"—Loose-Wiles

WHEN Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company set out to popularize Sunshine KRISPY Crackers in New York, everyone knew they had a hard job before them. Other crackers were presumably thoroughly intrenched with the trade and grocers were not keen about stocking additional lines.

But Loose-Wiles felt they had an unusual product and an unusual story to tell on Sunshine KRISPY Crackers—and they found an unusual way to tell it, by full color pages in the Magazine section of the New York Herald Tribune.

In using the Herald Tribune for this campaign, they were tieing in with the intensely close relationship between this newspaper and its women readers. The work of the Herald Tribune Home Institute and the many special departments devoting large editorial space to women's interests provided the essential reader response to make the campaign both an initial and a continuing success. The "hard job" turned out to be a relatively easy one, after all!

If your New York sales problem is still a knotty one, be sure you give open-minded consideration to what the Herald Tribune can do for you. For this distinctive New York newspaper reaches such a tremendous number of able-to-buy New York men and women that it holds a selling power of vital importance in any campaign that is focused on the New York market. We can give you the facts, as well as the results, to prove the point!

LOOK what your money buys!
Sunshine KRISPY CRACKER
"GEE! ALL THOSE CRACKERS COME IN THIS ONE POUND PACKAGE!"
...the flakiest, most flavorful crackers you ever tasted!
Crackers for soup! Crackers for salad! Crackers for jams, for peanut butter and for a host of other uses! Crackers in abundance for days and days!... Where else can you find so much cracker-quality for so little cost?. Sunshine Krispy Crackers are lighter, flakier, and more flavorful. Such important differences in taste explain why the big, blue and white economy package sits so proudly on millions of pantry shelves all over the country... year in and year out.

New York Herald Tribune,
New York City, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

In renewing our contract with you for another year we feel that you are entitled to know that we are very happy with the results the Herald Tribune has obtained for us in the New York market.

These results have shown us that the Herald Tribune has a very unusual woman interest as exemplified by your Home Institute, your many feminine departments and special pages devoted to women's affairs.

Our campaign in New York could not have attained its excellent success of the past four years, if we had not been able to secure a very remarkable women's response from our sustained drive in the Herald Tribune.

Yours very truly,

Vice-President

DYING PHYSICIAN NAMED DR. DEAN, BROTHER AVERS

Testifies to Charge of Poisoned Whisky.

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Gaining a "major victory, the state today won the right to present to the jury in the murder trial of Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, a reputed deathbed statement in which Dr. John Preston Kennedy was quoted as saying the woman gave him a poison whisky highball.

With the jury excluded from the court room, the court heard the statement from Dr. Henry Kennedy, young dentist brother of the dead physician, and over strenuous objections of the defense ordered that the testimony be repeated tomorrow before the jurors.

The dentist, as the chief prosecution witness, told his story in the tense hush of a crowded courtroom. Calm, but without strain, the woman defendant stared at the witness, who avoided her gaze.

Dr. Henry Kennedy said his brother had been ill for five days in Greenwood before he was removed to Baptist hospital in Jackson. He testified that he and another brother, Barney, interviewed Dr. Preston Kennedy as he lay dying.

Describes Drinking Episode.

"'Boys,'" Henry quoted Preston, "'my time has come. I'm going to die.' We started to cry. He said: 'Boys, don't cry, that makes it harder for me. We've always been the three musketeers. It's just my luck to go first.' Then he told me to look after his wife and baby. He said they were well provided for. Other business affairs were discussed briefly."

"Barney said, 'How did it happen?' and Preston answered, 'Dr. Ruth Dean gave me a drink of whisky with poison in it. I think it had mercury in it. Dr. Dean has been worrying me, calling me several times each night. She called that night and said she wasn't going to leave town until I went to see her.'"

"He got Dr. Dean and they drove to the office. He said they talked a while and had several drinks at his office.

Testimony Amuses Defendant.

"Preston said he went out in the hall for some ice water and when he came back in the drinks were already poured. Preston said he drank his drink and noticed a strong metallic taste—an astringent taste.

"Barney asked Preston what he wanted us to do. He said 'Boys, I know just how you feel. Do what you want, but don't do anything that will keep us three from meeting in heaven.'"

A faint smile appeared on Dr. Dean's lips as this testimony was given. The defense expects to place her on the stand.

Declare Victim Not Drunk.

August Thalheimer and his mother-in-law, Mrs. A. Weller, at whose home Kennedy lived, were the first state witnesses. They told of the doctor receiving "many telephone calls" the night of July 27 and how he "finally got up and dressed carefully and went out about midnight, staying out until 4:30 a. m."

Both testified he returned violently ill and attempted to treat himself, but was unable to eat anything for the five days before he was removed to a hospital. Both said he "was sick, not drunk," and that he was not in the habit of drinking. His divorced wife and baby daughter were living in another section of Greenwood at the time.

GOV. HORNER URGES ILLINOIS TO HONOR LINCOLN ON FEB. 12

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner's proclamation calling upon the people of Illinois to observe the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln on Feb. 12, which marks the 125th aniversary of the Emancipator, was issued today.

The proclamation, prepared by the governor before his departure for Arizona, urges general observance of the day by all citizens of the state and a study of the life of Lincoln in the schools.

"Without the wise, patient, tireless, and courageous leadership of Lincoln, the government of the United States might not have withstood the long and severe test of a cruel civil war," the proclamation says. "Our people—his people—might have been divided into small, war weakened and hostile nations, each as easy prey of the powers then existing abroad.

"The American people are now emerging from another painful period of stress, from a crisis in length equal to that of Lincoln. Forever united now, the people of the Union which Lincoln faithfully labored and bravely died to preserve have, under the leadership of another wise, able, fearless and Lincoln-like President, waged a successful battle against an economic scourge as serious as war."

ORDERS CWA PAY TURNED OVER TO WIFE AS ALIMONY

A row between two courts over the wages of Fred Rathmann, a Civil Works administration worker, developed yesterday when Judge Rudolph F. Desort issued an order in the Superior court that Rathmann turn over the whole of his next CWA pay check to his divorced wife, Mrs. Viola Rathmann Randich, 17 years old, 6417 South Sacramento avenue, or go to jail for contempt of court.

Mrs. Randich and her attorney, Benjamin Vandervelt, charged that Rathmann is $240 in arrears on payments of $5 a week for support of his son, Fred Jr. The wife divorced him last summer and since has remarried.

A social service worker from the Juvenile court told Judge Desort that Rathmann got the CWA job, which pays him $35 for ten days' work each month, on the express condition that he make no payments to his ex-wife, but use the money for the support of two brothers, 14 and 16 years old. The Juvenile court entered the order, the worker explained, because it was felt that no emergency was at issue in the case of Mrs. Randich because of her remarriage.

"I'll make this an emergency or send him to jail," said Judge Desort.

4,000 Find Cafe Jobs in Wall St. Area Since Repeal

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—More than 4,000 have found jobs in restaurants in the Wall street district since repeal, according to a survey by the newly organized downtown restaurateurs, made public today.

Judge Rudolph F. Desort issued an attachment yesterday in the Superior court for the arrest of Frederick J. Radke, 2749 South Tripp avenue, a CWA worker, who is $240 in arrears on temporary alimony payments to Mrs. Lillian Radke. Attorney Harry X. Cole, representing Mrs. Radke, told Judge Desort that Radke paid up previous arrears last summer, after he had been arrested while acting as a pallbearer at his grandfather's funeral and had spent a month in alimony row at the county jail.

ALDERMEN BALK AT JULY 31 DELAY OF CAR FRANCHISE

Committee to Recommend 60 Day Extension.

The city council local transportation committee yesterday decided to recommend another temporary 60 day extension of the time in which the traction interests may accept the 1930 franchise ordinance.

The action was taken in spite of pleas by speakers for the Chicago Association of Commerce and 160 improvement clubs that the request of the traction interests for an extension until July 31 be granted by the council without delay. The speakers emphasized the benefits to the city and the car riders that would result from a merger of the surface and elevated lines.

More Speakers to be Heard.

Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the local transportation committee said the longer extension could not be recommended to the city council until all those who wished to speak for or against on the subject had been heard. He pointed out 50 more speakers wish to be heard and that the importance of working out the city's budget problems is so great that few hearings on the traction question can be held for several weeks.

The present deadline of acceptance of the 1930 traction ordinance by the financial interests of both transit systems expires March 3. At the hearing yesterday Attorney Walter L. Fisher, an expert on traction matters who is credited with having brought about the recent agreement on a plan of consolidating the transportation lines, warned that temporary extensions from time to time would in all probability necessitate an additional period of time after July 31 for acceptance of the ordinance.

Fears Delay in Court.

Mr. Fisher said that the uncertainty as to the period of time would slow up proceedings in federal court to effect the necessary financial arrangements. The inability to tell the bondholders whether or not the full extension will be granted meant the running of a risk that some of the bondholders would vote against the financial agreement involving their securities, and that some might withdraw their bonds from the hands of the protective committees, he said.

Among the principal organizations whose spokesmen expressed themselves at the meeting were the Chicago Real Estate board, the Greater Central District association, the Northwest Federation of improvement clubs numbering 90 organizations, the Austin Federation clubs numbering 36 organizations, the West Town Chamber of Commerce and the City club, whose spokesman, Frank M. Dooley, also listed 36 south side civic groups.

MISSOURI DROPS PROSECUTION OF LYNCHING CASES

Trial by Jury Futile, State Admits.

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The state's attempt to punish leaders of the mob that lynched Lloyd Warner, Negro youth, here on the night of Nov. 28 collapsed today.

All pending cases will be dismissed as the result of the acquittal by a jury Saturday night of Walter Garton, one of seven men charged with first degree murder in connection with the lynching.

In making the announcement at Jefferson City Attorney General Roy McKittrick said the case against Garton was the strongest.

Drop Numerous Charges.

"I am informed the jury was a group of good representative citizens of Buchanan county, and in view of the verdict of not guilty it would be useless to spend more money in prosecuting the other cases now pending," McKittrick said.

Charges to be dropped include malicious destruction of property in connection with the damages to the county jail when the mob fought back National Guardsmen, forced its way inside and took the Negro from Sheriff Otto Theisen.

Warner, accused of assaulting a white girl, was hanged from a tree and his body burned in view of a crowd estimated of 5,000.

Back to Prison, Anyhow.

Several state witnesses identified Garton as having been active in the mob and declared he boasted of participation in the lynching.

Chief of Police Charles Enos announced that Garton will be returned to Iowa reformatory at Anamosa as a parole violator to complete a sentence of five years imposed in 1920 on a charge of breaking into a car.

KNOCKED OUT BY BURGLARS.

Frank Wagner, 48 years old, 5337 Princeton avenue, a private watchman employed by the Englewood cleaners, 5119 South Halsted street, was knocked unconscious early yesterday by two burglars whom he surprised in the office. The men fled without opening the safe.

$500,000 LIBEL ACTION AGAINST LONG IS UPHELD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long has a $500,000 libel suit on his hands.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals ruled today that, just because he was in Washington, Long was not immune from service of the suit, brought by Samuel T. Ansell.

The suit grew out of publication of remarks Long made about Ansell on the senate floor. Ansell was counsel for the senate committee investigating the election of Senator Overton [Dem., La.], and Long was charged in the suit with having called him a "thief, scoundrel, and crook."

Free, Still to Move About.

The court dismissed Ansell's suit for slander.

Associate Justice J. A. Van Orsdel, in his opinion today, pointed out that service of a summons, which Long had asked to be quashed, would not restrain Long or restrict his right of locomotion—which, in the justice's belief, was what the constitutional immunity was meant to prevent. He said:

"A senator of the United States is here charged with publishing in the District of Columbia and circulating here and throughout the country libelous and defamatory articles, alleged to be a reprint of a speech made on the floor of the senate.

Speech Itself Another Matter.

"The charge here is not for slander resulting from a speech made on the floor of the senate but for libel in publishing and distributing a copy of that speech together with a letter calling attention to the article.

"Defendant hitches his defense upon the exemption from arrest and not upon his exemption from responsibility for statements made in his speech on the floor of the senate.

"While the published articles were in part reproductions of the speech, the offense consists not in what was said in the senate but in the publication and circularizing of the libelous documents."

Summer Sunshine all winter long

An electric sunlamp will help you build resistance against common winter illnesses.

● Even when there is sunshine in winter, it is not strong in ultra-violet radiation. It is filtered, weak, ineffective in health-giving properties necessary to the human body. That's why so many people feel run down—why they contract colds and other ailments.

During these winter months, when your body particularly needs sunshine, sunlamps give it to you, with a wealth of ultra-violet radiation.

This Miller Sunlite, No. 9, is one of the most flexible health-lamps ever made. Adjustable to any height. May be used as a floor lamp, low floor lamp or table lamp—three lamps in one. Center swivel allows use of lamp at any angle. Price . . . $33.50

WINSHIP TAKES OATH AS PORTO RICAN GOVERNOR

Island Sees Military Rule by Retired General.

BY HARWOOD HULL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 5.—Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, United States army, retired, today was inaugurated as the twelfth civil governor of Porto Rico in a ceremony which insular observers regarded as portending a military administration of the island.

Maj. Gen. Winship, who succeeds Gov. Robert H. Gore of Chicago and Florida, received a 17 gun salute when he arrived this morning from New York. It was fired by the 65th infantry regiment.

The military note was also more dominant in the inaugural ceremonies than on similar recent occasions. It was produced not so much by the presence of more uniformed units but because of compliance with Gen. Winship's wishes. He outlined a program that was as precise and specific as a military communique. It was immediately adopted.

Significant Precedence.

Thirty minutes after his arrival at La Fortaleza, his official residence, the new governor received in order the commanding officer of the United States troops here, the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, the chief justice of the Supreme court, and other officials. The precedence in the official list, which was designated by the new executive himself, is regarded as militarily significant.

There are also other indications which give strength to the feeling that the island will feel the touch of an iron hand. Maj. Gen. Winship is a retired judge advocate of the army. Whether he appears in uniform or civilian attire he brings a military background after 34 years of strictly civil occupancy.

Accepts Habit to Command.

The islands seems to accept that it is his habit to command. And Porto Rico in all probability will not resent the return to an iron hand.

The outstanding problem in Porto Rico, the new governor said in his inaugural message, is to enhance "the returns from insular agriculture so as to insure a better standard of living for all of the great majority of our people who are necessarily dependent upon that activity for their livelihood."

He told his audience that President Roosevelt had asked him to "tell you that he is coming to Porto Rico to visit you."

RADIO VISITOR SLAIN BY KNIFE, ANOTHER HURT

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—(AP)—One man was fatally stabbed and another slashed on the head today when an unidentified man ran amuck with a jackknife in radio station KHJ.

Edwin Wolverton, 20, of Grand Junction, Colo., who was seeking work at the studio, died two hours later at the emergency hospital.

The other victim, Warren Fehlman, representative of the Dow Jones Financial News service, escaped with a superficial wound.

Wolverton and Fehlman were attacked as they responded to the screams of Miss Grace Kane, a secretary, who had been threatened by the knife wielder.

Leaping upon Wolverton, the madman shouted:

"I'm going to kill you, you ——. I love to see people suffer. Get out of my path. I've got a job to do in there."

He stabbed and slashed at Wolverton furiously. Fehlman rushed up and also received a wound.

Miss Kane said the man told her he had come to get a job that had been promised him.

DR. T. A. JOHNSTON, BANKER, SCHOOL HEAD, DIES AT 85

In the fall of 1928 Dr. Johnston staked his personal fortune to rehabilitate the Old Trails bank, of which he was president, after it was closed by a run. He assumed frozen assets and the institution reopened 13 days later as the Kemper State bank.

Patrons did not lose a cent. The bank now has deposits of more than $1,000,000.

Robber Gives Girl a Drink When She Falls in Fright

Two masked bandits entered the South Shore View pharmacy at 7108 South Shore drive last night, and ordered Miss Clara Bunde, the soda clerk, to lie on the floor. She became frightened, screamed and fell. One of the bandits picked her up and ordered her to get him a glass of water so as to ward off suspicion from the outside. She was too nervous. "Get me a drink," she pleaded, instead. The bandit gave her a drink and took one himself. Then he and his confederate took $18 from the till, stole fourteen pints of liquor, and escaped.

Naperville Pioneer Dies at 75 in Her Birthplace

Mrs. Elizabeth Koehly Miller, a pioneer resident of Naperville, died yesterday in the house in which she was born. She was 75 years old. She is survived by seven children. Her husband was the late Henry Miller. Funeral services will be held at the home, 5 South West street, at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and at Sts. Peter and Paul church at 9:30 o'clock.

Virginia Ferni Germano, Once Noted Soprano, Dies

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She'll Remember to Forget

Coupe Goes Off Road Near Barrington.

The bodies of De Silver Palm, 30 years old, 4402 North Ashland avenue, and his wife, Nan, 26 years old, were found under an overturned coupé near Barrington early yesterday after the husband of another woman who was injured in the tragedy managed to make his way to a farmhouse a mile away. News of the accident was not made public until late in the afternoon by the state highway police at Barrington.

John Laughlin, 25 years old, 3023 North Oakley avenue, was only slightly injured, but was too dazed to give a clear description of what happened. His wife, Gertrude, 24 years old, is in a critical condition at the German Deaconess hospital.

Four in One Seat.

The party of four had crowded into the one seat of the car to return to Chicago after visiting Laughlin's sister, Mary, who lives two miles west of Barrington. They were driving east on Hartwood road, a gravel stretch, toward County Line road. Apparently Laughlin, who was at the wheel, did not see that the road ended at Comstock road, a mile and a half west of Barrington.

The car crashed through a barbed wire fence, plunged down a ten foot embankment, turned over several times, and came to a stop bottom side up some distance away. Both of the men were employed by the Chicago Motor Coach company.

Alfred Codman Jr., 31 years old, a Harvard graduate and the son of a wealthy New York and Boston stock broker, will be arraigned in the Felony court today on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Freytag, 33 years old, 3145 Cambridge avenue. He was booked by police after an inquest into the death was continued to March 13.

Accident Is Described.

Testimony given at the inquest by Herbert Krancer, a publisher living at the Belmont hotel, was that Mrs. Freytag was struck so hard that her body landed some distance away. Krancer said he followed the car, which had a crumpled fender and running board, and forced it to the curb. When the driver said he would return to the scene, Krancer went back there himself, but the driver did not return.

According to Lincoln park police, Codman went instead to his rooms in the Commonwealth hotel and locked himself in. Police arrested him there when the manager unlocked the door with a passkey. An almost empty cognac bottle was produced by police, who said it was found in the car.

The deaths of Palm and his wife and one other increased the total of automobile deaths in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 136. The other victim:

Oscar Ryder, 55 years old, 377 Herrick road, Riverside. Died in the People's hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when he was run down at 22d and Sangamon streets by an automobile driven by Alec Galliano, 25, of 2244 Coulter street.

ASK INJUNCTION TO HALT LAUNDRY TRADE PRICE CUTS

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday referred to Master in Chancery Samuel Epstein the petition of 179 laundry owners, members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, for an injunction to restrain 17 other members of the association from alleged unfair competition through price cutting on wet wash bundles. Judge Fisher announced that he expects the master's report within ten days, when he will rule.

Attorney George Lavin, representing the minority faction, agreed, on the suggestion of Judge Fisher, that his clients would not advertise that they would do wet laundry for less than 5 cents a pound, as stipulated in the association contract entered into in 1932. Attorney Lavin said, however, that his clients retained the right to launder, at lower prices, any bundles which came to them without solicitation.

Military Rites Held for Policeman Shot by Gunmen

A military funeral was held yesterday by the Police post of the American Legion for Policeman Thomas Murphy, 39 years old, who was shot New Year's eve by gunmen trying to seize a pay roll he was guarding. He served 27 months in the marine corps during the war and was cited for bravery three times by the French government. Surviving are the widow and two sons, Thomas Jr., 5 years old, and John Patrick, 4 years old, who live at 5527 South Lincoln street. Burial was at the Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Henry Tibbitts, Lumber Firm Head, Dies at 33

Henry Bradford Tibbitts, 33 years old, president of the Charles Darling Lumber company, died yesterday in St. Francis' hospital, Evanston, following an operation for appendicitis. His home was at 911 Michigan avenue, Evanston. Mr. Tibbitts served in the marines during the war. Surviving are his widow, Christine, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Tibbitts of St. Louis. Funeral services will be held in the Graceland cemetery chapel at 3:45 o'clock tomorrow.

BISHOP STEWART AWARDS SERVICE CROSSES TO FIVE

Nun Is First Woman So Honored.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Sister Mary Elizabeth, O. S. F., religious worker among women inmates at the state penitentiary, Joliet, and the women's reformatory, Dwight, last night was awarded one of the five Episcopal distinguished service crosses for 1933 by Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

The awards to the Episcopal nun and four priests of the diocese were presented as the feature of the preconvention banquet of the diocese. The 97th convention opens this morning at St. Paul's church, Kenwood. The sermon will be preached by the Rt. Rev. Frank A. McIlwaine, bishop of Minnesota and professor at Seabury-Western Theological seminary, Evanston.

First Woman So Honored.

Sister Mary Elizabeth is the first woman to be honored with the bishop's award. Others receiving the distinguished service crosses were the Rev. Frank Beckerman, a member of the city missions staff and a religious worker at the county hospital and social service institutions of the west side; the Rev. Arnold Lutton, rector of the Church of the Annunciation; the Rev. Alfred Newbery, rector of the Church of the Atonement, and the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Street, headmaster of St. Alban's School for Boys, Sycamore.

The Rev. C. Rankin Barnes of New York, head of the Episcopal church's social service work, the principal speaker at the dinner, declared that the new day demands that the church become more familiar with local social problems. He asserted that it is easier for churchmen to "worry about great problems of international interest than it is to squarely face problems of their own neighborhoods."

Urges Day by Day Service.

After mentioning 2,400 parish houses connected with American Episcopal churches, with values aggregating more than $32,000,000, the Rev. Mr. Barnes asked the churchmen if this equipment is used with sufficient wisdom to warrant "the nerve to ask tax exemption when you are serving no more than you are." He advocated vital forms of day by day service, locally adapted, for parish house work.

At the convention opening today the primary problem will be that of fitting the local work of the diocese to a greatly reduced financial income.

FUNERAL RITES TOMORROW FOR FLAVE J. WOLFE

Funeral services of Flave J. Wolfe, father of Rocky Wolfe, sports writer and radio announcer, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow from a chapel at 316 West 63d street. Interment will be in Mitchell, Ind. Mr. Wolfe, who was 58 years old, died yesterday in his home, 6501 Yale avenue, from heart disease. He had been ill for several months. Born in Mitchell, Ind., Mr. Wolfe taught school in Indiana for many years. Until recently he had been with the agricultural extension department of the International Harvester company for 17 years. Besides his son, Mr. Wolfe is survived by his widow, Jessie, and a daughter, Mrs. Louise Luse, of West Liberty, Ia.

HERMAN EPSTEIN, EX-REAL ESTATE MAN, DIES AT 65

Herman Epstein, 5130 Greenwood avenue, died yesterday of a heart ailment following a ten day illness. He was 65 years old. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in a chapel at 7206 Stony Island avenue, with burial in Waldheim cemetery. Mr. Epstein retired five years ago from the real estate business. He had been active in church and charity work and was a former officer of the South Side Hebrew congregation. Mr. Epstein is survived by his wife, Sarah, and four children, Ruth Epstein, Sophie Epstein, Bernard Epstein, and Dr. Casper M. Epstein.

Rev. Eugene Emmons, 90, of Arkansas, Dies in South

MEMORIAL SERVICE TODAY WILL HONOR EDWARD ROGERSON

A memorial service will be held today in St. Paul's Episcopal church for Edward J. Rogerson, treasurer of the Chicago diocese, who died yesterday morning in the Presbyterian hospital after a long illness. Mr. Rogerson, who was 64 years old, lived at 344 South Stone avenue in La Grange.

Mr. Rogerson was long prominent in Masonic and insurance circles. He was treasurer for the Church Home for the Aged and many times attended general conventions of the Episcopal church as a delegate.

E. J. ROGERSON.

Bishop George Craig Stewart, upon learning of Mr. Rogerson's death, made plans for a memorial service at St. Paul's when the 97th annual convention of the church convenes there today. Surviving are the widow and a daughter, Mrs. Frederick H. Knowles of Hinsdale.

HENRY W. EWING, PUBLISHER, TO BE BURIED IN SOUTH

Funeral services for Henry W. Ewing, president of the Law Bulletin Publishing company, will be held today in Cocoa, Fla., where Mr. Ewing died Sunday following an illness of several months. Burial will also be in Cocoa.

Mr. Ewing was 66 years old. He was a son of Maj. Henry W. Ewing, veteran of the confederate army and editor of a St. Louis newspaper, and a nephew and namesake of Henry Watterson, famous Louisville editor. After working on newspapers in the south, he came to Chicago in 1901 and four years later, with the late Henry J. MacFarland, bought the Law Bulletin.

For the last ten years he had been active in civic and business affairs in Cocoa, where he was president of the Community Welfare association.

VON HORN DIES; FORMER HEAD OF GERMAN WAR VETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 5. — Gen. Rudolph von Horn, former president of the Kyffhaeuser Association of War Veterans, died here today following an operation. He was 68 years old.

As commander of artillery he took part in the famous battle of Gorlice in Galicia and also distinguished himself in the last big drive in France in 1918. He was wounded twice. The general assisted in reconstructing the German army after the world war. He served until 1926, when he took over the leadership of the veterans. He brought them into line with the Nazis after Chancellor Hitler assumed power.

Mrs. John Dern Re-elected by Service Club

Able President to Serve Another Term.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH a tremendous "Aye" the three score ten Service club members present at the annual luncheon and election of officers yesterday in the Casino reinstated Mrs. John Dern II. (Jean MacLeish) as president of the organization. This charming young woman who has so ably conducted the affairs of the club for the last year and a half combined gratitude and ambition dexterously in her brief acceptance speech, expressing thanks for the cooperation she had received from the board and the members in the past and hoping that the coming year will be equal to or surpass the success of past years.

Mrs. Stanley Zaring, as chairman of the nominating committee, read the names of the new officers and directors, who are: Mrs. Frank S. Sims, first vice president; Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, second vice president; Mrs. Leslie B. Olmsted, treasurer; Miss Anne Robinson, recording secretary, and Miss Alice Bremner, corresponding secretary. Directors—Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, Mrs. Lawrence Nelson, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mrs. John I. Shaw, Mrs. G. Gaylord Olmsted Jr., Mrs. Horton Conrad, Miss Honoré White, Miss Margaret Goehst, Miss Ethel Dixon, Miss Helen Dawes and Miss Marie Louise Gardner.

Luncheon Held in Fountain Room.

The members sat at four long, narrow tables in the fountain room of the Casino to enjoy consommé, eggs Benedictine, and feathery lemon pies, incidentally applauding Miss White, for it was she who arranged the luncheon. The officers and board sat at an even longer table in the center of the room. Mrs. Dern, at its head, was dressed simply in a black frock with a green cord drawn through the neckline—green because that is her handsome husband's favorite color—and a green feather in her black off-the-face hat. Mrs. Sims wore the daintiest white collar imaginable on her black dress, and Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Vilas each

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

CONTRACT BIDDING FACTORS.

WHEN you start to play contract, there are many factors that you have to consider. The first, and what I think the most important of your problems, is to form a judgment from your own holdings as to what procedure you will employ on the particular hand that has been dealt to you.

P. HAL SIMS.

In a few days I shall take up hands to illustrate many of the situations that will confront you in contract, but before we concern ourselves with actual hands, there are some psychological effects that must be dealt with. Most of the situations in contract are analogous to situations in life.

As you play and discuss this game, you will hear many terms used; some of them you will understand, others you won't. One of the terms you will hear is: This or that person has marvelous "card sense." Today I would like to explain to you my personal idea of what card sense is, but you, too, can only explain it as it reveals and applies itself to you. Card sense, to me, is a self-protective sense that every one possesses to some extent, but which, in certain individuals, is developed to a degree of rare intensity. For instance, if you were contemplating a business venture, you might come into contact with some person who would cause you instinctively to say to yourself: "I can be hurt by that person," or "That person may be able to 'fix' me in some way." The more plausible the man or his proposition, the greater the need for caution and for investigation.

In the financial world, those who consistently dodge the pitfalls set by conspiring minds are hailed as geniuses of finance. In military history, the reputations of great generals rest on this same power of evading traps as well as setting them. I believe that in this game of contract we have many a true test of psychological factors which play their part elsewhere in life. I think that cards can teach you many of the more subtle lessons of life, and that without hurting you in the cruel way that life is apt to hurt you before the lessons are learned. If I can show you in cards how to contribute as little as possible to your own downfall through being dazzled by illusive aggregations of high cards [and these in contract are a trap as they never were in auction], I believe that by analogy you will become more wary of similar danger in connection with mundane affairs.

When we sit down to play contract, certain formalities have to be gone through, such as cutting and dealing the cards; having four people at the table; arranging the stakes. Eventually it is my turn to bid. My decision whether to bid or pass rests entirely on my idea of the type of hand I hold, that is, whether it is aggressive or defensive in type. By "aggressive" I mean that I may expect to make tricks with certain low cards that I have in my hand, provided they are trumps; by "defensive" I mean that I have to depend on taking tricks merely by the aces, kings, and, if I am lucky, the queens which I hold. The decision now rests with me whether my best defense in this hand is to bid or to pass. It is a matter of diagnosis which is governed entirely by my judgment as to the type of hand that I hold. If it is defensive in type within certain limits of strength, I pass; if it is aggressive and it includes also certain defensive values, I bid. There is no invariable rule here. Sometimes it may turn out that it would have been better for me to pass; sometimes it turns out that it would have been better to bid.

The best guide I have for the opening bid is whatever forecast I can form of the bidding that may ensue if I bid or if I pass. Never having held this actual hand before, and being extremely unlikely ever to hold it again, my decision must often be a decision of judgment. Experience is of tremendous importance because of its influence, largely subconscious, on our power of judgment. Mathematics, however, play only a subordinate rôle, though some experts appear to think otherwise.

Contract bidding is a matter of ascertainment and investigation by the giving and receiving of inferences. Mathematical calculations are a sorry prop to lean on. They cannot supply the knowledge we need; they can only guide us at times in applying the information we have already acquired by practical methods of partnership bidding.

My system is intended to develop your judgment and build up your self-reliance by exercise. It is not a crutch to bear your weight indefinitely, allowing the muscles to wither.

Mr. Sims will answer all inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Here's a Novel Bracelet for the Collector

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Here's a brand new bracelet idea that ought to take the bracelet collectors by storm! It's small, feminine, and decorative, gold or silver, oval in shape with your name and address inscribed thereon. A very fine chain holds the disc in place and you can have it monogrammed if you wish. It's called nameplate bracelet, and some wag insists it should be dubbed "Mothers need never worry."

Seriously, it's a good practical method of establishing your identity when articles that might serve have been left at home base. This bracelet is the feminine version of the masculine metal identification tags used during the war, a delightful new gadget to accent a slender wrist.

One shop has a stunning new collection of navy blue handbags, fresh new conceptions of what to wear with the fashionable new navy blue suits and costumes. Navy blue leathers and fabrics combined with prystal, chromium, and smooth dull silver, square flaps, clever cut-outs, tricky clasps, and super-fittings with all the smartness of spring 1934. There's lots of navy blue wherever you shop—knockout navy blue and white 18 inch handkerchiefs with stunning new designs; navy blue, leather belts with eye-filling buckles of either silver or chromium, as well as huge squares of transparent prystal, and some fascinating new telltale bits of mirror ornaments.

Another way of using navy blue is featured in a knockout new evening costume, the dress of heavy dull white winkled crêpe, with the top section of navy blue crêpe, clasped over the shoulders with transparent prystal stars, worn with navy blue jacket that is tied with an ascot scarf of white fox, as glamorous a creation as anything unpacked to date.

And while we're "in the navy," conversationally, anyway, our photograph today shows one of the nicest dresses for matrons to arrive in Chicago so far this season. For many places and occasions it is as suitable as it is smart, and the lines would be flattering to almost any figure. It's navy, too.

Mrs. Roosevelt Will Wear Fashions of 1901 to Junior League Ball

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Three 1901-'05 Gibson girls' pompadours and all—Eleanor Roosevelt, Mary Harriman, and Isabella Selmes—will be belles of the Junior league ball here Friday night.

Their names now are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President; Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, head of the consumers advisory board of NRA; and Mrs. John C. Greenway, representative from Arizona.

But for one night they are going to turn the clock back to the days when they were debutantes in New York City and Mary Harriman started the Junior league, which the other two quickly joined.

Mrs. Rumsey will wear to the ball a gown she wore in 1901.

Mrs. Roosevelt is having a copy of a gown of that period made, in blue.

Mrs. Greenway will receive from her cousin, Mrs. John C. Breckinridge in Maine, a dress of gray silk, with irises embroidered in natural colors, of the correct year.

Mrs. Roosevelt confessed today that she had had an awful time trying to make her hair go pompadour again.

"I never wore a rat," answered Mrs. Roosevelt.

NEWTON PERRY tells the story of the sick man who needed a blood transfusion to save his life. A Scotsman was found with blood that matched that of the sick man and the transfusion was made. A $200 fee was given to the blood donor. In a few days the patient had a sinking spell and a second blood transfusion was necessary. The Scotsman again did duty and this time the patient gave him $100 for his service. Shortly thereafter a third transfusion was necessary, but this time the patient declined to make payment after the transfusion had been made.

"I've got too much Scotch blood in me to be able to do it," he explained.

DR. GRAYDON POWELL reports the strange fad that is going like wildfire among the lads at Battle Ground, Ind. A friend who was down there last week told him about it. The high school boys are having parts cut into their hair and these parts—don't shudder now—are called "flea alleys." The other day a Battle Ground boy came home and asked his mother for a quarter for a hair cut.

"But you just had a hair cut," she pointed out.

"I know, but I didn't have a flea alley cut in and all the other boys have one," he explained.

Mr. Barrymore Runs True to Form in This

"THIS SIDE OF HEAVEN."

Good Morning!

Lionel Barrymore is getting to be just like Truth. Perpetually crushed to earth and invariably rising again. [On the screen.]

In "This Side of Heaven" he plays an accountant—head of a delightful family. His wife, besides being a perfect homemaker and companion, is an authoress. When the picture opens she has just sold her book, "The Family," to a Hollywood producer, and is about to depart for California to spend several weeks in adapting her story to screen purposes. The children consist of two nice girls—a school teacher and a flapper, and a boy who desperately yearns to make a certain fraternity.

Wife and youngsters adore Dad and run to him with everything. As for belief in him—why he COULD do no wrong . . . !

Upon the request of his employer, who has furnished a perfectly plausible reason, Martin has failed to make a certain entry, involving $40,000, on his books. . . .

The action then concerns itself with Dad as a harried victim, eddying miserably about in the whirlpool of family interests. Tragedy swoops down and almost gobbles up the happiness of the Turners and their brood. ALMOST—I said. . . .

Though Barrymore runs true to form and gives an intelligent and intuitive interpretation; though Fay Bainter et al. support him nobly [Tom Brown is aces as the son!] the film doesn't click sharply. The story is a bit too ambling—tries to cover too much ground. The dialog, pat in some parts, is forced in others, and the situations aren't always convincing.

But "This Side of Heaven" is refreshingly cleanly and commendable so far as character portrayal goes.

See you soon.

U. of C. Divinity School Lecture Series and Classes Open Tonight

The thirty-seventh series of public lectures on religion to be sponsored by the divinity school of the University of Chicago will be given in Bond chapel on the Midway campus on five successive Tuesdays, beginning tonight. The series is entitled "Makers of Christianity."

Continuing a series offered last autumn, in which leading figures of the early and medieval periods were discussed, the forthcoming lectures will treat significant figures of the reformation and modern periods. The speakers will be Prof. J. T. McNeill and Prof. W. W. Sweet.

Following each of the lectures two classes will be conducted in the adjoining Swift hall. Prof. Clara E. Powell will offer a course in "Building an Educational Program for the Local Church," and the Rev. A. T. Boisen and Prof. C. T. Holman jointly will present a course on "Religion and Mental Health." A registration fee of $1 per person, or 75 cents per person for clubs of ten or more, is charged for the entire series.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Lamia Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce. Barbara invites him to a small dinner party and introduces him to her father as a casual acquaintance. Her father suspects Barbara's interest in Rance.

INSTALLMENT XX.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

Barbara, who had been unable to exchange a word with Rance, went out on the porch. Her father followed. She felt him at her back, watching her. She turned and reëntered the house.

"Now to be on my guard," she thought. "Gregory has made a good impression as I knew he would. I covered up his slip pretty well—but father is suspicious. Now for the cross-examination."

He went into the parlor and began to put out the lights and fasten the windows.

"Have you locked up the library?" she asked, lingering.

"All closed."

"He is not pleased," she thought, watching him with a sidelong glance, and going to the front door, drew the chain. "I'll wait until the morning." She went to the stand and lit two candles. The drawing room went black. He came out and took his candlestick from her hand.

"I ought to say something," she thought as she went up the stairs ahead of him. At the door of her room she turned her cheek for his embrace.

"Humph!"

"Wasn't the dinner good?"

"Very."

"Well, good night."

"Good night."

When she was in bed, he came in, fussed about the room and raised the windows.

"Cooler."

"Seems so."

"Why doesn't he begin?" she thought nervously. "What is in his mind?"

"Good night . . ."

"Good night, father."

He went to the door and stopped with his hand on the knob as he always did when embarrassed.

"How long do you know a young man nowadays before you call him by his first name?"

He returned to her bedside, his figure blackly silhouetted against the radiance from his room.

"Are you dissatisfied with me?"

"You? Father! Why, you're a dear!"

"I'm not such a terrible person after all, then?"

She laughed.

"And your friends can enjoy themselves even when I am around?"

"Don't be ridiculous!"

"Then I've played the game fairly, haven't I?"

"Indeed you have!"

"All right. Good!" He moved back to the door and grasped the knob again. "And I haven't ridiculed any one or raised any trivial objections. You admit that?"

She began to feel uneasy.

"Have I?"

"No."

"Very well. Understand me, then. I object, strongly object, to your acquaintance with Mr. Rance. A man who holds the radical opinions he does, is not a person I care to have in my house. He is extremely objectionable to me, he and everything he stands for."

He waited.

"Have I made myself clear?"

Still she did not answer.

"Barbara?"

"Barbara?"

"Well?"

"Did you hear me?"

"I heard you."

"Well?"

She said in a low voice, "I shall not see Mr. Rance again in your house."

He hesitated, started to speak and went out.

Martin Brawne had yielded to old impulses in forbidding Rance the house. He had not intended doing so. It had slipped out at the end and he had immediately regretted it. What had made him do it? He was certain that Barbara was interested. A man like that with the romance of success about him, a picturesque life and a dangerous assortment of those ready made, radical ideas that were to bring a new world, was just the sort that would appeal to a girl's susceptibilities. If he were interested, he would attempt to carry her off her feet in a headlong, cowboy sort of way that would be difficult to cope with. But was Rance himself interested? How was he to know, if he forbade him the house? And if the affair had only just begun, what he had done in his anger was certain to send Barbara headlong into the fellow's arms. She would meet him in a dozen places without his being able to prevent it or know what was going on. Dangerous—always dangerous. The old story of forbidden fruit.

He was tempted to undo the mischief. But to admit that he had been wrong then, would be to admit that he could be wrong later. Bad precedent. Complications. Undermining of authority. A mistake? Yes. But it would have to be rectified some other way. What had she meant when she had said "your" house? Was that a threat? An implication that she might no longer consider it as her house——?

I ought to say something, she thought as she went up the stairs ahead of him.

Perturbed by these forebodings, he passed a wretched night, seeking some way out of the dilemma into which his irascibility had led him.

When he went into her room the next morning, Barbara was already awake. She sat up and looked at him in a way that frightened him, storm signals set on her furrowed brow.

"She has had the night to work up her anger," he thought. "Let's temporize." He went to the window and with his back to her said, "I think I'd better explain about last night. I expressed myself badly."

"Well?"

"I do not mean that you cannot have Mr. Rance here, or any one else you wish to invite. Only kindly do so when I am away."

"Father!"

The sharpness of her summons spun him around.

"I am not going to ask to your home any one whom you refuse to receive when you are here! Understand that!"

He became angry in turn.

"So long as I do not dictate your friends to you I have the right to say whom I like and whom I dislike!"

"You are dictating my friends to me. When it is a question of my having correct, colorless, tame cat sort of men to dinner, you say nothing. But the moment I have interesting men, real men, men that represent something, like Jack Bryce and Gregory Rance——"

"Bryce? But I don't object to Bryce!" he blurted out without thinking.

She saw his blunder and immediately turned it to account.

"Why do you object to Rance and not Bryce?"

"But Bryce agreed with every word Rance said."

"If that is so, then I include Mr. Bryce," he snapped back.

Dad Should Not Be Made Demon of Disciplining

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A piece of advice to fathers: Don't let yourself be made into the Family Ogre, or Judge of the Evening Court and Policeman Extraordinary.

Many a man when he comes home at night has to listen to a recital of all the children's misdoings of the day and is expected to mete out disapproval or actual punishment. This is often preceded by threats ranging all the way from sad and gentle warnings to violent predictions, from "What will daddy say when I tell him!" to "Just you wait till your father comes home—he'll give it to you."

It is unfair to a man. It is not only hard on him to expect him to listen to a lot of unpleasantness when he gets home at night but it jeopardizes the fineness of his relation with his children.

It is usually the weak mother who saves up the misbehavior of her boys and girls for their father to settle. Or it is the lazy one—the one who will not take the trouble to discipline herself and use her intelligence in dealing with her children during the day.

The mother who expects to be any sort of influence in her children's lives not only when they are little but later when they are older cannot constantly evade her responsibility. She should deal during the day with what happens during the day. Besides, that is the most effective way—action at the time, on the spot.

Of course there are things that cannot be handled that way. Many kinds of behavior difficulties may need more than one head for solution.

Plain Cup Cake Goes Alluringly with Frostings

BY MARY MEADE.

A most self-contained miss is the cup cake. No raggedy edges, crumb tracks, or drooping frosting for her. While conventional wedges and squares are content to sit modestly side by each, blushing, I'm sure at their own naked sides her ladyship, the cup cake, smugly invites admiration from all flanks, certain that her "all for you" look will captivate and her sealed in goodness will satisfy.

But cup cakes, like their grown-up and to be cut relatives, enjoy frills added now and again to their native charm. Lots of them begin with a similar recipe and turn into quite different lassies with the help of nuts, fruits, frostings, flavors, and fancy pans. Next week up they come with any of a dozen surprising fillings in their tummies. Or the trick may arrive when you serve them and fruits, sauces, or whatsit descend upon the most modest cup cake to spirit it into quite the most lovable of desserts.

So to get off on the correct foot let's have us a tested and tasted recipe for the simplest of the cakelets. Just something to build on, although, hot from the oven, they're grand all unadorned, I assure you!

TWO EGG CUP CAKE.

1 2-3 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-3 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon flavoring extract

Sift together twice the once sifted flour and the baking powder. Cream the butter and sugar until very light and fluffy. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating each in well. Add the milk and the flour mixture alternately, stirring in each addition. Add the flavoring and stir for one minute. Pour into greased cup cake pans, filling them two-thirds full, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

And here's a tip. In greasing your pans grease the bottom well, but the sides sparingly. This because, in rising, the batter needs something to which to cling to give it its best lightness and size. If there's too much grease on the pan sides the cake batter has to struggle too hard to get up. And maybe you've noticed sometimes a crisp rim at the top of cakes, spoiling the look of the frosting. That's due to an overgreased pan.

So for some frills. Your frosting may circle right around like a roof on top or it may smooth down over the entire top and sides of the cup cakes.

Put it on with a small spatula or curl it on with a pastry tube. They're no trick to use, really! A fluffy, seven minute frosting is a starter. Or a gay party idea is the:

PASTEL JELLY FROSTING.

Have ready a batch of the above cup cakes, cooled. Set one-half cup of any tart jelly in the upper part of a double boiler. Add one egg white and a dash of salt. Beat with a rotary egg beater over boiling water until the jelly is lumpless. Remove from the fire and continue beating until the mixture will sit up by itself in peaks. Frost the cakes speedily, decorating them wisely and neatly with bits of clear jelly.

Luscious, too, is a cup cake jacketed with creamy orange frosting and topped with a sprinkling of chocolate shot or shavings of bitter chocolate. A maple flavored frosting takes well to raisins chopped and mixed in for spreading over nut cup cakes. And if a frosting seems too hearty try a glaze. It's made by moistening confectioner's sugar with water until you have a sugar mixture thin enough to spread.

Lastly, some tricks of service. Fillings we mentioned. The manner is this. Cut out a small cone shaped piece from the top of each cake. Fill the hollow with jam or jelly, a chocolate cocoanut filling, a rich lemon filling, or whatever else you desire. Now cut the cone shaped piece in half lengthwise. Lay the points tip to tip, perching them on the filling, points poked in and rounded sides up like a pair of wings.

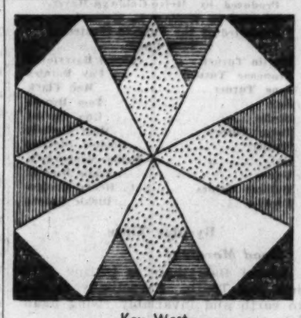
Diamonds, Vivid Colors Combine in Interesting Quilt



Key West

BY NANCY CABOT.

The diamonds of this interesting quilt block, combined with bright, vivid colors of yellow print, plain blue, and scarlet, create a design that is well nigh unbeatable. It was named by an enterprising young southern woman after the seaport city on a western island of the Florida keys.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn.

Soviet to Send Group in Quest of Film Talent

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—According to Boris Petroff, who for ten years was stage producer at New York Paramount theater and now is a writer and technical adviser in film studios, a secret delegation from the soviet union is on its way to this country to inspect movie plants, see how the Americans get their film effects, and to line up Hollywood motion picture talent—chiefly technicians—and take them back to Moscow under contract.

Petroff is one who received an offer to transplant some of Hollywood's working routine to Russia. Another who may go is Lewis Milestone, now engaged in filming "Red Square" for Columbia.

Other international tinges are given to current Hollywood activities by the recently received notice that shipments of American produced movies to China must be accompanied by translations of the English dialog into Chinese speech and that nothing belittling Chinese racial pride is included. And the Mexican censorship against "cracks" about Latin-Americans is tighter than ever in Hollywood history.

Winnie Flint, daughter of Amos T. Flint, Chicago capitalist and wife of Gil Barry, Illinois football captain two years ago, is only one of several college girls doing hoofing parts in "Murder at the Vanities." Wanda Perry, 16 years old, youngest of eleven beauties whom Earl Carroll brought from New York as show girls, not only had graduated from high school but spent one year in Columbia university. Six or seven of the beauties in the choruses are college girls.

Pons Displays Voice Skill in Concert Here

Songs of Gentler Nature Also Are Heard.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Lily Pons, the captivating little coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, came to the Auditorium last night to give the fifth concert in the series for the benefit of the Girl Scouts of Chicago.

Dainty, fragile of appearance, she is at the same time a forceful personality when it comes to singing. Her voice, a delightful one, soars through the heights, meets a top note squarely in the middle, takes rushing passages at breath taking speed, does all the tricks of dexterity that are defined by the word, coloratura, and never fails to charm.

A great part of her program was made up of music calling for this sort of diplay. Bishop's "Lo, Here the Gentle Lark," Rosina's aria from "The Barber of Seville," the Bell Song from "Lakmé," the Mad Scene from "Lucia" were some of them. Here she warbled through melodies, executed cadenzas of the most intricate kind, and aroused enormous enthusiasm in the process.

But she also sang songs of a gentler nature, and one of the loveliest things on her whole program was Lotti's "Pur dicesti."

She was assisted by Giuseppe Bamboschek, the Metropolitan conductor, at the piano, and Ary Van Leeuwen, who would seem to be with the flute much what Mme. Pons is with the soprano voice. Playing obbligatos for her and a group of solos, two of his own composition, he made himself greatly popular for his fine tone and briliant performance.

Only one suggestion could have been made as to the program. After hearing such long successions of notes above the staff from both singer and flutist, it would have been enjoyable to hear a few notes in a deep, resonant bass, just to equalize matters in the sense of hearing.

Between the close of the hocky game on Thursday night and 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the time of dress rehearsal, a large squad of workmen will be employed transforming the Chicago Stadium into an opera house. "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" will be presented on Saturday night as the first performance of the new People's Opera company, and as soon as the curtain has fallen on the final scene of the second work there will be an instant retransformation for the hocky game Sunday. Harry Beatty, technical director of the Chicago Grand Opera company, will be in charge of the work.

What is meant is to erect a stage 150 feet wide and 100 feet deep, to put up a huge panorama at the sides and back, and to hang the scenery for the two operas. John Charles Thomas will head the cast of "Pagliacci," which will also include Giuseppe Radaelli, Carlo Hatvary, Anne Roselle, and Mario Fiorella. The "Cavalleria Rusticana" cast will star Carmela Ponselle and will include Frederic Jencks, Mari Barova, and Ocie Higgins. Jacques Samoussoud will conduct.

Moley Arrives Today for His Lecture on New Deal

Raymond Moley, who resigned from the President's "brain trust" to become a magazine editor, will speak tonight on "Is There a New Deal?" at the University of Chicago. He will arrive in Chicago this morning by airplane from Kansas City and stop at the Stevens hotel.

The Stage

"Topsy and Eva," the musical comedy now at the Apollo theater with the Duncan Sisters as its stars, will end its engagement Saturday night after six weeks in Chicago. The company will be disbanded.

"If Booth Had Missed," a play which aroused interest in New York two years ago, will be staged in the Chicago Woman's club theater tonight by the Uptown Players. Performances will be given through the remainder of the week. This work deals with the probable course of events after the civil war if President Lincoln's assassin had failed.

"The Mad Lover," a drama based on the life and love affairs of Lord Byron, will have its première in the Punch and Judy theater next Friday night. It was written by Melanie Koll of Chicago. Raymond Hackett will have the central rôle, and others in the cast will be Judith Lowry and Miller Vincent.

Miriam Hopkins, the cinema star, will appear on the Chicago theater's stage program for the week that begins next Friday. She will act in a condensed version of Arthur Schnitzler's drama, "The Affairs of Anatole." Walter Abel and Austin Fairman, both well known actors, will assist her.—C. C.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt entertained a large company at tea this evening at the White House.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, and James Roosevelt II., son of the President, who have been guests at the White House for several days, both left today, the former for her home in New York and the latter for his home in Boston.

Mrs. Walter J. Cummings of Chicago entertained at luncheon, at the Carlton, today in compliment to Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, wife of the attorney general and her house guest, Mrs. Bartow Sumter Weeks of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding of Lake Forest, accompanied by Mrs. Austin H. Niblack of Lake Forest, are at the Carlton for some days.

WEDDING

Mrs. Joseph K. Lawler of Sheridan road, announces the marriage of her daughter, Jane Frances, to Leicester Moreland, son of Mrs. H. D. Moreland of Kenesaw terrace, which took place on Feb. 1.

Northwestern Co-eds Serve as Models at Hairdressers' Meeting

Hair styles and makeup accentuating the natural features were displayed by seven Northwestern co-eds who acted as models for the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association at the Hotel Sherman last night. The trend toward naturalness, away from artificiality, was indicated in the soft, wide waves and curls arranged in swirls above the neckline of the models, their natural eyebrows, and a decided decrease in rouge, eyeshadow, and lipstick.

"Every attempt is being made to encourage women to bring out their natural beauty," said John Mueller, chairman of the hair style committee. "The trend is toward femininity 'as is.' The tight 'sculptor' curls and stiff waves have been discarded in favor of the soft swirls and varied coiffures displayed by the models here," he added.

The girls modeling last night were all members of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. They are Jane Orndoff, Phyliss Greil, Violet Van De Vere, Margaret Ewald, Shirley Jacobson, Lois Collor, and Dorothy Roberts.

That Appearance of Being Windswept Comes Into Fashion

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

Well, thank heaven, they can't wind sweep the shoes, or the stockings, for that matter. But the winds of fashion are bent on sweeping us clean out of every other last year's possession we may own.

Let's hope that word "wind-swept" doesn't get on our nerves before the year is over. It appears that it's about all we're going to hear. What does this wind-swept business mean? Motion, it is! The look of trying to go some place with the winds trying to stop you, or help you along from the back. For all the wind sweeping isn't backward. Some of it is forward. But motion is what you have to have.

That means hats hanging on perilously as if the wind were trying to blow them off, or as if you were piloting your way through a gale. And hair, which is what we set out to talk about, rather than fashion. But fashion does dictate so much of our beauty program, now that one can't escape referring to it. With the "bibs," and other advanced spring neckwear, a new coiffure is on demand. That neck line has a terrible influence on the style of coiffure you should adopt. If the neck of the frock is frilly and dressy, the fewer curlicues around the face the better. In fact, if you want to be tres chic, there are to be no arabesques or curls playing around the face. The wind-swept coiffure is the thing, hair swept back off brow, off temples, off ears. Curls in the back, carrying out the wind-swept look, naturally would be off the neck. That is one of the 1934 rules, anyway. The long bob just doesn't belong any more, nor does the single, the double, or triple sausage row across the back belong in 1934 coiffure history.

Mrs. John Dern Re-elected by Service Club

had a touch of brilliant red at the neckline. Mrs. Horton Conrad looked rather springlike in a beige crêpe gown and a mushroom hat of straw in a darker shade.

At one of the long tables sat the newer members of the club—the Misses Virginia Ashcraft, Charlotte Hubbart, Roslyn Paine, wearing a lovely dress of orange crêpe with a lamé front; Myrtle Lampert, whose twin sister, Lillian, is visiting her aunt in Santa Barbara and will be away for another month; Marion Newcomet, Marie Louis Gardner, Helen Johnson, Thelma Jensen, Betty Brawley, Margaret Goehst and Barbara Lawrence, and at a table near them were Mrs. John R. Hurley [Gwendolyn Juergens], Helen Marie Castle, Martha Lee, Barbara Graf, Joy Fairman, Mrs. Nelson and Miss Robinson.

Harvard Club Will Entertain Dr. Conant.

It is more than tradition that is dictating the date of the annual dinner of the Chicago Harvard club this year. Not only because the members always gather on the eve of Washington's birthday but also because the new president of their alma mater, Dr. James Bryant Conant, has chosen that night for a visit to Chicago, they have set the dinner for 6:30, Feb. 21, at the University club.

Contrary to the innovation of some other eastern alumni this winter in admitting women to the sacred realm of an annual meeting, the Harvard dinner is to be a strictly stag affair. And the only guest, not a son of Harvard, will be Dean Gordon Lang of the University of Chicago.

"Dr. Lang is to be the curtain raiser," explains Dwight Ingram, the club's able secretary. "He is so delightfully funny we expect him to provide a light and humorous note. Of course Dr. Conant will be serious. We want him to be."

Arthur G. Cable, president of the Chicago Harvard club, will introduce Dr. Conant. Another at the speakers' table will be Barrett Wendell, whose house guest the visitor is to be during his stay in Chicago. At noon on the 21st Dr. Conant will be the special guest of the Associated Harvard clubs [the nation-wide alumni organization], also at the University club. In charge of the details of the luncheon are Mitchell D. Follansbee, Joseph L. Valentine and G. Cook Kimball.

Dr. Francis Hutchins Will Lecture Here.

The American Friends of China are feeling very much pleased these days at the prospect of hearing Dr. Francis Hutchins, president of Yale in China, speak at a luncheon meeting in the Palmer house on Wednesday, Feb. 14. Dr. Hutchins, who is a younger brother of President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, will be passing through Chicago at that time on his way from China to Englewood, N. J., where he is to be married to Miss Louise Gilman on the 22d of this month. Dr. and Mrs. Hutchins will be his host and hostess during his brief stay in Chicago, and will go east a bit later than he does to be present at the wedding.

The younger Dr. Hutchins—both brothers are very young to be the heads of institutions of learning—who has been in China for ten years, is to speak to the Friends of China on "Present Conditions in China." Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson is in charge of arrangements for the meeting. Members of the society may invite guests, and Yale alumni who are interested are invited to attend. They may make reservations through the secretary, Miss Lucy Driscoll, South Shore 3003.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, president of the women's board of the Passavant hospital, will be hostess tonight in her apartment at 1430 Lake Shore drive, at a dinner and bridge party for Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, honorary president of the board.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock Mrs. George Rasmussen of 3400 Lake Shore drive is giving a tea to the members of the board to hear the latest reports on the benefit the board is sponsoring on Feb. 16 in the Auditorium theater. The opening night of the Monte Carlo ballet is the attraction.

Another Party at Dunham Club.

There's to be another gala night at the Dunham Woods Riding club this Saturday with a costume ball in the old Dunham coach house. The party will begin at 9:30 and continue with supper about midnight.

Anything in the way of a costume will be acceptable, though it is expected that most of the guests will interpret some character from fiction in their dress as they did at the last costume party a fortnight back.

The Edison Dicks of Lake Forest have had a guest for the last week who has been entertained so much that she hasn't had any meal but breakfast with her host and hostess. She is Mr. Dick's mother, Mrs. Albert B. Dick, who left her husband aboard their yacht the Chieftain in Miami waters and came north for a visit with the other members of their family, while Mr. Dick's daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Swan of New York, was visiting him.

The senior Mrs. Dick will leave Thursday for New York, where she will visit the Sheldon Dicks, and then she will go to Washington for a stay with the Mathews Dicks and then to Miami to rejoin her husband.

Will Enjoy Cruise to West Indies.

Warm weather wardrobes and time tables are the primary topic of discussion in the Lake Forest households of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman. In three weeks the Welleses and the Boardmans will leave for New York to board the Mauretania and from there they will all sail away for a fortnight in the West Indies.

Mrs. Vernon Booth of New York, a former Chicagoan, will be in town today but only for a few hours, for she and her sister, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, are leaving tonight to spend three weeks in Phoenix. Two of Mrs. Valentine's three sons, Lester Armour and "Andy" Valentine, already are in Phoenix, but Mr. Armour and his wife will be returning to Lake Forest next week. Mr. Valentine will remain in the west and come home with his mother.

Mrs. Valentine's other son, Philip D. Armour, and his wife are leaving the end of the week for a fortnight's vacation at Delray, Fla.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour has set Thursday of this week as the day of her departure for five weeks in Phoenix.

Offields on Auto Trip to South.

The James R. Offields started in their car last Saturday for a month's motor trip in the south. Florida is their destination, but just where in that state they will stay while Mr. Offield does a bit of deep sea fishing they did not know when they left here.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong and their daughter, Miss Jean Armstrong, also left on Saturday for a vacation in Florida. They plan to spend six weeks at Boca Raton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Bullard are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Feb. 1 in the Presbyterian hospital in Charlotte, N. C. The baby has been named Sarah Clark. Her mother is the former Eleanor Gaithorn Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuart Clark of Evanston.

The Kaskaskia chapter of the D. A. R. is meeting at 12:30 today for a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Royden J. Keith at 999 Lake Shore drive.

An event of interest on the Midway campus tomorrow evening is the dance recital Bertha Ochsner and Marian Van Tuyl are giving at Mandel hall for the benefit of the Hyde Park and University of Chicago branches of the Y. W. C. A.

Jacket Frock Is Solution to Spring Ensemble Problem

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

This design will solve your jacket dress problem for spring, and it's smart. The original ensemble was made of a loosely woven tweed in lemon yellow, navy blue, and orange mixture. Plain lemon yellow, mossy silk crêpe made the bodice, and the center front closing used blue buttons.

Products Exposition Showing Manufacture of Cloth Opens Today

Marshall Field & Co. today will formally open its products exposition on the fourth floor of its loop store. The exposition represents the company's greatest effort toward showing its activities in merchandising. It will run during the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition.

Chief among the exhibits is a huge world map showing the locations of the company's textile mills, foreign offices, sources of supplies, and points of import. Machines have been set up to demonstrate the manufacture of silks, toweling, and bolt goods.

The story of cotton from the cotton fields to the loom is portrayed in a series of exhibits. Cotton, wool, and silk prints and the method of manufacture are also shown. So is the manufacture of custom made shoes and stock made women's hosiery. The exposition opens at the same time as the convention of the Interstate Merchants' council at the Merchandise Mart.

Negro Soprano Will Sing at White House Luncheon

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Mme. Lillian Evanti, Negro lyric coloratura soprano, will sing at the White House Friday at a luncheon for Miss Mary Bewson, head of the woman's division of the national Democratic committee. Mme. Evanti's family, who have the name of Evans, have been Washingtonians and musicians for several generations.

Moping About Lost Beau Is Love Barrier

Further Romance Is Killed by Useless Brooding.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She was bridesmaid last September, at which time she met the one and only man in the world for her. They corresponded for a while and then his letters stopped. Now she cannot see another man for dust, as she puts it. Other men have asked her out, have asked for her company on numerous occasions, but that ghost of a two months' happy session rises and tells her to tell the young men nay.

"Don't you think," she asks, "that two people who seemed so strongly attracted must meet again at some time? Wouldn't it be foolish to become tied up with one of the home town boys, so that when the other does come back he would leave again?"

When a man stops writing, after he has shown he's pretty good at it and not afraid to write letters, there's either another girl or indifference, or something no longer urging him to keep up the fiction of caring. That's the common sense interpretation we'd like to recommend to the "mooning," forgotten girl. In which event there is not a thing to do but cross the experience off as one of those things over which you had not control and look for a new world to conquer. And do it while youth is still good and opportunities ripe.

We doubt if dreamers ever did get much out of their love dreams, but certainly today's romantic prizes are not bestowed on the type of young woman who clings to an old infatuation, defunct on one side, at least.

Big Sisters to Celebrate 17th Birthday on Thursday

The Big Sisters . . . that hard working organization that does so much for Chicago's underprivileged girls . . . is going to celebrate its 17th birthday Thursday with a reception and luncheon at the House of Biggs, 50 East Huron street. The Rev. Thomas A. Egan, dean of sociology at Loyola university, is to be the speaker.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We're dippy about beautiful hands, agreeing wholeheartedly with whoever it was once said they were among the most seductive of a woman's possessions. We're that taken with them that we're bubbling over with enthusiasm for the new kind of manicure we discovered was given by the beauty shops of some of Chicago stores a few days ago.

It's always been Antoinette Donnelly's sound theory that the oiling of hand skin was practically impossible to overdo. She's pleaded with women to care for their hands, told them how to do it, and just generally preached oiling, arguing that the hands were exposed all the time, sans benefit of foundation creams or even powder, such as protect the skin of our faces, and needs it more than any other part of the body.

Her preachings and our own complex about hands that are well shaped, well manicured, and satiny in texture all helped build up our yen for these new manicures in which oil, warm and rich, and fragrant, takes the place of soapy water. The filing with steel file or emory board proceeds as usual to the point where the fingers of one hand are usually placed in water; here warm oil is used for a luxurious soaking—simply what the beauty doctor ordered for brittle, ribbed nails or fingertips disfigured by skin that cracks.

After the manicure comes an oil massage not just for the fingers but for the entire hand, a skilful kneeding of the oil into the skin with magic movements that model the knuckles and encourage better circulation. The hand relaxes and stays relaxed, the skin is softened and beautified.

It seems to us ideal for the woman who is "getting on in years." The hand, which can be a dead giveaway of age, is given the benefit of a treatment that's actually youthifying, if there is such a word.

Paris Perches Wings on Formal Frock, Uses Artificial Satin with Bold Stripes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The dress shown here is out of the Marcel Rochas style stables, and is a winning number among the smart French younger set. It brings to the light of day the winged skirt, which is brand new and startlingly different, and a new material, which is striped artificial satin, with fine lines in brilliant and dull stripes.

The skirt is the high lighted section of this model. It has a front panel from a rounded hip yoke, with the stripes of the material worked vertically. Below the hipline at the sides are two flaring winged peplums edged with coq feathers to make 'em more so. Between these wings is a band of the material that is tucked horizontally with three tucks and draped in soft folds. The lower skirt is made wide by circular cutting at the sides and back.

The blouse is open in front and knotted at the waistline, while at the top it fastens with one snapper. It has long, plain sleeves. The stripes run vertically. This blouse may be removed to show a plain, low cut bodice that makes the frock wearable for formal evening.

"Finest return per dollar in our advertising history"
says KNOX GELATINE
Knox Gelatine received more than 110,000 coupon requests for recipes and a book on food economy in less than 30 days—from a back cover in The Comic Weekly, December 3, 1933. And on a food product that sells for a much higher price than its chief competition!
But Knox Gelatine did more than just count coupons. They followed up these inquiries by mail and personal calls to see if the persons sending in the coupons really bought the product. They made special check-ups in The Comic Weekly markets from coast to coast. They compared The Comic Weekly returns with the returns from the same page in a list of women's magazines and in other leading weeklies.
As a result of this special check-up, here is their report to The Comic Weekly: "This is the finest return per dollar in our advertising history."

LAUGH MAKERS FOR 40 YEARS—

In The Comic Weekly . . . "Puck" . . . which is distributed with the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers, you meet Tillie the Toiler, Jiggs, Boob McNutt, Barney Google, Felix the Cat, Skippy, Pop-Eye, Toots and Casper, Little Jimmy—yes, and those old favorites, the Katzenjammers!

With these tremendous features—and smaller strips by the same artists in addition—is it any wonder that more than five million families follow The Comic Weekly "Puck" zealously every week?

GENTLEMEN, we present the world's most famous twins and oldest living comic strip characters—the Katzenjammer Kids! Who fails to recognize Hans and Fritz, whose impish pranks have entertained millions for 40 years? Most of today's grown-ups, fathers and mothers—grandfathers and grandmothers, too—who still enthusiastically follow the Katzenjammers, started the habit in early childhood.

The sufferings of the Captain and the Professor, the innocent connivances of the oblivious Mama, and the inevitable retributions that descend upon the Kids themselves, belong to the oldest of all comic traditions. This is the kind of comedy the world has laughed at since the race began, will continue to laugh at as long as the race shall last.

The Katzenjammers go into more than 5 million homes every week where the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers regularly bring The Comic Weekly to more than 15 million readers.

What an audience they and their pals in The Comic Weekly deliver to canny advertisers! No wonder the forty-odd business leaders who regularly use the pages of The Comic Weekly have got results seldom equalled by any medium, even in the most prosperous years. The cost of a back cover in The Comic Weekly is $17,500; of inside pages, $16,000. Circulation more than three of the leading national weekly magazines combined. Plus incomparable readership, for a survey proves that 72% of all women and 68% of all men who read Sunday newspapers read the comics—and all the children, of course!

Doesn't it bear looking into? Investigation of an impressive mass of evidence will take only a few moments of your time. A call to COlumbus 5-2642 in New York, or Superior 6820 in Chicago, will bring this evidence right to your desk.

INDIANA HANDS IOWA SECOND DEFEAT, 34 TO 25

HAMILTON TO REPLACE MILLER AS NAVY COACH

Ex-Notre Dame Star to Stay as Assistant.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Lieut. Thomas Hamilton will supplant Edgar A. [Rip] Miller as head football coach at the United States Naval academy, it was learned today. Miller, however, will remain as civilian coach, giving the major portion of his attention to the line.

Athletic authorities at the academy refused to comment on the change today. Last fall they announced Hamilton was coming to the academy as "assistant director of football," a new title, but that Miller's contract had been renewed. It was not until today that it became generally known that when spring practice starts on March 4 Hamilton will be in charge.

Want Graduate System.

The chief reason advanced for the change was the academy's desire to install a graduate coaching system such as that employed at West Point. Miller's new position will be comparable to that formerly held by Edgar Blaik at West Point when he served as civilian assistant under Army coaches.

Whether Miller's "advice" to Hamilton will be the ruling factor in training and running the Navy's 1934 gridiron team was a question discussed by Navy football enthusiasts. It was generally believed, however, that the new coach and his predecessor-assistant would "get along."

Played in Chicago.

Lieut. Hamilton was quarter back on Navy's 1926 team which had only a 21-21 tie with Army in Chicago to mar an otherwise perfect record. He graduated in 1927 and was assistant coach for the next three years. He recently was relieved from duty with the west coast fleet and assigned to the academy. He is expected to arrive about March 1.

Miller, one of the seven mules who broke the way for the famed Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, was an assistant coach under Bill Ingram at the Naval academy for two years and has served three years as head coach. It was he who installed the Notre Dame system among the middies.

POND TAKES UP DUTIES

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Raymond [Ducky] Pond, new Yale football head coach, came down from Torrington today to take up his duties for the coming year. He conferred with several Yale athletic officials.

Pond said he expects to meet members of the resident staff here in about 10 days. No definite date for their arrival has been set but they are all likely to be here before Feb. 15. They include Earle Neale, West Virginia Wesleyan, '14, backfield coach; Penny E. Myers, Iowa, '30, line coach, and Ivan B. Williamson, Michigan, '33, end coach. They form a complete new set of instructors for the Yale squad of next fall.

About a fortnight after their arrival spring practice will begin, but Pond said today that no details of date and scope had yet been arranged.

CUNNINGHAM BREAKS TRACK MARK AT NEWARK

Newark, N. J., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas star, broke the half mile record for the 113th Infantry armory track tonight, stepping the five laps on the flat boards in 1 minute, 57 seconds.

Although he failed to get competition from a select field for the special event in the eighth annual Seton Hall college games, the midwesterner ran a brilliant race to cut two-fifths of a second off the record set 13 years ago by Mike Devanney of the Millrose A. A.

Cunningham broke the tape 10 yards ahead of Frank Nordell, New York university, coming from fourth place in the last two laps. Content to lag to become accustomed to the slippery track, unbanked and with treacherous turns, Cunningham passed Dean Woolsey of the Boston A. A. and Joe Chapman of the Newark A. C. without effort at the start of the fourth lap and then breezed by the leading Nordell.

The Kansan's time for the first quarter was 58 2-5 seconds. Observers estimated his 1:57 was comparable to a 1:55 in Madison Square Garden, where he ran away from Gene Venzke in the mile only two nights ago.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Piloted by Vernon Huffman, Indiana university's basketball team defeated Iowa, 34 to 25, before 4,500 howling Hoosier fans here tonight. It was Iowa's second Big Ten defeat and dropped it into a tie with Indiana and Illinois for third place.

Huffman, former New Castle star, scored six field goals and added a free throw for a total of 13 points.

Taking the lead after the first three minutes, Indiana unleashed a relentless assault on the hoops and was never headed, although the score was tied twice in the last five minutes. Led by John Barko, who scored five field goals, Iowa staged a brilliant rally in the closing minutes, but goals by Weir and Huffman and three in quick succession by Stout gave the Hoosiers a decisive victory.

Indiana used only five men, while Iowa sent in two substitutes, one of whom replaced Grim, regular Hawkeye guard, who left the game on personal fouls. Score:

GOPHERS BEAT MAROONS

Minnesota's surprising basketball team forged into firm possession of second place in the Big Ten last night by virtue of a 23 to 22 victory over Chicago at the Maroons' fieldhouse. The Gophers' victory, their fourth consecutive conference triumph, was made possible chiefly through superiority on the free throw line.

Playing without Bill Haarlow, the Maroons matched Minnesota basket for basket, but the Gophers made good on seven of their nine free chances while Chicago could convert only six in sixteen tries.

Minnesota ran up a lead of 11 to 4 during the first ten minutes, with Gordon Norman, conference scoring leader, accounting for seven points. The complexion of the game changed when Pyle and Flinn went in at the Chicago forward posts and the half ended 14 to 10.

Norman was held without a point in the second period. Gordon Peterson, though outjumped by Norman, had the better of the rivalry at center and led the scoring with five baskets and a pair of free throws. Two long baskets by Kane in the second period staved off the Maroon threat.

N. U., 24; WABASH, 23

Milt Rosenfeld's free throw in the last 15 seconds of play enabled Northwestern to defeat Wabash, 24 to 23, at Patten gymnasium last night.

Neither team held more than a four point lead at any stage of the game. Wabash carried the fight to the Wildcats most of the way, holding a 12 to 10 lead at half time. The second half proved to be a seesaw affair in which the lead changed hands four times.

Wildcats Show Rustiness.

Northwestern showed signs of rustiness as a result of inactivity during the last 10 days while in the midst of examinations. The Wildcats' team play was ragged and wild passes cost opportunities to score. Wabash, on the other hand, displayed clever ball handling and unerring shooting.

Rosenfeld's winning point climaxed a stretch drive that had the crowd of 4,000 cheering. After trailing throughout the first half the Wildcats put on a spurt midway in the final period to assume an 18 to 15 lead. This advantage was short lived, however, as field goals by Joyce and Crisler gave Wabash the lead again.

Eggs Manske then stood in midfloor and looped in a field goal which, with Rosenfeld's free toss tied the score at 21 to 21. But once again the visitors ran ahead as a result of C. Mason's field goal and a pair of free throws by Crisler.

Culver Ties Score.

With less than a minute to play Nellie Culver dropped in a goal from behind the foul line to even the score at 23 to 23. The closing seconds

Trade Winds Blow Again as National League Owners Meet

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Club owners of the National league will conclude off season matters here tomorrow with the holding of their annual schedule meeting.

President John A. Heydler will preside, but from what could be learned today, nothing very astounding of a league nature is apt to transpire inasmuch as most of the year's important legislative matters already have been determined.

There is to be a ratification of the 1934 schedule, but this in itself has become little more than a mere formality in recent years. The schedule, in fact, has been in type for several days awaiting release.

Trades Are Probable.

However, judging from the determined efforts all club owners and managers were making to bolster their teams for the coming campaign, it is generally believed this final get-together will not be void of developments. Every club in the league today seemed to have something enticing to offer to its nearest rival and several player transactions are expected to be made.

The Cubs, represented by their new president, William Walker, are expected to take the lead in the anticipated trading, offering Pat Malone, pitcher, and listening to whatever proposition other clubs may make involving Babe Herman.

Malone has been designated as a holdout, thoroughly incensed at the Cubs' refusal to pay him on his record of several years ago. Herman has denied that he is a holdout, but he has not been signed. The Cubs, seemingly, would be glad to let anyone have Herman in trade for some player, preferably a pitcher or slugging infielder.

Crosley Is Bewildered.

It would not be a new experience for the lanky outfielder to be shifted to another base for failure to sign. He balked at a Brooklyn contract once and before he had time to prove he was only fooling the Dodgers shunted him over to Cincinnati. The Malone case has been cleared up considerably by the Cubs' announcement that they would send him elsewhere if possible.

The outstanding figure at the moment appears to be Powel Crosley Jr., millionaire radio manufacturer and sportsman of Cincinnati, who has just made his debut in baseball as president of a syndicate that has taken over controlling interest in the Reds.

President Crosley seemed a trifle startled by the spotlight into which he has catapulted himself and did not have very much to say. However, this reticence was more than offset by his voluble general manager, Larry McPhail, who hailed the coming of Crosley into baseball as an important step in the affairs of the National league.

Suggests Rule Change.

"There are four separate deals we'd like to make with the Cards," MacPhail continued. "St. Louis controls at least 250 players through its farm system and any one of 50 of them would help us."

MacPhail also will suggest a rule change. Under present legislation no player withdrawn from a game may appear on the coaching lines later. With five playing managers in the league, including Bob O'Farrell of the Reds, Frankie Frisch, Bill Terry, Charley Grimm, and Jimmy Wilson, MacPhail believes they should be allowed to coach after retiring from play.

Manager Max Carey of the Dodgers, who also is very anxious to swing a few deals to the best interests of Brooklyn, was reported to be close to completing a transaction with the Braves, while the Phillies also are said to have something hatched up for the betterment of themselves, possibly with the Cubs.

Bill Terry Takes Babe Ruth's Place on Radio Program

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Believing that his future in broadcasting was assured, Babe Ruth signed his 1934 contract with the Yankees which called for a $17,000 cut, without so much as holding out a day. Now it seems that the big Yankee slugger was a bit premature. When his thirteen week contract with the Standard Oil company expires, an option on his radio services for 52 weeks will not be taken up.

But the unkindest cut of all is that the Babe will be replaced on the program by Bill Terry, manager of the Giants.

Terry has been affiliated some time with the Standard company and was elevated to a position of high rank during last year. His contract stipulates that his duties are not to interfere with his baseball labors after Feb. 15, but inasmuch as the program is broadcast by electrical transcription, the Giant manager could clean up several weeks' programs in a single afternoon.

Reports that Ruth was dangerously ill were denied at Ruth's home, where he has been confined to his bed by a cold for the last week. It was announced that he expects to leave for Florida on Thursday.

On Wednesday the Babe will be 40 years old but he plans to make no undue celebration of the event. He will have just a quiet family gathering and on the following day the Babe, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth, will take the train for St. Petersburg for a period of recuperation before the training grind begins.

COCHET DOCKS TODAY FOR PRO DEBUT IN U. S.

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Henri Cochet of France, who left the amateur ranks last summer after France had lost the Davis cup and has been on a tour of South America, will arrive here tomorrow for his American professional debut against William Tilden and Ellsworth Vines.

Martin Plaa, his teammate and countryman, was to arrive with Cochet, but at the last minute he changed his plans and will not arrive until Wednesday.

Cochet and Plaa will engage Tilden and Vines in a series of two-day matches across the country. The opening engagement will be staged at Madison Square Garden Feb. 19 and 21.

70 Boys Battle in First Round of J.O.Y. Meet

BY FRENCH LANE.

More than 1,200 persons filed out of the Jewish People's Institute gymnasium last midnight fully satisfied that the boys who carry the colors of the Jewish Organized Youth into THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament will give a good account of themselves.

They had watched 70 Jewish boys—embryo Bennie Leonards, Barney Rosses, and Charley Whites—pass in review during the opening night's sessions of the Jewish Organized Youth's first annual amateur boxing tournament.

They were thrilled at the score or more of knockouts. They marveled even more at the boxing skill and the gameness the youthful gladiators displayed. They were not too sleepy even at such a late hour, to close their eyes and vision these plucky hard swinging boys capturing the lion's share of Golden Gloves.

Knockouts Are Plentiful.

Knockouts started with the first tap of the bell. The opening four bouts brought technical knockout victories. Then the crowd, which packed every nook and corner of the gymnasium, watched a genuine old "Mary Ann" tossed into the warfare.

Herman Miller and Danny Brown squared away against each other. They were welterweights and both could punch hard and often. Finally in the third round Miller cut loose with a right which landed on Brown's chin. Brown went down and was counted out.

After the series of knockouts there came a dozen battles in which the boys with the most boxing skill caught the eye of the judges and the referee.

Phil Rosenberg Shows Class.

The most exciting of these matches was a lightweight encounter in which Milt Aronson from Dubuque, Ia., clashed with Phil Rosenberg of the Jewish Peoples Institute team.

They fought furiously through three rounds and still were at it, whaling away with both hands, when the final bell ended the melee.

It was a hairline decision which the judges were asked to make. Their verdict was in favor of Rosenberg and right away his admirers began to

ROSENBLOOM AND KNIGHT DRAW IN FIGHT FOR TITLE

23,000 See Bout in Miami; Pay $35,000.

The fight, the first title bout held in Florida since Jim Corbett knocked out Charlie Mitchell, a British contender, in a heavyweight match in Jacksonville 40 years ago, drew twenty-three thousand, mostly southerners, who paid approximately $35,000.

Knight Forces Fighting.

Starting out strong, Knight carried the fight to the champion in the early rounds, exchanging lefts and rights with equal effectiveness and had the better of infighting. He frequently rushed Rosenbloom to the ropes and punished him severely.

Rosenbloom rallied toward the middle of the bout to cut down Knight's margin. The champion jabbed and cuffed Knight severely until the tenth round, when Knight launched a vicious attack that crowded Rosenbloom around the ring. Rosenbloom frequently retreated to cover as the Georgia boxer battled for an advantage.

The final round was furious, with both fighters lunging in with stinging blows to the head after Knight partially had closed Rosenbloom's eye with a stiff right. A last minute rally by Rosenbloom, in which he cuffed and jabbed Knight mercilessly, saved him his title.

Rosenbloom was disappointed and declared he thought he had won, although Knight said that after the final bell, Rosenbloom walked over to him and said, "It looks like you're a new champion, kid."

The semi-final bout was won by George Nichols, of Buffalo, who outpointed George Manley, of Denver, in five rounds.

Knight Misses Wildly.

Rosenbloom cuffed Knight viciously about the head while Knight lead steadily with his left in the first round. Later Maxie consistently jabbed Knight with stiff lefts and they ended the round even. Knight drove the champion to the ropes in the second round, landing a stinging right to the body, followed by a stiff left and another right to the head to take the round.

Knight continued to drive home hard lefts to the head and body in the third round, but Rosenbloom rallied to land hard lefts to the head to get a draw in the round. The fourth round started slowly. Knight kept crowding the champion to land a hard left to the face, but Maxie countered with enough lefts and rights to gain a shade at the end of the round. Rosenbloom opened up the fifth round with a savage attack to the head, then repeated to drive Knight back. Knight missed wildly, and Rosenbloom carried this round.

Rosenbloom crowded Knight to the ropes in the ninth round, cuffing briskly and driving solid rights to the body. What points Knight did score in this round were lost when he hit Rosenbloom a low blow at the bell.

GOLDEN GLOVE TICKETS

Mail orders are now being accepted for THE TRIBUNE'S seventh annual amateur boxing tournament. Fans who prefer seats up front are urged to send in their orders this week.

Three hundred fighting men from 35 cities and colleges in Chicagoland will battle it out with the strongest and bravest from the Catholic Youth Organization, the Jewish Organized Youth, the athletic clubs, gymnasiums, and an army of unattached Chicagoans in the great Tournament of Champions at Chicago Stadium Feb. 26, 27 and 28.

The prices of tickets for these three nights are $1.10, 66 cents and 40 cents.

Then come the finals, March 9, which will crown the Golden Gloves champions of 1934. They will be the survivors of the thousands from Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Nebraska who had the courage to test their fistic skill in man to man fashion.

Tickets for the finals are priced at $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, $1.10 and 55 cents. All seats are reserved.

Sixteen lightweight basketball games will be played in the four sections of the Chicago Public High School league today. Only three unbeaten squads remain. They are Roosevelt in the north division, Calumet in the south section and Crane Tech in the west.

Roosevelt seeks its fifth victory against Sullivan on the latter's floor; Crane Tech meets Marshall, holder of second place, at Crane Tech gymnasium, and Calumet opposes Harper on the Harper court.

Lightweight and heavyweight teams in the West Suburban conference go into action again tonight. York's quintets will play at Riverside; Hinsdale will meet Downers Grove at Downers Grove and West Chicago plays Glenbard at Glen Ellyn.

John Ivers has taken up his new duties as basketball coach at De La Salle institute. Ivers, who succeeds Lawrence Bol, was graduated from De La Salle in 1926. He formerly coached at Hubbard and Harper.

Waukegan High school's team will meet Joliet at the latter's gymnasium Saturday night. Joliet, which is among the leaders in the Big Six conference, has lost only two games this season.

Oak Park and New Trier divided a pair of dual meets at Winnetka yesterday. The Oak Park seniors won, 34 to 25, and the New Trier juniors triumphed, 43 to 10.

Proviso's lightweight and heavyweight teams will meet Deerfield at Highland Park Friday night and Oak Park faces New Trier at Winnetka in the Suburban league.

WISCONSIN LOSES, 23-22

Madison, Wis., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Michigan State's basketball team defeated Wisconsin tonight, 23 to 22, in a battle which packed all of its excitement into the last two minutes of play.

With about three minutes remaining, Rouse sent the Spartans into a 19 to 18 lead with a pair of gift shots and Herrick dropped a beautiful one-handed shot to run the count to 21 to 18.

DICK TRACY—A Meeting on the Corner

Dundee to Box Jeby Feb. 16 at Stadium

Vince Dundee, world's middleweight champion, and Ben Jeby of New York, a leading contender, were signed by the Stadium last night to meet in the 10 round windup to a boxing card at the west side arena on Feb. 16.

Dundee's title will not be at stake. The Stadium had sought to make it a championship fight, but was unable to complete negotiations on the basis of popular prices. Dundee then agreed to accept a smaller purse and not jeopardize his title.

Four fighters have been signed for the supporting bouts, but opponents have not been selected for them. Frank Battaglia, Canadian light heavyweight, will appear in the ten round semi-windup.

Bep Van Klaveren, Dutch welterweight, will box in the third ten round bout. Van Klaveren has had in the neighborhood of 15 fights in the country and has been beaten only once. Billy Petrolle was given a technical knockout over him in New York shortly after his arrival when Van Klaveren cut an eye in the sixth round and was prevented from continuing. Petrolle had been thoroughly whipped up until the sixth and the decision resulted in much dispute.

Leo Rodak, former Golden Glove champion, who recently turned professional will fight in an eight round supporting bout and Jimmy Christy, C. Y. O. inter city winner, has been signed for one of the four round bouts.

Joe Foley, general manager of the Stadium Operating company, yesterday requested the Illinois Athletic commission to reconsider its previous decision in banning the drop kick and allow Joe Savoldi to use it in a contemplated wrestling bout against Joe Stecher or Everett Marshall on Feb. 21. The commission held its decision in abeyance.

Nell Donald, woman wrestler, was given a license yesterday to meet Marie La Plante at Cicero Stadium Friday. The commission gave permission under protest. Chairman Joe Triner, who was informed by the attorney general that women are not banned from appearing as boxers or wrestlers in this state, said the commission will recommend to Gov. Horner that the boxing and wrestling act be amended at the next session of the legislature to bar feminine participation in these two sports.

Amateur boxers from the Belle Plaine Athletic club and Northwest gymnasium will finish sparring today for their interclub bouts Thursday at St. Hilary's auditorium, California and Bryn Mawr avenues.

A boxing and wrestling show at the Covenant club Thursday is being arranged by Mique Malloy. . . . Teddy Yarosz and Jimmy Smith meet in a 15 round bout next Monday at Pittsburgh. . . . Boxing cards are scheduled at Marion, Ill., Feb. 20 and Peoria Feb. 23. . . . There will be mat shows at the Rainbo Fronton Feb. 21, Arcadia Gardens March 13 and 27, and at the Stadium March 21.

Izzy Lubansky and Eddie Chinski, junior welterweights, have signed to box the eight round main event Feb. 19 at Midway arena. . . . The New York athletic commission has ruled that syndicate wrestling will be banned hereafter. . . . Ace Christoph, boxer, yesterday was reinstated.

Johnny Brown vs. Sam Scurto.
William Cozens vs. Mike Krizmas.
Harry Frederickson vs. Steve Stofka.

Mike Belloise and Mickey Barron [6].
Pete Gulotta and Murray Braudt [6].
Charley Badami and Johnny Bonito [6].
Al White and Steve Dudas [6].
Leonard Del Genio and Johnny Marro [6].

The second annual amateur boxing tournament sponsored by the Savoy Athletic club will end tonight at the Savoy arena, 4733 South Park way, with championships being decided in four divisions. The card includes the following matches:

Art Brewer vs. James Dunnington [5].
James Keller vs. Palmer Dewberry [5].
Dutch Long vs. William Ford [5].

Two More Sox, 2 More Cubs Sign Contracts

The Cubs and Sox each added two more names to the list of players who have signed for the 1934 season yesterday. Announcement of the receipt of the signed documents of John Pasek and Mervyn Shea was made by President J. Louis Comiskey of the White Sox, while Cub officials said Billy Jurges and Roy Joiner have agreed to terms.

It will be the first season with the Sox for both Pasek and Shea, who were obtained in the winter trades. Pasek was acquired from the Detroit American league club in the deal which sent George Earnshaw to the Sox, while Shea was obtained in a trade with the St. Louis Browns, who received Frank Grube.

Jurges and Joiner were the sixteenth and seventeenth Cubs to come into the fold, which already includes the names of Riggs Stephenson, Woody English, Guy Bush, Gabby Hartnett, Chuck Klein, who was obtained at the major league meetings; Kiki Cuyler, Benny Tate, and Manager Charley Grimm.

Jurges' Fourth Season.

Pat Malone has announced that he will not pitch for the Cubs for the salary which they offered, thus becoming the first holdout in the recent history of the Chicago National league club. Babe Herman, the tall outfielder, has not signed, but has notified President Walker that he is not a holdout.

It will be Jurges' fourth season with the Cubs. The star shortstop came to Chicago in 1931 from the Reading club of the International league. In his first year in the major league he batted .253. The following season he hit .231 and last year he batted .270.

ST. VIATOR STAR, HURT AT DE KALB, LEAVES HOSPITAL

De Kalb, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Emmerson Dexter of Champaign, St. Viator college guard and star player who was painfully injured in the basketball game here with the De Kalb Teachers Saturday, was released late today from the St. Mary's hospital and returned to the college at Bourbonnais.

Dexter was at first thought to be seriously hurt. He jumped near the De Kalb free throw circle with several other players to retrieve a rebound from the backboard, grazed a De Kalb player in the air, and fell on his back.

The injury proved to be only a severe muscular bruise of back and hip muscles. X-ray showed no fractures.

Three Organizations Voted A. A. U. Membership

Three athletic organizations have been voted memberships in the Amateur Athletic union, Owen V. Van Camp, chairman of the Central A. A. U. membership committee, announced yesterday. The new members are the Jewish Organized Youth, the Illinois-Western Skating association, and the American Amateur Soft Ball association. Seventy-three organizations are members of the central district of the A. A. U.

Jack Brodar, Illinois Athletic club was defeated last night in the first round of the Chicago city handball championship tournament at the Illinois Athletic club courts. He lost to L. Englestein, 21-20, 21-18. In another outstanding match R. M. Guelich defeated J. A. Stenson, 6-21, 21-17, 21-10.

Transfer Ottawa Wing Game to Detroit Rink

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Arrangements have been made to transfer the National Hocky league game scheduled to be played here Saturday between the Ottawa Senators and Detroit Red Wings, to Detroit. The contest will be played there Sunday.

Equipoise Must Earn $53,775 to Set New Record

Equipoise must win $53,775 this year to become the greatest money winning horse in history of the turf. He won $55,760 in 1933 so it will not be impossible to pass Sun Beau's record of $376,744. Equipoise is now in fourth position with $322,970. Sun Beau's total is $376,744, followed by Phar Lap's $322,250, and Gallant Fox's $328,165. During 1933 the Whitney racer displaced such money winners as Zev, Isinglass, Mate, Donovan, Top Flight and Blue Larkspur in moving from tenth to fourth position.

Burning Blaze to Be Brought Back to Races

Burning Blaze, star race horse a couple of years ago in the Shandon Farm stable owned by Patrick J. and Richard Nash of Chicago, will come back to the races and give a fine account of himself in the handicap division this year, in the opinion of Dr. J. M. Kaiser, paddock veternarian at most Chicago race tracks.

Dr. Kaiser returned from Kentucky yesterday, where he inspected the stock on the Nash brothers' farm and reported that Burning Blaze was the best looking horse on the place.

Burning Blaze was cut down a few days before he was to fill his Kentucky Derby engagement in 1931. He was put back into training for a short time last year, but didn't get to the post. His legs appear as strong as ever now, according to the Chicago veternarian.

The Superior stable horses owned by William Schmidt of Chicago are being moved this week from their winter quarters at the Fairbury, Ill., fair grounds to the Aurora track. Clarence Dale, the Superior stable trainer, who arrived yesterday from California, will put them in training at once.

DR. F. C. ALLEN, KANSAS COACH, ILL OF INFLUENZA

Lawrence, Kas., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Dr. Forest C. Allen, basketball coach at the University of Kansas, suffered an attack of influenza yesterday and will be unable to coach the squad for several weeks. The Jayhawkers meet Oklahoma in an important series here Thursday and Friday.

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Calling on the knowledge gained from more than 50 years of playing, 71 year old Alfredo De Oro, Cuban star from New York City, tonight turned in the first major upset of the world's three cushion billiard tournament when he defeated Welker Cochran, the defending champion from San Francisco, in the opening match, 50 to 49.

The game was more to order for De Oro, the boy wonder of the 80's who last held the three cushion title in 1918. Catching Cochran when the former balkline champion was far from his best, the gray haired veteran, seeded in the tournament because of what he had done for the game, played a great defensive game and coupled with brilliant shot making ran out in 74 innings.

De Oro Has High Run of Five.

De Oro had a high run of five in the 34th inning, but while he was putting together clusters of four and threes, Cochran had to be content with a high run of four. Time and again, Cochran appeared on the way to assert his superiority over the Cuban only to hit a snag when he came to easy shots.

STATE PREPARES GUIDE FOR CROW HUNTING CLUBS

Downstate Farmers Need Help in Shoots.

BY BOB BECKER.

A pamphlet on crow hunts and how to conduct them has just been published by the Illinois department of conservation. Charles F. Thompson, acting director of conservation, will supply copies of this helpful leaflet to individuals anxious to take a hand in the war against crows, and also to rod and gun clubs, conservation organizations and other groups in the state interested in protecting song and game birds by reducing the crow population.

Copies of the pamphlet entitled "Crow Hunts—and How to Conduct Them" may be secured by writing Mr. Thompson direct, care of the department of conservation, Springfield, Ill.

Help Is Needed.

In the published leaflet the department of conservation makes the following statement regarding the current crow campaign: "The state is most anxious to encourage a comprehensive campaign of crow extermination in the interest of the conservation of bird life and of the reduction of crop losses. A fine type of sport can be provided thereby.

"Any efforts in game bird protection or propagation must be accompanied by a well ordered campaign for the control of predatory life, the crow probably taking a larger toll in the destruction of our game at present than any other predator. Modern farming has also reduced the natural cover protection to such an extent that the handicap in the struggle of our game birds for existence is too great for them to carry on alone, and they must have our aid in the control of their natural enemies."

They Even Trap Crows.

The leaflet issued by the state on crow control gives a drawing of a trap which has proved successful in bagging the birds. Details of competitive crow shoots are also outlined, telling sportsmen of successful shoots in the state. The Kendall County Crow club, a pioneer organization of this character, is cited as a good example of how farmers and sportsmen work together every spring to reduce the crow population.

Orchard owners downstate, in the region where the department of conservation staged a memorable crow hunt a few weeks ago, are asking that another squad of shooters come back to render further aid in the battle against the crow nuisance. The concentration of birds in one place near Flora, Ill., is estimated at 500,000 birds, although some experienced hunters state that this figure is conservative.

14,000 in One Bag.

One orchard owner whose trees have been ruined by crows reports that the shooting of 14,000 crows in one night hasn't even made an impression on this big flock. It was found that while the crows will rise out of the trees when fired on, they will immediately settle back so that shooting may be resumed.

Sportsmen around Crystal Lake, Ill., have an opportunity for a big crow hunt if reports of a large flock near that city are authentic. The department of conservation will be glad to cooperate on a well organized hunt with any local group of sportsmen.

KOPECKY, PURPLE ATHLETE, FAILS; N. U. CAREER ENDS

Irwin [Red] Kopecky, forward on the Northwestern university basketball team, was declared ineligible yesterday. Scholastic difficulties, as a result of the semester examinations now in progress, resulted in his being dropped from the squad.

Kopecky, a sophomore, had played regular forward all season. In addition to being a star basketball player, he also was a regular tackle on the football team. He went to Northwestern from Morton High school of Cicero.

His scholastic failure is expected to end his career at Northwestern. He was on probation during the past semester and a failure in any study automatically drops a probationary student from school, according to university regulations.

32 Northwest Gym Boxers in Golden Gloves

Northwest gymnasium last night entered ten boys in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament, which opens at the 132d Regiment armory next Monday, bringing its total entry to 32.

Frank Beran is a lightweight member. In 1931 and 1932 Beran, who is 19 years old, qualified from the west side in the featherweight class for the Tournament of Champions. Chuck Logan and Art Kassner are coaches of the Northwest gymnasium team.

One hundred and forty-seven reported last night at Trafton's gymnasium for physical examinations, which will qualify them for the four Chicago sectional tournaments. Four were rejected for heart murmurs and two for being under 16 years of age.

Tonight at C. Y. O. center 257 boys, representatives of the Catholic Youth Organization, will be examined between 6:30 and 8:30 p. m. The final physical tests will be given scores of additional boxers tomorrow night at Trafton's gymnasium.

Chicago milkmen will be represented by Nicholas Niccolletti of the Wieland Dairy company, at 3014 North Tripp avenue. Nick is 23 years old and a lightweight.

Sixteen year old Woodrow Wilson will compete. He said he believes in friendly warfare.

Hugh Biggerstaff, featherweight son of Dave Biggerstaff, former boxer, is to fight for Franklin Park. He is an 18 year old druggist's apprentice.

Bob Iverson, 1933 Golden Gloves bantamweight runnerup, headed a team of 15 from the Harlem Boxing club, Harlem avenue and Irving Park boulevard. He is confident that Stanley Milarski, lightweight; Nick Podlewski, light heavyweight; John Hum and Harold [Red] Martin, welterweights, have the proper stuff to win a title. Milarski has scored seven knockouts in eight matches.

Frank Sanello, Trafton's gymnasium, is a contender for flyweight honors in the open class. . . . Six feet and five inch Charles Thompson, a 190 pound truck helper, had to bow his head when he passed through the door at Trafton's. . . . James Lundy, colored welterweight, said that he will compete for the Maxwell Street Y. M. C. A.

The Northwest Athletic club, located at Damen and North avenues, has a team of 35 in the tournament. . . . One of Andy Frain's ushers, John Walsh, is a middleweight entrant. Walsh, student at College Preparatory school, Jackson boulevard and State street, has had four years' experience as a boxer.

The Rough Riders' club of Maywood, Ill., has several likely looking youngsters. George Hilke, 160 pounds, and Felix Cheskie, 147, are on the team.

The entry of the newly formed Polish Youth Organization, 4660 South Gross avenue, is headed by Steve Sakal, 1931 C. Y. O. heavyweight titleholder. Sakal and ten teammates passed the physical requirements last night.

Sam Scoglio and Sam Guidara, winners of the bantamweight and feather weight titles, respectively, in the first annual Midwest Italian amateur boxing tournament last summer at Mills stadium, will compete unattached. Scoglio was runnerup to Jimmy Christy for the C. Y. O. featherweight crown at the Stadium last December.

It's never too late to learn how to box, according to Ralph Klotz, 220 pound shipping clerk for Swift & Co. at the Union stockyards. He is 32 years old.

HAWKS LIMP OUT TO STADIUM FOR SPECIAL PRACTICE

The Blackhawks, burdened with an assortment of bandages and liniment as a result of Sunday night's 2 to 1 defeat by the Boston Bruins, engaged in a workout at the Stadium yesterday which was called for the sole purpose of conditioning two men, Lionel Conacher and Jack Leswick.

Conacher participated in the Boston game, but was playing against the advice of the club physician. Leswick was unavailable Sunday because of a stomach ailment. Both men are badly needed by the Hawks in their game against the Detroit Red Wings on Thursday night.

Conacher suffered a broken nose in the Ottawa game last week. Without first class assistance from the big defense man, the Hawks' defense slips to mediocre, a state which will prove extremely embarrassing against the Red Wings, who are now one point ahead of the Hawks and possessed of superlative skill whenever they meet up with the Chicagoans.

Alumni Honor Stagg, Present New Yearbook

University of Chicago alumni yesterday presented to A. A. Stagg the first copy of the Alumni year book and directory of 1933-'34, which is dedicated to the former Midway coach and contains a 40 page history of Maroon athletics under his direction.

William C. Gorgas, president of the Chicago Alumni club, and Charles Higgins, club treasurer, both of whom played football under Stagg, made the presentation.

Contains Complete Record.

The athletic section of the book presents, in addition to articles on Mr. Stagg's career, all Maroon team scores in football, basketball, baseball, and track; all winners of the C championships won in all sports, of which there were 102, and a score of historical pictures.

The dedication of the book reads: "To Amos Alonzo Stagg, athletic director and football coach at the University of Chicago for 41 years, 1892-1933, in recognition of his outstanding work in the development of intercollegiate and amateur athletics, in America as well as at Chicago, and as a great builder of character and physique in men, we, the Chicago Alumni club, dedicate this edition of the year book."

Names Letter Winners.

Under the heading "Mighty Men of Chicago" the book lists the names of 43 athletes to whom Stagg awarded six or more varsity letters. Clarence Herschberger, captain of the '97 football team, heads the list with 13; Nelson Norgren and Paul Des Jardien are credited with 12 each; Herbert P. Crisler, Harlan P. Page and John J. Schommer won nine each; Edwin C. Curtis, Paul D. Hinkle, Frederick D. Nichols and Walter S. Kennedy won 8 each, and Hugo S. Bezdek, Mark S. Catlin, Ira Davenport, William C. Gorgas, Robert T. Halladay, Carr B. Neel, Edwin E. Perry, Alfred W. Place, Clark G. Sauer, Laurens C. Shull, and Frederick A. Speik won seven each.

Winning Ping-Pong

BY COLEMAN CLARK.

[National Champion 1932.]

THE SMASH AND BLOCK SHOTS.

THERE are other strokes besides the drive and chop which ambitious ping-pong players should give attention to.

Nothing gives the true ping-pong devotee more delight than putting everything he has into a devastating kill shot. We call this a smash. When ever the little celluloid ball sits up there, high in the air, punish it with a hard smash.

The stroke is quite similar to the drive except that the wrist is more rigid, and the ball is hit with a flat racket. By that I mean the blade should be perpendicular to the desired flight of the ball.

The block shot, illustrated above, is like the half-volley or pick-up shot in tennis, and is purely a defensive stroke. It is hardly a stroke either, as there is little or no movement of the arm. Hold the racket with a firm wrist, with the blade in an almost vertical position.

Tomorrow—the flick shot.

PERRY, WORLD'S TENNIS CHAMP, IS BEATEN BY QUIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADELAIDE, Australia, Feb. 5.—Fred Perry, leading singles tennis player in the world, went down to a surprising defeat today in the England-Australia matches. Perry was defeated by Adrian Quist, young star, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Australia won the series, seven matches to five. In another outstanding match H. G. N. Lee of England triumphed over Jack Crawford, Australia's leading player. The scores were 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

DE PAUL DEFEATS CAPE GIRARDEAU QUINTET, 30-28

Missourians' Late Rally Falls Short.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—A methodical offense that clicked at the critical moments enabled De Paul university's basketball team to defeat Southeast Missouri State college tonight, 30 to 28.

After De Paul led for 10 minutes of the first half, the Missourians took a slight lead which they carried, 14 to 11, at the half intermission. It was the first time in eight games that Coach Jim Kelly's Blue Devils were headed at the half.

Cape Girardeau held the lead through seven minutes of the last half then surrendered it to De Paul. Cape Girardeau launched a rally in the late minutes that pulled from a 28 to 20 standing to within a shadow of the Chicagoans.

De Paul continues to St. Louis, where they will meet the St. Louis university Billikens tomorrow night.

NET OPERATING INCOME OF RAILS RISES IN 1933

Freight Gain and Expense Cut Are Factors.

The class 1 railroads of the nation in 1933 had a net operating income of $474,369,438 compared with $326,317,936 for 1932, according to a report compiled by the bureau of railway economics. The return on the property investment for 1933 was 1.80 per cent compared with 1.24 per cent in 1932.

The 1933 gain was attributed by the bureau to increased freight traffic and to continued drastic reductions in operating expenses.

Loading Gain Exceeds Revenues.

While revenue freight carloadings in 1933 increased 2.8 per cent above 1932, freight revenues increased only 1.7 per cent, the report states. Freight revenues in 1933 totaled $2,492,735,344 compared with $2,450,957,092 in 1932.

Passenger revenues for 1933 totaled $329,341,854, a decrease of $47,753,519, or 12.7 per cent.

Operating revenues for 1933 totaled $3,095,446,191 compared with $3,126,889,091 in 1932, a decline of 1 per cent. Operating expenses in 1933 totaled $2,249,318,750, compared with $2,403,543,795 in 1932, a decline of 6.4 per cent.

Taxes down 9.3 Per Cent.

The roads in 1933 paid a total of $249,539,964 in taxes, a reduction of $25,631,897, or 9.3 per cent as compared with 1932.

For December, 1933, net operating income of the class 1 roads stood at $37,763,877 compared with $32,304,894 for December 1932. The rate of return on the property investment for December, 1933, was 2.35 per cent compared with 2 per cent in December, 1932.

TREASURY TO DRAW 51 MILLIONS FROM BANKS ON THURSDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—The United States treasury will withdraw from depositary banks on Thursday and Friday a total of $51,378,950, of which $26,382,300 will be called from banks in this federal reserve district. Banks were notified of the withdrawals in two treasury calls sent out today.

The first calls for repayment on Thursday of the balance of the funds remaining on deposit for the account of the treasury 4¼-3¼ per cent bonds, dated Oct. 15, the amount involved being $17,898,050, of which $8,470,100 is in banks in this district.

The second call specifies the repayment of $33,480,900, of which $17,912,200 is in this district. It represents 10 per cent of the amounts remaining on deposit for the account of the 2¼ per cent certificates of indebtedness, dated Dec. 15 last. After this withdrawal there will remain on deposit $1,204,334,100, of which $641,601,983 will be in banks of this district.

DOLLAR'S VALUE IN THREE CHIEF FOREIGN MONEYS

The following table shows the value of the United States dollar in the principal capitals of Europe at the close of exchange trading yesterday, both in terms of the dollar and of foreign units.

IN LONDON—One pound sterling was equal to $4.93⅛; one dollar was equal (approximately) to 4 shillings 7 pence.

IN PARIS—One franc was worth $0.0619; one dollar was worth 16.15 francs.

IN BERLIN—One mark was worth $0.3731; one dollar was worth 2.68 marks.

ADVANCE IN GOLD PRICES PUSHES OLD METAL SALE

Commercial Quotation Under New Stock.

Recent restrictions on the handling of gold imposed by the government when it raised the price of the metal to $35 an ounce have resulted in two prices—one, the mint price for new metal and unmelted scrap, which is the stated $35 an ounce, and the other, the commercial price which currently is about $1.50 an ounce under the mint price.

The price boost has sharply increased business in the old gold market as persons owning heirlooms, old watchcases, gold teeth, jewelry, etc., are taking advantage of the new prices. Previously, although the government was paying more than $30 an ounce for newly mined gold, the price of old gold was based on the former legal $20.67 an ounce.

Smelter Explains Situation.

Marc S. Goldsmith, vice president of Goldsmith Bros. Smelting and Refining company, one of the oldest houses of its kind in the country, yesterday outlined the situation with respect to gold under the new deal.

"In view of the fact that the latest regulations restrict government buying of gold at a $35 price to only unmelted scrap and newly mined gold, the commercial market has again settled under the government price," Mr. Goldsmith said. "At present refined gold is being sold in large quantities at around $33.50 an ounce.

"As long as there is an excess of secondary gold to be passed through refining operations, which cannot be sold to the government, the price to the professions and arts for fine gold will no doubt be under the government price. There should be no change in this situation unless there is a sufficient improvement in the consuming demand to take care of this excess.

Drive Against Hoarders.

"The apparent reason for the government taking this stand against melted gold is no doubt due to its campaign against hoarders and particularly to choke the outlet for the disposition of melted coins which should have been turned in at the old $20.67 rate.

"This situation has tended for the first time in history to bring the price of melted gold at a discount as compared to the price of unmelted scrap. In other words the refiners formerly were able to pay more for karat gold when melted than when left in scrap, but now the contrary is tending to develop."

In the meantime the government is continuing to exercise rigid supervision over the transactions of gold, whether by the arts and professions or by the dealers. Industries using gold may not have amounts in excess of their needs for three months, and they are required to make affidavits as to the disposition of their holdings. Persons selling scrap to the government must make affidavit that it was obtained lawfully.

BOND PROTECTIVE GROUP REPORTS CASH BALANCE

Sheridan-Brompton Has Operating Profit.

BY AL CHASE.

The Greenebaum Bondholders Protective committee reports a cash balance of $14,621 on Dec. 31, 1933, for the thirteen story Sheridan Brompton apartments, at 3520 Sheridan road. A statement of cash receipts for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, shows gross receipts of $153,705 with disbursements for operating expenses, $89,871, leaving net receipts from operations of $63,834.

Other disbursements were $57,271 [including furniture rental $6,800], insurance, $2,028; payment to apply on deficiency, $33,000; receiver's fees, $9,000; attorneys' fees, $6,000. Excess of receipts over disbursements, $6,562.

Title to Be Perfected Soon.

According to Secretary Eric L. Anderson this property was purchased at a foreclosure sale by a nominee of the bondholders' protective committee and the title will be perfected by the expiration of the period of redemption, which will be on Feb. 16.

The committee handling the reorganization of the Surf Apartment hotel at the southwest corner of Surf street and Pine Grove avenue reports a cash balance of $24,599 on Dec. 31, 1933. For the year ending on that date the committee states that receipts were $78,412. Disbursements for operating expenses were $62,189. Net receipts form operations were $10,224.

Other Disbursements.

Other disbursements were $30,702, including payment in full of 1931 taxes and interest and costs, $18,278; receiver's fees were $3,750; attorneys' fees were $3,450. The excess of disbursements over recepits was $20,478.

According to the secretary of the Greenebaum Bondholders' Protective committee, Eric L. Anderson, foreclosure proceedings have been instituted on the property but a decree of sale has not yet been entered. He adds that not only 1931 taxes but all prior taxes have been paid in full.

The Surf Apartment hotel is reported to have had an occupancy of 65 per cent last November. This was a $1,500,000 Greenebaum Sons Investment company bond issue, since paid down to $1,300,000.

J. M. NICHOLS REPORTS BANK AS "STRONG AS GOVERNMENT ITSELF"

With almost 100 per cent of the depositors' money in cash and government bonds, J. M. Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, in a statement of condition as of Jan. 31, 1934, describes his institution as being "as liquid as the federal reserve bank, as safe as the postal savings and as strong as the United States government itself."

The statement divides assets as to liquid and nonliquid as follows. Liquid: U. S. government bonds, cash on hand and due from federal reserve bank, $6,138,293; industrial bonds, $158,700; railway equipment notes, $59,000; accrued interest on government bonds, $53,466 and balance with correspondent bank, $5,000. The total liquid assets are given as $6,414,459. Under the nonliquid assets are included, first mortgage real estate loans, $656,000; other real estate, $170,034; bank building, $60,000, and other minor items. The total is $940,201.

Deposits are given as $6,387,787. Mr. Nichols places the deposit coverage by liquid assets at 100.41 per cent.

FUTURE RENTAL LIABILITY VOIDED BY BANKRUPTCY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Supreme court held today that tenants who break leases by going into bankruptcy do not have to pay damages covering future rents.

The decision, rendered in two cases appealed from New York, was considered of great importance because of the number of rental leases canceled by bankruptcy proceedings.

Landlords contended bankruptcy in many instances was resorted to solely for the purpose of breaking leases. They said this was particularly true of chain stores.

Tenants opposed claims for future rents broadly on the ground the landlords were unable at time of bankruptcy to prove they would suffer damages by the breaking of the leases. The tenants insisted the premises surrendered by them might be rented by the landlords at the same or higher rates than carried in the leases canceled by bankruptcy.

BARS PLEDGING BANK ASSETS FOR PUBLIC DEPOSITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The Supreme court today affirmed a lower court decision holding that national banks in Illinois cannot pledge their assets as security for deposits of public funds of the state or municipalities.

In an opinion written by Associate Justice Louis Brandeis the court held that national banks under existing law can pledge their assets against deposits of state or municipal funds only in states where such action is permitted by state law. In Illinois, the court found, there is no such statute. The case involved the action of the City National Bank of Herrin, Ill., which in 1931 pledged $23,000 in negotiable bonds with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, against prospective deposits made by the city treasurer of Marion, Ill.

Receivers Seek to Recover Bonds.

When the Herrin bank went into receivership the receivers brought action to recover the bonds on the ground that they could not be pledged as security for the deposits of public funds of the municipality of Marion. The national banking act, the court held, did not authorize national banks to pledge their assets against deposits of public moneys, although, in 1930, the act was amended to permit the practice in states where state banks had the privilege.

"In some states," said the decision, "national banks had, prior to the 1930 amendment, frequently pledged assets to secure public deposits of the state or of a political subdivision thereof; controlers of the currency knew that this was being done and they assumed that the banks had the power so to do. But the assumption was erroneous. The contention that such power is generally necessary in the business of deposit banking has not been sustained.

Question of Powers.

"The controling question is whether Illinois has conferred upon banks organized under its laws power to pledge assets as security for deposits of public moneys of political subdivisions of the state. Banks organized under the laws of Illinois do not appear to possess the power of pledging assets to secure the deposit of public moneys of a political subdivision of the state.

"Since the Herrin bank was without power to make the pledge of bonds here in question, its receiver is entitled to recover them unconditionally in order that they may be administered for the benefit of the general creditors of the bank."

The Philippine islands, Chicago and other municipalities joined in contending their deposits should be secured by pledging bank assets.

STOCKS CLIMB TO NEW PEAKS ON BULL PUSH

Volume Is Close to 5,000,000 Shares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Rising stock prices and bustling activity again cheered Wall street today. With the movement broadening out to embrace hitherto inactive shares in all sections of the list, prices of active stocks were pushed ahead 1 to 4 points at best levels. Inactive stocks and some with small capitalization scored even wider gains.

Most stocks reached new highs for the bull push and some pierced peaks set three years ago. The market, however, was not spared from the customary profit taking in late trading and prices dipped somewhat from the day's best marks. Nevertheless the market closed strong with net gains among favorite stocks ranging to 3 points.

Volume Near 5 Million Shares.

With bulls firmly in the market saddle, brokerage offices and the floor of the exchange furnished scenes of excited trading from the opening bell to the finish. A total of 4,946,000 shares changed hands, the largest trading volume since July 23, 1933. The ticker at all times was hard pressed to keep up with a trading pace of a million shares an hour and traders had to contend with late quotations.

The advancing stock market had side shows in rising commodity prices, while bonds carried their long sustained upswing into the new week.

Another feature of the exciting financial markets was a sharp break in the French franc, which again came under pressure of the heavy movement of capital to this market as a result of revaluation of the dollar's gold value. Funds continued to flow out of Paris, London and other centers in a steady stream, part of them into American securities.

Rails Constantly Strong.

The usual bullish pattern was followed, with buying salvos first in one group and then in another. Rails were constantly strong, their gains running to 4 points. Good features among common carrier shares were Atlantic Coast Line and New York Central, while Missouri, Kansas and Texas preferred stood out with an advance of more than 3 points on the day.

Railroad equipment stocks had an equally good market, American Car and Foundry, Lima, and Baldwin rising 1 to 3 points in brisk dealings. Lima was at its best in three years.

American Telephone featured a buoyant utility group, climbing 3½ net to the best level in several months. Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, and North American were among other highlights of the public service division.

Steel stocks made their best bid in the last hour, when the street heard reports of a sharp rise in the operating rate for the industry. National Steel went above 58 to the best price since 1930. Hugging the 60 mark, U. S. Steel common closed up 1⅝, which gain was equaled by Bethlehem.

Motors Have Good Day.

Motors enjoyed a fine day. Chrysler duplicated its best quotation since 1929, while General Motors hit the highest mark in more than two years. Chrysler, however, encountered heavy realizing sales and closed off a fraction. Hudson and Nash were active and strong.

New highs also were established by Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck, the former reported to have strong bull backing. Marshall Field turned active suddenly and finished fractionally higher.

Chemicals were on a rising plane behind du Pont, which found a new high level since 1931. Gains of about 2 points were registered by Air Reduction and Allied Chemical.

Kaufman Bank Will Pay 12½% More on Deposits

A 12½ per cent payment, amounting to $46,009, to depositors of the closed Kaufman State bank was ordered yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke in the Circuit court. The disbursement is the third since the bank closed in June, 1931, and will make a total of 37½ per cent paid to depositors. All depositors with $2 or less in the bank were ordered to be paid in full.

DOLLAR DEVALUATION SETS UP NEW LIST OF THEORETICAL PARITIES

Devaluation of the dollar to 15 5/21 grains of gold has resulted in a marked change in calculations of foreign exchange dealers. Based on figures of the Federal Reserve bank, carried to the nearest 1/100th of a cent, the following represent new official, theoretical parities:

	New parity.	Old parity.
British pound	$8.2397	$4.8665
French franc	.0663	.0392
German reichsmark	.4433	.2382
Holland guilder	.8806	.4020
Italian lira	.0891	.0526
Belgian belga	.2854	.1390
Swiss franc	.3207	.1930
Spanish peseta	.3267	.1930
Argentine peso	1.6335	.9048
Japanese yen	.8440	.4980
Austrian schilling	.2382	.1407
Canadian dollar	1.6931	1.0000

In the case of the British pound there is no expectation it will be lifted to $8.2397 in terms of gold, but since gold payments were suspended in 1931 there has been no official devaluation of the pound, so it would go to that level in terms of the dollar if the old gold value of the pound were restroed. This also applies to the Canadian dollar, Japanese yen and the Argentine peso.

CAR ORDERS TO GIVE MANY WORK AT STEEL MILLS

Thousands of employés will return to work in the Chicago area as the result of the $35,000,000 car order allocated Saturday by the Van Sweringen lines.

Of the total, car plants in the Calumet district will receive $21,000,000, it is said, which will mean a year's work and reopening of many plants, some of which have been closed three years. Plants which will benefit include those of the Standard Steel car company at Hammond, Pressed Steel Car and Ryan Car companies at Hegewisch, Pullman Car and Manufacturing at Pullman and Michigan City, and the General American Car corporation at East Chicago.

In Milwaukee all employés of the Huth & James Shoe Manufacturing company returned to work, following settlement of a strike. About 300 employés were recalled at the Chrysler Motor company's factory in Los Angeles.

Milwaukee Line Plans Use of $14,357,383 PWA Funds

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad yesterday asked approval of the interstate commerce commission to expend $8,637,383 of Public Works administration loans for the purchase of new equipment, rails, and maintenance work. The line also requested permission to issue $5,720,000 of 4 per cent equipment trust certificates, series M, to be sold to the PWA in financing the acquisition of seventy-five new cars and thirty locomotives.

Gen. Motors Votes Regular 25c Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Directors of General Motors corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a common share, but did not vote the extra of 25 cents declared three months ago.

The International Nickel company declared a dividend on the common stock of 10 cents a share, the first on the junior shares since 1931. The dividend is payable March 31 to stock of record March 1. The previous dividend was 5 cents a share, paid in December, 1931.

Robert C. Stanley, president, said the resumption of dividends was due to improvement in the world market for nickel and to prospects for continued demand.

Pays Accumulations.

The Van Raalte Company, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the first preferred stock as well as all accumulated dividends on the issue, payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 16. The current quarterly dividend and the accumulated payments totaled $5.25 a share on the stamped stock and $38.50 per share on the unstamped.

Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable March 15 to stockholders of record Feb. 15.

The Celanese Corporation of America declared $4 on the 7 per cent cumulative first participating preferred stock, payable March 2 to stock of record Feb. 16. The payment reduces dividend arrears on the issue to $1 a share.

U. S. Freight Pays 25c.

A dividend of 25 cents a share, the rate at which the company resumed dividends three months ago, was declared by U. S. Freight company, payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 17.

A dividend of $2.20 on the capital stock, payable Feb. 19 to stock of record Feb. 13, was declared by the First Chrold corporation. Three months ago a dividend of $2.26 was paid, which, after deducting the 5 per cent federal tax in effect then, resulted in a net payment of $2.15 a share.

Cosmos Imperial Mills, Ltd., declared a dividend of $4.37½ a share on the 7 per cent preferred on account of accumulations which will amount to $2.22½ a share after this payment.

Minnesota Holiday on Mortgages Again Upheld

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Supreme court refused today to reconsider its recent 5 to 4 decision sustaining the validity of the Minnesota mortgage moratorium act which upheld the right of the government to suspend the provisions of a contract in an emergency.

CHAIN STORES REPORT JANUARY SALES ARE SHARPLY ABOVE 1933

Sharp improvement in chain store sales volume for January was revealed yesterday by a number of leading concerns. Chief of these were the F. W. Woolworth and S. S. Kresge companies, which attained respective increases over 1932 of 14.4 and 14.5 per cent.

Woolworth reported volume last month of $18,137,341 against $15,844,684 for January, 1933, marking the eighth consecutive year to year increase. Kresge sales were $8,824,820, against $7,706,388. In December Woolworth's improvement over the preceding year was 11.1 per cent and Kresge's 9.3 per cent.

Neisner Brothers' sales in January aggregated $984,463, against $793,048, up 24.1 per cent. The W. T. Grant company reported $4,832,562 for the month, compared with $4,272,878, which was 13.1 per cent higher. The Simmons company's sales for the period were $1,402,581, against $974,458, an advance of 44.1 per cent.

The Safeway Stores reported sales of $16,486,586 in the four weeks ended Jan. 27, an increase of 9.9 per cent. In the preceding four weeks sales were up 8.9 per cent from a year earlier.

The Western Auto Supply company announced that its January sales were $870,000, a gain of $203,800, or 34 per cent, over the same month a year ago.

STEEL OUTPUT NOW 37½% OF PLANT CAPACITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Steel mills in the leading manufacturing centers of the country this week are operating at 37.5 per cent of capacity, according to the estimate of the American Iron and Steel institute based on telegraphic reports received today. This compares with 34.4 per cent of capacity last week, a gain of 3.1 points and with 39.7 per cent of capacity a month ago.

"Increased demand resulting from railroad equipment orders, improved demand from the automotive industry which is now swinging into large production on new models, and a generally improved demand from other sources were the cause for the increased activity which is expected to grow before the close of the week.

The current rate is the highest since the institute began its weekly tabulation on Oct. 23, last. The lowest rate since that time was 25.2 per cent, reached in the second week of November. At the beginning of the year the rate was 29.3 per cent.

Value of U. S. Gold Mounts to 7 Billion, 19 Millions

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The government's gold stock increased $1,500,000 today to a new high of $7,019,914,111. Treasury figures gave no official explanation for this increase, but it was assumed to be due partly to gold returning from hoarding and partly to purchases. The previous day's gold figure was $7,018,263,925.

SILVER BULLION HUNT ORDERED BY MORGENTHAU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's monetary experimentation appeared today to have veered around in the direction of silver when Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. disclosed that he had started a federal investigation to determine who were the large speculative holders of silver.

Refusing to reveal whether the inquiry is the forerunner of some revaluation or further remonetization of silver, Secretary Morgenthau said he merely "thought it would be helpful to know how much silver there is and who has it."

Large silver merchants in New York are having their records gone over today by treasury agents to determine the holders of silver futures and spot silver. It was recalled that a similar investigation preceded the gold hoarding drive which in turn led up to the revaluation of the gold dollar.

President Has Power.

Unofficial speculation here was that the administration is either contemplating a revaluation upward of silver or is endeavoring to run down widespread rumors that there is a connection between large silver holders and the silver bloc in congress. Secretary Morgenthau refused to discuss either possibility.

Particular weight is being attached here to the probability of an early revaluation of the silver dollar in conformity with the new weight to the gold dollar. President Roosevelt has the power to take such a step under existing monetary laws.

The present statutory price for silver is $1.29 an ounce, although it is selling for about 44 cents on the open market, and the mints are paying only 64½ cents an ounce for newly mined silver. If President Roosevelt should wish to bring about a devalution of the silver dollar commensurate with that of the gold dollar, he would have to boost the price to $1.82 an ounce.

Mining Picks Up.

Monetary advisers to the President, such as Prof. George F. Warren, have been urging that he put the dollar on a combined silver and gold standard, making the reserve behind one dollar, for instance, 75 cents gold and 25 cents silver.

Secretary Morgenthau today announced a sharp pickup in the newly mined silver sold to the mints. In the week ended Feb. 2, he said, the mints received 117,555 ounces, compared with 94,921 ounces the previous week, and only 2,181 in the preceding four weeks combined.

Banks Bow to U.S. Treasury; Buy 541 Million More Bonds

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

More than half a billion dollars of government bonds were purchased last week by reserve member banks in the principal banking centers of the country. This big addition to their portfolios, the largest in months, appears to leave no doubt as to compliance by the reserve members with the treasury's wish that they coöperate in the government's huge financing program.

The heavy purchases of "governments" were revealed in the weekly statement giving the position of member banks in 90 leading cities of the country at the close of business last Wednesday. In return for the coöperation given by the banks the treasury left most of the proceeds from the purchases on deposit with the banks. The actual increase in governments held was 541 millions. Government deposits with reporting banks in the same period showed an increase of 605 millions. Thus the purchases for the time being, at least, represent no more than a bookkeeping transaction, the banks buying on the deposits placed with them by the government.

Banks Grant More Credit.

However, while pouring millions into the "governments" the banks also increased other types of outstanding credit. Investments other than governments expanded 46 millions; collateral loans climbed 111 millions, and commercial loans gained 27 millions. The aggregate expansion in total loans and investments was 725 millions, the biggest expansion in member bank credit in months.

The expansion was reflected in a shrinkage in member bank balances at the federal reserve banks of 176 millions. Borrowings from the reserve fell 7 millions to a current total of 13 millions.

The first indication of the rate at which member banks were buying government bonds came late last week when the New York and Chicago member banks made their individual reports. The New York banks revealed an increase of 417 millions in governments, and the Chicago banks purchased 53 millions, thus accounting for the bulk of the purchases reported yesterday.

Gesture Toward Easy Rates.

The figures issued yesterday again centered attention on the cut of the New York reserve bank's rediscount rate and its significance. In banking quarters here it has been regarded as a gesture intended to inform the country at large that credit conditions are easier and that only a moderate return could be expected on the new government issues.

The New York banks straightaway blazed ahead by big purchases of government securities, with Chicago trailing and the rest of the country expected to follow. How well they follow will tell the success of the government's financing. A study of the position of member banks in New York and their excess reserve position indicates that the treasury is depending on banks throughout the country to take the bulk of the new government bonds.

Following are comparisons of the principal resources and liabilities of weekly reporting member banks as at the close of business Wednesday [last 3 ciphers omitted]:

TREASURY LOANS SELL AT 0.66 AND 0.94% DISCOUNT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced tonight a heavy oversubscription of a $175,000,000 offer of treasury bills.

Bids on $125,000,000 of 91 day bills maturing May 9, aggregated $302,858,000 of which $125,493,000 was accepted at an average rate of 0.66 per cent on a bank discount basis.

A $50,000,000 issue of 182 day bills maturing Aug. 8 drew $244,427,000 in bids of which $50,078,000 was accepted at an average rate of 0.94 per cent.

January Sugar Melt of 13 Refiners Shows Decrease

Total sugar melt of thirteen refiners in the United States from Jan. 1 to Jan. 27 totaled 190,000 long tons compared with 210,000 in the same period last year. Deliveries amounted to 180,000 tons against 200,000 a year ago.

DOLLAR, POUND HOLD STEADY AS FRANC PLUNGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—A sharp break in the French gold franc as a result of the political crisis in France was the feature of the foreign exchange markets today. The franc, the gold measuring stick of world currencies for months, slipped badly against both the pound and the dollar. Meanwhile the ratio between the pound and American funds showed little change.

The final quotation on the franc here was 6.19 cents, as compared with Saturday's last price of 6.33 cents. The franc quotation indicated an exchange gold worth for the dollar of 63.29 cents, or nearly a cent and a half above Saturday's 61.89 cent figures. The French political situation, however, makes the franc a poor gold measure and attention for weighing gold values shifted to the London free market, where gold reached a new high price of 140 shillings, up 21 pence from last week's price. Converted into American funds at the rate of $4.93¾ for the pound this price is equivalent to $34.56, or only 44 cents below the American government's official price of $35 an ounce.

Pound-Dollar Rate Unchanged.

The actual final quotation on the pound was $4.93½, unchanged from Saturday. The fluctuations between the pound and the dollar were the narrowest in weeks. The pound's quotation hovered between $4.93 and $4.95 and managed to finish at exactly the same place as on Saturday. The stable ratio between the two currencies caused wide conjecture in financial quarters over the probability that the British and American stabilization funds were being operated to hold the rate steady and dispel fears of a possible currency war.

Buying of gold by American banks for withdrawal from France met with a slight set back, by the imposition of new regulations by the Bank of France. The new rule requires forty-eight hours' advance notice of intention to ask for the delivery of gold. Futures contracts in francs were almost impossible to obtain, most banks reported, and what few were negotiated ranged from 3½ to 4 points discount under the spot rate for 30-day deliveries to 12 points or more on 90 day futures.

Meanwhile the gold flow toward New York continued. From London it was reported that activity in the bullion market continued at a feverish pace with offerings of about $7,500,000, the largest day for a long time. Americans were reputed to have taken all the offerings. Three American vessels, the President Roosvelt, Washington, and President Harding, now loading in European ports, will carry additional consignments of gold, London advices said. Altogether seven liners are scheduled to leave English channel ports this week.

The National City bank, which already has $8,500,000 gold on the way, reported engagements of about $5,500,000 more, consisting of gold purchased in Paris, London, and Bombay. Another large bank engaged $1,000,000 gold abroad and two other banks have taken undisclosed amounts.

It was reported that all gold shipping accommodations on vessels bound for the United States were booked until the middle of March.

Gold Drain on France.

The gold drain on France last week was estimated between 3,000,000 and 6,000,000 ponds, or $15,000,000 to $30,000,000. Additional American capital was flying out of France today and rapidly bringing to a head the situation which may force France off gold despite the certain political consequences.

American interests repatriating their funds threw francs on the market in large volume. In addition there was French buying of American securities, which had the same effect, an important influence in depressing the franc.

Aside from the pound and the franc, the movements of other leading currencies was favorable to the dollar. Canadian dollars closed at 93 cents in American funds as compared with 93.18¾ last week. The Italian lira dropped from 8.41 cents to 8.2 cents and the Dutch florin lost over a cent to close at 63.26. The German mark dropped from 38.20 to a close today of 37.31 cents.

LONDON PUZZLED

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Continued excitement prevailed today in the London financial district over the dollar, sterling, franc and gold prices, and no one in the market is yet able to predict what the eventual course may be.

Some British newspapers have been declaring that America's capacity to absorb gold is unlimited, but one leading international banker said that is just bunk. America's capacity for gold is limited by the willingness of sellers to take dollars in exchange, and when the European appetite for dollars is satisfied then America will not be able to buy any more gold.

Importers Pay Bills.

Much recent buying, this authority declared, was delayed buying by big British importers of cotton, tobacco and oil who did not pay their November and December bills because they expected dollars to become cheaper. They have made an excellent profit on the exchanges and are now buying dollars to settle up. When this is done much of America's capacity to absorb gold will be gone.

The exchange situation is puzzling the most experienced arbitrage dealers and is complicated by the political situation. On present gold prices and gold contents, the actual parity of the dollar and pound is $4.96, but the rate today was $4.93, which is accounted for by the continuing demand for dollars.

The franc situation is more puzzling. The gold price parity of the franc is 76 to the pound, but today the franc fell to 79.

Doubt of Gold Standard.

So far no action has been taken by the financial authorities of the city to curb speculation or regulate the wide fluctuations of the pound and dollar exchange for the reason that while it is admitted America is on some sort of a gold standard, what it is no one knows. Authorities therefore are adopting a waiting policy.

The British government still denies any communications about stabilization of exchange passing between the two governments and insists it is not going to take the initiative, but is in a receptive mood if America desires to make any proposals.

PUT "TEETH" IN BILL TO CONTROL STOCK MARKETS

Draft May Be Ready for Senate This Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The senate committee on banking and currency has adopted a policy of "full speed ahead" on the matter of legislation to regulate stock exchange and a bill with "teeth" in it probably will be introduced in the senate before the end of this week. Senator Fletcher, chairman of the committee, said today that the first draft of the bill is nearing completion.

The measure will provide for regulation through a license system, with the federal trade commission as the enforcing agency. The commission, under the bill, will have the widest possible discretionary powers in the matter of setting up rules and regulations for the control of stock exchanges.

President Roosevelt, said Senator Fletcher, wants stock exchange legislation disposed of without awaiting the conclusion of the investigation of the New York and other stock exchanges now pending before the committee.

Roosevelt's Suggestions Followed.

In general, the bill will follow the outlines of the President's interdepartmental stock exchange control board, which was sent to the committee last week by President Roosevelt. The major points and recommendations follow:

"1. To require that exchanges will receive a federal license as a condition permitting the use of the mails and of interstate commerce instrumentalities for transmitting their quotations in all communications respecting sales and other transactions.

"2. There should be established an administrative authority with broad discretionary powers to require the exchanges to adopt and enforce rules and regulations to establish a minimum standard of fair dealing.

"3. The adoption of satisfactory rules and regulations, which, in the event of violation, would give the federal agency authority either to deprive such an exchange of its license or to suspend it or fine it, or to require a change in its personnel.

"4. The study recommends that the stock exchange rules governing such matters as pools, margin trading, specialists, short selling, listing requirements, retailing methods, reports and accounting shall not be set forth in detail in the statute, but shall be left to be prescribed by the administrative agency.

Wants Pools Made Crime.

Fletcher said pool operations should be made a criminal offense.

"We ought to prohibit pools, not merely regulate them," Fletcher said with emphasis. "We should make it a criminal offense to engage in pool operations, with a fine and imprisonment as the penalty.

"We also have got to deal with marginal accounts and provide that brokers can't deal for themselves in stocks they are buying and selling for customers. Also we have got to deal with the specialists. Marginal trading should not be prohibited altogether, but limited and regulated."

TREADWAY RAPS ICKES' PLAN FOR NEW TAX ON OIL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—A proposal to the house ways and means committee today from Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, for a new tax on oil collectable at the well and refinery was challenged tonight by Representative Treadway, ranking Republican member.

Ickes recommended as an amendment to the general tax bill before the committee, doubling of the tariff on all oil from ½ cent to 1 cent a gallon, or from 21 to 42 cents a barrel, and proposed that a domestic tax be levied of one-fifth of a cent a barrel at the well and another fifth at the refinery to be used by the oil administration. He explained it would help curb production of illegally produced oil by giving a more effective check on oil at the well and refinery.

Treadway, in a statement, said that every other industry thus far under the NRA was assessed to pay for administration of its code.

"The tax would not be borne by the producers but would be passed on by them to the consumers," he said. "If it were proper to tax oil consumers for the oil code enforcement, it would be equally fair to levy a tax to pay for the enforcement of all codes."

ALLIS-CHALMERS HAS 1933 LOSS OF $2,893,905

Net loss of $2,893,905 for 1933 was reported yesterday in a preliminary report of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company. This compares with 1932 loss of $2,955,042. Operating loss before interest, depreciation and adjustments was $1,462,694, against loss of $1,353,326 in 1932.

Billings last year aggregated $13,286,767 against $14,764,063 in the previous year, while unfilled orders at the end of the year amounted to $6,425,998, compared with $5,441,825 a year earlier.

WHEAT DEMAND INCREASES AND PRICES MOVE UP

Visible Supply Total Is Steadily Falling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A slight increase in outside speculative interest in the grain markets was apparent yesterday and the volume of business was larger than the range of prices indicated. A good part of the buying was regarded as based on the strength in stocks. Wheat closed at net gains of ½ to ⅝ cent. Corn was ⅝ cent higher, oats unchanged, rye ½ to ⅝ cent higher and barley ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower.

May wheat closed at 92¾ to 92⅞ cents, May corn at 52⅞ to 53 cents, oats at 38⅛ to 38¼ cents, rye at 63 cents and barley 52½ cents.

Winnipeg wheat was sold by Chicago interests who were credited with buying here, and the Canadian market was ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower at the close. Liverpool gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent for the day.

Visible Supply Decreasing.

The domestic visible supply of wheat is steadily decreasing. The reduction in the last week was 2,816,000 bushels, making the total 109,519,000 bushels, the smallest at this season since 1928. The total compares with 151,138,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn stocks increased 206,000 bushels and totaled 65,352,000 bushels against 38,819,000 bushels a year ago.

The domestic wheat situation is working into a much stronger statistical position, according to Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician, and if the consumption continues at the present rate the carryover at the end of the current crop year may be down to about 240,000,000 bushels. This will compare with 384,000,000 bushels as officially estimated on July 1, 1933, and will be the smallest since 1929.

Disappearance Lighter.

"Supplies of wheat in all positions on Jan. 1, largely based on official data," said Mr. Murray, "were 557,000,000 bushels compared with 700,000,000 bushels a year ago. This suggested a disappearance of 436,000,000 bushels during the first half of the crop year or 80,000,000 bushels less than in 1932. The lighter disappearance was due almost entirely to limited exports and lessened feeding to live stock. The apparent domestic consumption, including seed, appears to have been around 387,000,000 bushels, or only 13,000,000 bushels under that of the previous season. This is surprising in view of the fact there is a processing tax of 30 cents per bushel levied on wheat.

"If the disappearance of wheat during the last half of the crop year equals that of the previous season, or 316,000,000 bushels, we should have on hand July 1, 1934, around 240,000,000 bushels, or 144,000,000 bushels under the record figure of 1933."

Dillinger Guarded by Fifty Deputies as He Appears in Court—Charge Rioters in Paris; Troops on Duty

[Acme Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

SPECTACULAR FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH RAILWAY YARDS; GASOLINE TANK CARS EXPLODE AND BURN. Scene last night in the Proviso yards of the North Western on the far west side as tank cars were in flames. Five cars containing 40,000 gallons were destroyed by spectacular blaze which lighted up territory for many square miles. The damage was estimated at $50,000. (Story on page 2.)

WIFE WINS DIVORCE FROM BRITISH ACTOR. Mrs. Laura Crowden, the former Mrs. George J. Gould, and Roy Charles Crowden, known on stage as Roy Royston. Mrs. Crowden won decree in London yesterday on adultery charge.
